SOCIETY IS AGOG OVER SHOOTING

INTRUDER LOSES EAR

Avenger Who Is General Foreman of Westinghouse Plant Gives Himself Up.

ALL PARTIES ARE PROMINENT

"Go back into the house—you will find a corpse awaiting you."

So declared Frank T. Smale, general foreman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, as he passed his wife in front of their home in Mill street, Wilkinsburg, yesterday afternoon, after shooting Claude W. Barnhardt whom he found in a bedroom upon unexpectedly returning home. Barnhardt was not seriously wounded, but the shooting created a sensation that has shaken staid Wilkinsburg to its very social foundation. All parties connected with the affair are prominent.

Barnhardt, who is 28 years old, is yardmaster for the Pennsylvania railroad at East Pittsburgh, and is unmarried, living with a sister at 916 Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg. The Smales have two children, boys, aged 10 and 12. It was reported in Wilkinsburg last night that Smale has long entertained suspicions against Barnhardt, and left the Westinghouse works at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two hours earlier than usual.

Arriving at his home he found all doors locked and blinds drawn. With some difficulty he gained entrance, and going to the second floor saw a man enter a bedroom and close the door. Smale forced open the door and fired a shot at the man, who fell when struck. Leaving the house en route to the police station to give himself up, Smale met his wife and two boys, who were leaving. He then suggested that she return to find a corpse.

Barnhardt escaped serious injury by a narrow margin. The bullet from a 32-caliber revolver grazed his left temple, leaving a furrow along the side of his head and tearing away a portion of his left ear.

After Smale had been locked up the police found Barnhardt at his home, where he was given medical attention. Mrs. Smale and her children also took refuge in the Barnhardt home and remained there until a late hour last night. When seen last night Barnhardt admitted being in the Smale home, but declared that he was there for proper purposes. Mrs. Smale accused her husband of unnecessary jealousy, and said that he had threatened to shoot her on several occasions.

As he entered the police station Smale declared to Chief of Police Doran: "I arrived home earlier than usual today and fouid the house locked. I finally got in, and going upstairs saw a strange man in the bedroom. I entered and fired one shot at the man and saw him fall. I have always thought the world of my wife and had never suspected her of doing wrong."

BRIDE, A WIDOW, MOTHER, CORPSE IN TEN MONTHS

Mrs. Mildred Wigely Dies—Day of Wedded Bliss, Cut Short by Tragedy—Baby an Orphan.

A Sheraden home is in mourning over the untimely passing away of a favorite niece. When Mildred Wigley, aged 26, was married last May to Clarence E. Dye there was not a cloud to darken the young couple's bliss. Today the girl lies a corpse, in 10 months a bride, a widow, a mother. She died at the home of her uncle, E. E. Over. Her father and brother live in Pittsburgh.

Dye was a brakeman on the Panhandle railroad. Last November he was knocked off the top of a freight car at the high bridge, near Carnegie, upon the ice in Chartiers creek, and killed. A few days ago a child was born, and on Wednesday night the mother died.

NOT AFRAID OF CARS.

"Pud" Carroll Stops Two With His Body and Comes Smilingly from Both Collisions.

Twice this week Jeremiah Carroll, known in the Twelfth ward as "Pud," tried to stop street cars with his body, and his acquaintances are speculating as to which was the most seriously injured, "Pud" or the car. Tuesday evening he was struck while crossing Penn avenue at Seventeenth street. He was carried to a physician's office and as it was thought he was dying, a priest was summoned. But "Pud" rallied rapidly at the West Penn hospital, and on Wednesday was discharged.

Yesterday afternoon he again got in front of a car at Penn avenue and Thirteenth street, was knocked down and narrowly escaped being dragged under the wheels. He was taken to a nearby drug store where a few pieces of courtplaster repaired all damage, and he left smiling.

MARRIED TO A NEGRO.

Pretty English Actress Choses a Dusky Husband to Escape Deportation.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—Miss Ivy St. Clair, an English girl, and Frank West, a negro, were married today in the presence of a representative of Uncle Sam by Magistrate Coward.

A few hours before deportation stared her in the face. She had no money and but one suit. It was a case of marry or go back. She took the former course with the stipulation that "If he doesn't treat me right I'll go back to the stage."

Getting Together, but Looking Cross.

NO LONGER WILL MOTORS CAUSE A TURNED-UP NOSE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—Baroness Heigelmueller, wife of the ambassador from Austria-Hungary, created a sensation among local automobilists by running a heavy touring car which leaves behind it a delightful odor suggesting burning incense, which completely dispels the obnoxious smell of gasolene.

The baroness is the undisputed social leader in the diplomatic set, in addition to being an enthusiastic and skillful motorist. She is acknowledged to be one of the best dressed women at the national capital, and she is clever in the introduction of new fads.

For the present she has declined to impart the secret of perfuming her automobile. As she drives her machine rapidly through the streets and over the beautiful roadways which surround the city, there is neither disgusting smell nor smoke in her trail. She enjoys the exclusiveness of her new fad and smilingly says that by and by the process will become popular throughout the automobile world.

GIRL'S PRAYER ANSWERED.

State Senator Green Promptly Telegraphs This Fact When Verdict of Acquittal Is Found.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—George E. Green, a former state senator of New York, who has been on trial for more than two weeks on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the sale of time-recording clocks to the postoffice department, was today acquitted. The announcement of the verdict this afternoon was followed by a remarkable demonstration. Many rushed toward the table and for several minutes he was kept busy shaking hands.

Mr. Green's first act was to telephone his wife. He also sent a telegram to a little girl in Schnectady, N. Y., who had written him that she had prayed for him, telling her that her prayers had been answered.

GET RAISE BY MISTAKE.

Negro Shoe Shiners and Coat Brushers to Receive $10 Increase Through Misunderstanding.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—By mistake, several days ago, Mr. Hughes (W. Va.) favorably reported to the house from the committee on accounts a resolution increasing from $60 to $70 a month the salaries of four new cloakroom men whose duties are to hang up coats and hats of members and shine their shoes. The resolution was agreed to at once.

Just as the resolution was announced Mr. Hughes realized that he had been directed by the committee to report the resolution negatively. Today he moved to reconsider the action. This motion was laid on the table by a vote of 96 to 41, thus affirming the increases.

JOY IS CUT SHORT.

Farmer Throws Out Telephone When He Learns He Must Pay for Long Distance Talk.

WINSTED, CONN., March 8.—(Special.)—A farmer named Scott, living on the outskirts of Lee had a Farmers' Exchange telephone put in his house for which he was to pay $4.50 per quarter.

He and his family were so delighted with the instrument that they used the telephone to visit with relatives and friends in Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut, instead of writing. They also invited in their neighbors to share the blessing with them. Instead of getting a bill for $4.50 for the quarter, Scott received one for $32, which he paid and then ordered the 'phone taken out.

"BLACK HAND" AGITATOR LANDED BY GOVERNMENT

HONESDALE, March 8.—Julius Moll, a tailor and a local leader of Socialists, was arrested today by deputy United States marshals, charged with sending "black hand" blackmailing letters to business men and women demanding money. He was detected by marked postage stamps sold at the Honesdale postoffice. He was taken to Scranton and held under $5,000 bail, which he was unable to furnish.

GIRL PULLS THE NOSES OF HER TWO PURSUERS

Pretty Mrs. Nellie Roman, aged 23, handsomely dressed and wearing magnificent diamonds, caused a sensation in Federal street, Allegheny, at 6 o'clock last evening by pulling the noses of her husband, Nicholas Roman, and her brother-in-law, Emil Besnot.

The men had tracked the woman and her companion, Louis Ladas, thousands of miles since they eloped from Chicago on New Year's eve, just a week after the pretty woman was wedded to Roman. The marriage took place on Christmas eve.

Ladas and Mrs. Roman were caught just as they were leaving a cafe, whereupon the woman attacked her husband and brother-in-law, who were rescued by officers with warrants for the fugitives, issued by Justice Campbell of Bellevue. Ladas was sued by Roman yesterday for $10,000 for alienating the affections of the plaintiff's wife, and a capais was issued for the defendant's arrest. Ladas went to jail, but Mrs. Roman was released on $500 bail.

Besnot, who is a Chicago hotel proprietor, and husband of Mrs. Roman's sister, says the fair fugitive married Roman, who is also a hotel proprietor, after a courtship of but a few weeks, following a year of widowhood. Her first husband, Joseph Argarst, was a passenger brakeman on the Illinois Central, and the two were married at Owensburg, Ky., the woman's home. He met death in a wreck near Chicago within a year, leaving her his savings and $5,000 life insurance. In a suit against the railroad company she was awarded a verdict for $7,500.

Besnot says Ladas was a waiter at the Auditorium hotel, and it was while Roman and Besnot, with their wives, were dining there that a flirtation started that led to the elopement. Besnot and the husband tracked the couple to Pittsburgh, New York, Albany, Owensburg, Chicago and back to Pittsburg. In the meantime the woman drew her money from a Chicago bank and spent most of it.

Mrs. Roman declares her sister and Besnot conspired to marry her to Roman so that he should get her money. She promises to give sensational testimoney at the hearing before Justice Campbell.

YELL MURDER! WILD SHOTS; MAN MAIMED

Excitable Policemen Cause Fellow-Officer to Use Gun and Fugitive Crippled for Life.

"Murder! Murder! Stop him, he's killed a man!" yelled three excited policemen and a still more excited mob, as they pursued Elmer Singleton, a negro, in Ann street.

John Dunn is the policeman on the beat. Hearing the cries of "murder," and seeing Singleton running, he called on the negro to stop. Singleton only ran the faster. Dunn drew his revolver and fired twice, the second shot striking Singleton above the left ankle, bringing him down.

"Who did he kill?" asked Dunn of Policemen James Clark, Dennis Duffy and Mathew, who had arrived, out of breath.

"Oh, he didn't kill anybody; we have a warrant for him for being an officer of the Dolphin club at 142 Elm street."

Policeman Dunn's remarks were pointed. He wanted to know why the excited policemen yelled "murder," causing him to use his revolver, which he would not have done had he not thought the man was an escaping murderer. There was no reply.

Singleton was taken to the Mercy hospital. One of his ankle bones is splintered and he will be crippled for life.

The policemen had been given warrants for the arrests of officers of several negro clubs on the hill. The authorities say these clubs are illegal, but the members claim they are properly chartered. The legal question involved has not been settled. Several arrests were made last evening, but when Singleton saw the policemen he ran and the shooting followed.

SMASHUP OF MOTOR KILLS NOBLEWOMAN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ROME, March 8.—The Marchioness of Gorsini, formerly Princess Barberini, was killed this evening by the overturning of an automobile in which she was riding with her husband, King Victor Emmanuel's master of horse. The marchioness, who was 62 years old, was driving the automobile, her husband, aged 69, sitting besides her.

The news of the accident was telephoned to Rome where it came to the ears of Queen Helena. Her majesty immediately ordered her own automobile and hastened to the scene where she found the marquis almost crazed with grief, besides the corpse of his wife.

The queen took the marquis and the dead body of the marchioness into her car and carried them to the Quirinal, where they still remain.

It is believed the funeral of the marchioness will take place from the palace.

"LIVE COALS" IN CHUTE.

Boy Playing on Gondola Car Shot Into Pile of Anthracite and Is Rescued Unhurt.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 8.—(Special.)—Edward Lawler, 11 years old, went through a coal chute yesterday when a pocket in a gondola car was opened and lay for 20 minutes under tons of anthracite before policemen could dig him out. The boy was playing on top of the car. When the pocket was opened the coal shot through and carried the lad with it.

As fast as policemen dug away the coal more fell and they were 10 minutes uncovering him. He aided the workers by shouting. Not a scratch was found on his body. He suffered no pain except from a strained back caused by policemen pulling his legs to free him.

TARTARS AND COSSACKS HAVE A FATAL BATTLE

TIFLIS, TRANSCAUCAUSIA, March 8.—Tartars of the village of Aliatlou today fired on a detachment of Cossacks. The latter bombarded the village for three hours and dislodged the Tartars, killing several of them.

Think They Have Saloons Enough.

The Sharpsburg pastors have decided to file remonstrances against four new applications for license which it is said are about to be made. The preachers think that there are too many saloons in the borough now.

Kills Bride of Six Weeks.

AUGUSTA, GA., March 8.—M. L. Cohen, a young Hebrew, who was married here six weeks ago, today shot and killed his wife and then killed himself. They came from Savannah a few days ago.

FRENCH CRISIS NOT FATAL TO FORMER PLANS

Trouble Securing Ministry Has No Effect at Algeciras. Rouvier Hopeful.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PARIS, March 8.—President Fallieres' efforts to induce one or other of the several statesmen with whom he conferred today to undertake the task of forming a cabinet have not yet borne result. M. Sarrien, who declined either the premiership or a portfolio, suggested M. Bourgeois, whom M. Dubost, president of the senate, and M. Doumer, president of the chamber of deputies, also put forward.

M. Bourgeois declared that he did not feel physically strong enough to undertake the premiership, but would consent to accept the foreign portfolio under M. Sarrien, whom he thought the best fitted. President Fallieres refused to accept the decision of either, but both persist in declaring that they will not undertake the task of the formation of a ministry.

It is understood that M. Poincarre will be called to the Elysee tomorrow, and the indications are that a cabinet under his leadership will be acceptable to the advanced Republican groups. Mr. Ribout's name also is mentioned. M. Doumer also suggested M. Millerand.

Members of the chamber of deputies foresee a possibility of the crisis lasting six or eight days, owing to the difficulty of finding a man sufficiently strong to cope with the pending serious internal and external problems.

A strong reaction has set in in favor of M. Rouvier. The newspapers today severely criticises the action of the chamber of deputies in defeating him when he was performing a patriotic duty which promised to produce the most notable diplomatic success of recent years.

It has now become evident that France will not waver in her policy in the conference at Algeciras. M. Revoil's only instructions are those given before the ministry's fall, to stand firm, and these cannot be modified until the formation of the new ministry.

M. Rouvier appears to think a Franco-German agreement is in sight. He said today to a friend: "Like Jules Ferry, my success will be realized after I was defeted."

SURPRISE FOR "FITZ."

Punches Man Who Stole His French Poodle and Is Sued for Damages.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 8.—(Special.)—"Well, that's what I call nerve," said "Bob" Fitzsimmons, the pugilist today, when papers were served on him informing him that Michael Haggerty, who is alleged to have stolen his $500 French poodle, had begun suit for $500 for a mere punch on the jaw, which Fitzsimmons had given him. Haggerty was arrested and charged with grand larceny in stealing the dog, but "Fitz" would not prosecute him when he heard Haggerty's children cry.

After his act at the theater he went into a saloon (to thank the proprietor for a favor) and there he met Haggerty and a friend of his named O'Donnell. Haggerty abused the pugilist and "Fitz" just let one of his sleep producers slide out and Haggerty went in a heap on the floor. O'Donnell interferred and got a similar dose.

BIG DAMAGES FOR LAD.

Boy of Six Awarded $10,000 Against Wife of New York Broker Whose Automobile Ran Him Over.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., March 8.—(Special.)—John Myson, 6 years old, of New York, was awarded a verdict of $10,000 against Mrs. Eveline K. Hollins, wife of H. B. Hollins, a broker of New York. Myson was knocked down by the defendant's automobile February 27, 1905. He was caught between the wheels and dragged. His scalp was torn off, his skull was fractured and he sustained a compound fracture of the left arm.

He was six months in a hospital, and physicians testified that his heart was affected by his injuries, and any excitement was liable to kill him. Mrs. Hollins is in Europe. The lad sued through a guardian for $20,000.

Lucky Man's Unlucky Day.

BUCYRUS, O., March 8.—Ray Frey, baggage master at the Pennsylvania depot, found a diamond stud six weeks ago which was valued at $200. After advertising for 30 days for the owner Frey began to wear the diamond and today lost it.

The Peculiar European Affliction.

NEW MAN IN BLACK ASSUMES THE ROLL OF A HIGHWAYMAN

Holds Up A. R. Fritz in Friendship Ave. and, With Revolver, Makes Sinister Threats.

The "Man in Black" who has been operating in the East End for the past 10 days has shifted his work from burglar to highwayman. A. R. Fritz of 642 Maryland avenue, was coming down Friendship avenue shortly after midnight Wednesday. Coming up the avenue was the "Man in Black." He had both hands in his coat pocket, and as Fritz approached, stopped him and asked for a match. Fritz was out of matches and attempted to pass him.

"Hold on a minute, said the robber, at the same time pushing a revolver into Fritz's face.

The highwayman then robbed his victim of a gold watch and chain, and all the money he had about him, beside several small articles of jewelry.

After taking all his victim had the "Man in Black" said: "Get home; if you try to follow me I will blow your head off."

About two weeks ago this same robber entered the residence of a family in Roup street. He was discovered in one of the bedrooms but was scared away, after telling the woman of the house he was sorry to disturb her repose. A daughter of the family was sick with typhoid fever at the time, and the fright given her by the burglar is said to have caused her death a short time later.

KING TAKES A LONG STROLL.

Negro on the South Side Believes He Is Monarch of All China and Is Arrested.

The king of China was loose on the South Side last evening and might yet be wandering around the city without a place to sleep had not Officer Kirdosky offered him the courtesy of the municipality in the shape of a cell at the police station.

The king, who in reality is Nathaniel Hedgpath, a negro, was found at South Twelfth and Carson street, surrounded by a small army of boys. Around his neck hung the sign of a well-known express company, and his majesty was having quite a stroll followed by his retinue. When searched at the police station articles of about every description were found on his person from a pair of shoe strings to imitation gold certificates of stock in a mining company. These his majesty offered for sale for the small sum of 25 cents. He explained that before becoming a king he had been Nathaniel Hedgpath, but could not tell where he lived or what brand he smoked.

GEISLER'S DOUBLE CAT.

Freak of Nature Well Supplied With Legs and Tails—Curious Crowds Flock to House.

A cat with nearly 18 lives was a show piece at the home of Philip Geisler of Pius street, the last few days, but to the relief of the owner and his family the animal died yesterday. It was a double cat, and all its lives were short ones.

This freak of nature had one head, but other organs and members made up in number enough to supply two cats. The beast was born with two entire bodies, from the neck down, eight legs and two tails. For three days curious neighbors pestered the Geislers by crowding in to see the strange animal. The cat was found on Monday in the Geisler cellar. Last night it passed away.

MAN IS HER SUPERIOR.

Dr. Max Meyer Says Woman Is the Less Intelligent, but That the Ratio May Change.

COLUMBIA, MO., March 8.—Dr. Max Meyer, professor of psychology, in an address before the students of the Missouri university this morning, declared that a man is more intelligent than a woman in the ratio of 44 to 33. The statement was greeted with applause by the men in the audience.

Dr. Meyer hastened to add that the investigations along this line had just begun and that the ratio at any time might be changed to favor the women.

Accept Midshipman's Resignation.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., March 8.—The resignation was accepted today of Midshipman Adrian B. Cather of West Virginia, a member of the fourth class.

MYSTERIOUS VISITORS OF PRESIDENT

LIPS ARE SEALED

INTERESTED IN LEGISLATION

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, March 8.

H. H. Rogers, vice president of the Standard Oil Company, and James H. Archbold, treasurer of the same corporation, came here this evening and made a call on President Roosevelt in the White House.

Relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the Standard Oil Company have been strained since February, 1905, when the President made public certain telegrams sent by Standard Oil officials to members of the senate which had come into his possession and which strongly objected to the passage of the then pending anti-trust bill. The effect of the publication of these telegrams was to pass the bill, and the Standard officials were reported frequently during the campaign in 1904 as seeking in various ways to defeat the election of Mr. Roosevelt.

It is even reported during that campaign that Mr. Roosevelt especially requested Chairman Cortelyou and Treasurer Bliss of the Republican national committee under no circumstances to accept one cent of Mr. Rogers' money.

Messrs. Rogers and Archbold registered at the Arlington hotel, where they had dinner. They drove to the White house a little before 10 o'clock and remained about an hour, when they walked back to their hotel.

"Was your business with the President or with members of the cabinet?" Mr. Rogers was asked.

"Not a word," replied Mr. Rogers.

"Will you say whether your visit was about the investigation of the Standard Oil Company, which is about to be undertaken by the interstate commerce commission?"

"I cannot say a word."

Mr. Archbold was also asked whether the visit had reference to the inquiries of the government about the operations of the Standard Oil Company.

"I can say nothing at all," said Mr. Archbold, "nothing at all."

A singular coincidence commented on tonight was that Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress only yesterday a message, in which he said the department of commerce and labor had been conducting an investigation into the operations of the Standard Oil Company and the anthracite coal combination, and today Mr. Rogers and Mr. Archbold appear at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt has done many singular and impulsive things during his career, but it is not believed the visit of the Standard Oil officials was on his invitation.

GIRL TURNS KISSER.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—(Special.)—Darby, Pa., has produced a rival to "Jack, the Kisser." "Kitty, the Kisserine," the police call her, and those who saw her before Magistrate Kochersperger wondered why a lawyer, who caused her arrest for saluting him affectionately in the street, objected. He complained to a policeman that he had to use force to get away from her.

An hour later the policeman saw Miss Jordan embrace and kiss a youth at Tenth and Walnut streets, who was astonished and ran away. An old man was next embraced and he seemed to enjoy it. The policeman then arrested her. She pleaded hard and was discharged on her promise to be good.

NOT SUCH A FOOL.

Prisoner Ignores Counsel and Judge and Calls Himself "Fool" but Not Murderer—Is Acquitted.

TRENTON, N. J., March 8.—(Special.) Charles Green, charged with the murder of James McCrosson, a fellow member of the notorious sea hawk gang, with headquarters along the Delaware river, was acquitted this afternoon by a plea he made to the judge. Ignoring the advice of his counsel and even the commands of the judge, Green persisted in pleading rather than testifying and before he could be silenced he had exclaimed dramatically: "Gentlemen, you see a fool before you, but not a murderer."

Half an hour later he was a free man with his wife and little daughter and his sister embracing him and weeping hysterically. Green was in jail since last August when McCrosson was beaten to death.

NOW HIS GATE IS MISSING.

First Mr. Rockefeller Disappears and Then the Great Barrier to the Curious Drops from Sight.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 8.—(Special.)—Somebody carried away a 20-foot gate that barred the roadway to Ridge avenue leading to John D. Rockefeller's country home last night. Although two watchmen guard the Rockefeller place at night, neither of them knew of the disappearance of the gate until this morning.

The gate was a ponderous affair, built to keep out the village "hackers," who caused Mr. Rockefeller much annoyance last autumn by driving over his golf links with sightseers. The "hackers" would point out some workman as Mr. Rockefeller, and the sightseers would promptly snapshot him.

GOMPERS TO AID MINERS' STRIKE

ORGANIZING COKE REGION

NEW YORK, March 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, held a long secret conference at the Ashland house, at which they discussed the threatened coal strike today. Should a coal strike take place Gompers will call a meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and levy a per capita assessment on the 2,000,000 members of the federation in support of the strikers. Gompers said after his conference with Mitchell:

"I conferred with Mr. Mitchell concerning the coal trouble. Mr. Mitchell has convinced me that the miners are justified in making their new demands. The American Federation of Labor will support the United Mine Workers of America in every way possible. It is pledged to render the mine workers every support. I have known John Mitchell intimately since he was a very young man, and will do the best I can for John and the miners. Mitchell has always been an honest and able labor leader. He has made me thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the situation in the coal trade up to date."

When asked if he thought there would be a coal strike Gompers said:

"I hope for peace."

Mitchell announced tonight that he would attend the National Mine Workers' convention at Indianapolis next Thursday. "The convention," he said, "may last several days. The meeting of the bituminous operators will take place March 19, after which a meeting of the bituminous operators and the miners' representatives will very likely be called. No date for the meeting has as yet been decided on. It will be some time before the miners' representatives confer with the anthracite operators."

Representatives of the soft coal operators said today that the action to be taken by the latter on the miners' demand will be dictated by the operators' national convention at Indianapolis.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—A final effort is to be made to organize the miners of the Connellsville region before the prospective strike of the United Mine Workers of America. Tyrone hall at Everson has been leased for April 5, 6 and 7 for the purpose of holding a convention of all the miners of the Connellsville field.

IRWIN, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—The first demonstration by the striking miners against the men at work in the Penn mine took place this afternoon. About 40 men are at work. When the latter left the pit they were met by the strikers, the latter having tin horns and other noise producers. For a time it looked as if the men would clash, but cool heads averted trouble. Steps are being taken to protect those at work.

DUQUOIN, ILL., March 8.—A race riot over labor differences occurred here last night between negroes and Hungarians employed in the coal mine at Zeigler, and several combatants on both sides received injuries, but no deaths have been reported. Guns, knives, razors and clubs were brought into play.

It is feared only temporary quietness has been restored.

CLEVELAND, O., March 8.—A conference of the coal operators of Ohio was held here today for the purpose of discussing the demands of the miners for an advance in wages. About 150 operators, representing every branch of the coal interests of the state, were present. J. H. Winder of Columbus presided. The conference was held behind closed doors. The only statement made public was that no formal action was taken, but that those present were unanimous against the proposed increase of 5.55 per cent in miners' wages. Several hot speeches were made against any increase.

It was decided to send a delegation of 100 operators to the district convention to be held at Indianapolis March 19. The delegation was instructed to oppose any advance in the present wage scale.

"Pat" Dolan Denounced.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 8.—The convention of Indiana miners today voted $500 to aid the accused officials of the Western Federation of Miners to help out organized labor. Former President Dolan of the Pittsburgh district was denounced by a resolution.

Watchman Averts a Wreck.

LATROBE, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—The prompt action of George Klear, night watchman for the Pennsylvania railroad between Beatty and Loyalhanna, averted a wreck last night. Just after a heavy freight train had passed Klear discovered a broken rail. The 24-hour special was due in a few minutes, and he succeeded in stopping the train within a few hundred feet of the broken rail.

To Increase Capitalization.

Application for an amended charter to increase the capitalization from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000 was made at the state department in Dover, Del., yesterday by the Treasury Tunnel Mining Company of this city. The incorporators are James McKisic and H. J. Hammond of Pittsburgh and Gardner W. Kimble of Wilmington, Del.

INSURANCE MEN ARE INDICTED

OFFICIALS GATHER AT ALBANY

NEW YORK, March 8.—Indictments charging grand larceny in the first degree and forgery in the third degree by Frederick A. Burnham, president; George D. Eldridge, first vice president, and George Burnham, Jr., second vice president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, were found by the grand jury today. In all five indictments were brought against each officer, two for grand larceny and three for forgery. The alleged larceny and forgery was brought about, according to the indictments, by payments of $9,000 of the company's money to law firms, the apparent purpose of which is alleged to have been to settle claims against the company, while the real object is alleged to have been to settle actions which had been brought against officers of the company as individuals.

The indictments on which a charge of larceny is based alleged that the officers embezzled two sums, one of $7,500 and the other of $1,500, on October 24, 1901. The three officers appeared in the court of general sessions, where Judge O'Sullivan fixed their bail at $12,500 for each and fixed upon next Thursday as the time for pleading.

The heads of the leading insurance companies have completed their program for tomorrow's hearing before the legislature at Albany. Presidents Morton of the Equitable, Peabody of the Mutual Life, and Orr of the New York Life, and other high officials of the companies, accompanied by counsel, will be in attendance. Mr. Morton will speak on the subject of insurance company investments, and it is understood that he will offer some decided objection to the recommendations of the Armstrong committee.

Insurance men are gathering from all over the state at Albany. There are five underwriters' associations in the state. These associations have united for the fight against those portions of the bills that are objectionable to them.

The annual report of the Mutual Life Insurance Company for 1905 to the insurance department at Albany shows that the company issued during that year new insurance amounting to $181,662,643, as against $229,582,429 in 1904.

CARRIES HIS AUDIENCE BACK TO OLD SEVILLE

The farther Dwight Elmendorf takes his audiences with him on his trips through Africa and the Spanish portion of Europe the more delighted they become. From the first lecture, which was on Algiers and Tunis, up to the one last evening which was on Morocco, and from Tangier to Seville, each succeeding one has been more delightful than the one preceding it. Mr. Elmendorf has a personality which in itself is charming and the manner in which he has delivered his four lectures in Pittsburgh has won for him many admirers.

The fine views which Mr. Elmendorf displays are extremely interesting and they are made more so by the novel method he has in getting them with his "cross-eyed" camera. The motion pictures show the life in the different cities exactly as it takes place and this wonderful invention has been made good use of by the traveler and lecturer. The reproduction of the bull fight at Seville was one of the best things which has been shown in the city for some time.

It is doubtful if a more delighted audience has attended a lecture on travel in this city than that which heard Mr. Elmendorf last evening and it is certain by the manner in which his lecture was received he has made friends of every member of it. The lecture last evening was the fourth and next to the last one. The last one will be on the evening of March 15 and will cover Spain from Seville to Granada. This lecture will contain more of the fine descriptive work of Mr. Elmendorf, hundreds of beautiful views and several of the motion pictures.

BEAVER JAIL UNSAFE: CUSPIDORS ARE FILTHY

Grand Jury Starts Things in Reporting Conditions to Judge Holt—Prompt Action Advised.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BEAVER, March 8.—The Beaver county jail is not a safe place to keep prisoners, according to the report rendered the court by the grand jury today. The report says that the rear door leading to the jail yard is insecure; that the stairway to the dungeon is unsafe and that some of the bars in cell No. 1 on the first tier are cut in two, while others are partially cut.

The condition of this cell, the grand jury says, make the whole jail unsafe, as it might allow one prisoner to get out into the corridor, overpower the guard and effect a wholesale jail delivery. The inquest recommends that the locks be replaced or repaired.

The report recommends that new cuspidors be placed in the corridors of the court house to replace the filthy sand boxes now in use.

PROTECT MISSIONAIRIES.

Commander of Chinese Army Sends Artillery to the Seat of American Presbyterian Board.

LONDON, March 8.—The correspondent of the Tribune at Pekin says that Yuan Shi Kai, commander-in-chief of the imperial Chinese forces, yesterday forwarded eighteen mountain guns from Tientsin to Shuntefu, 150 miles south of Pekin, in the province of Chi-Li.

Shuntefu is the seat of a mission of the American Presbyterian board and there are located Rev. Dr. J. L. Whiting and wife, Rev. E. C. Hawley and wife, Dr. G. W. Hamilton and wife and Dr. Louise Keator.

ANOTHER RAILROAD FOR CONNELLSVILLE

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—A large corps of Wabash railroad civil engineers today established headquarters in this place. The engineers are now working from Ohiopyle to Connellsville, where the line will leave the Youghiogheny river and extend down the valley parallel with the Pennsylvania railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio branch tracks to Uniontown for connection with the Uniontown & Wheeling short line.

WANTS SOCIALS HELD BY HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES

ALTOONA, March 8.—The discussion of "Reasons for Leaving High School—Remedies for Same," was held at today's session of the state superintendents' convention. Edward Ryneerson of the Pittsburgh High schools advocated holding dances, socials and parties in the High schools. Superintendent John A. Gibson of Butler also participated in the discussion.

Southern Editor Shot to Death.

SHREVEPORT, LA., March 8.—L. Stuckey, editor of the Peoples Demands, was shot and killed at Colfax, La., this morning by A. M. Goodwin, editor of the Colfax Chronicle. The cause of the tragedy was the publication of an article by Stuckey reflecting on the character of Goodwin. The shooting occurred on the station platform.

We have been taught the subject of economy from childhood. We, in turn, have extolled the merits of frugality to others. A savings account, bearing 4 per cent compound interest, with the Commonwealth Trust Company, in Fourth avenue, assists and stimulates greatly in one's efforts to save systematically, by the addition of a small sum every six months, which represents the accrued interest.

SCHWAB GIVES CHALLENGE BUT FAILS TO MAKE GOOD

Says He Can Outrun Any Man in Kansas and When Tried Only Goes Ten Yards—Asserts His Health Is Fine.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

TOPEKA, KAN., March 8.—"I can outrun any man in Kansas," said Charles M. Schwab, the steel millionaire, as he alighted from the Rock Island train here today. His challenge was not at once accepted, but J. McGee, a trackwalker for the Rock Island, who stood near, turned to the millionaire and asked: "And who might you be?"

"That doesn't matter," replied Mr. Schwab, "I am here to prove that I can out-run you."

The race started, but the contestants had gone scarcely 10 yards when Mr. Schwab stumbled and would have fallen had he not recovered his balance by catching hold of a support of the station platform. He dropped his fountain pen and pencil in the few yards he covered in the contest.

He went to the ticket window when he reached Topeka, and called for a newspaper. He seemed nervous, but entirely satisfied with himself.

He scowled when he read the newspaper accounts of his sickness, and throwing down the paper started to the platform, where he issued his challenge.

"I never felt better in my life," he declared. "I am all right, and the people back east will find that there is nothing wrong with me when I get off the train at New York."

NEVER KISSED MAN, NOT EVEN HUSBAND

Woman With Five Children Makes Startling Answer to Charge in Divorce Case.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 8.—"No, I was never kissed by a man in my life, and I never kissed a man, not even my husband," said Mrs. Elvira Liebe during the trial of her husband's suit before Vice Chancellor Emery in Newark today.

"You say you were never kissed?" she was asked.

"That's a fact. Even during our courtship I never kissed my husband, and he never kissed me."

Mrs. Liebe is the wife of Henry Liebe of Brooklyn. They have five children and have been married 27 years. The couple separated 18 years ago and had not met during that time until today, when they faced each other in court.

Mrs. Liebe, who was Miss Newell, said her mother was a niece of the late Peter Ballantine, a Newark brewer. Her husband owns some valuable property in Newark.

During the divorce suit Charles Sheridan was accused of being friendly with her, and the statement she had never been kissed was the answer to the charge.

MORE HOPE FOR RESULT IN MOROCCAN TANGLE

Sentiment at Algeciras Grows Brighter and Two Main Questions May Soon Be Settled.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ALGECIRAS, March 8.—Success of the conference on Moroccan reforms cannot be described as absolutely secure since two of the main points in dispute, the allotment of bank capital and control of the police, are not yet settled. Hopes run high that these outstanding difficulties soon will become subject to arrangements.

The French delegates show an inclination to regard the way as opened to an understanding, and the other delegates consider that a great forward step was made today when a strong spirit of conciliation became evident.

The delegates of the neutral powers generally regard the Austrian police proposal as not feasible, but consider that it will serve to provide a basis for negotiations.

The opinion gains ground that France finally will consent to a diminuation of her financial influence by accepting a reduction of the voting power allotted to French subscribers to former loans, and in return it is thought the police will be placed under the direction of France and Spain with a neutral inspecting officer.

RIOT FOLLOWS KILLING OF ITALIANS IN WRECK

Panic-Stricken Foreigners Attack Crew of Train That Killed Companions.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, PA., March 8.—One laborer was instantly killed this morning west of Radebaugh and two others died in the Westmoreland hospital, and 23, some of whom are not expected to live, injured, in a crash of trains on the Pennsylvania railroad. While seated in a coach which was being shifted from the County Home branch to the main line freight train No. 1095 ran into the rear coach of the laborer's train. One end of it was completely wrecked, and the occupants were buried in the debris.

The dead are Rocco Mushwon, 15 years old and married. Died in Westmoreland hospital. Orlono Rossi, 28 years old and single. Died in Westmoreland hospital, and Angelo Forge, 21 years old and single. Instantly killed.

Probably a dozen others who received minor injuries were able to walk to their camp. Over 200 Italians and Austrians were packed into the three coaches comprising the train. In crossing to the main line from the branch the extra freight in charge of Conductor E. P. Ryan, Donald of Latrobe and Engineer James Nessler of Youngwood, crashed into the train. Practically all in the rear half of the last coach were pinioned by debris. The wreckage caught fire and the flames were extinguished with great difficulty. The physicians of Greensburg were taken to the wreck by special train and the dead and dying were brought to Greensburg. The first terror of the disaster over the foreigners attempted to mob the crew of the extra freight. Conductor McDonald was chased into the cabin on his train. The foreigners attacked the caboose with stones, breaking every window and tearing the door from its hinges. McDonlad was compelled to draw his revolver, but the other members of the train crew and Americans employed on the construction of the pipe line were successful in rescuing him. Engineer Nessler was chased to Jeannette by the excited foreigners. The cause of the disaster cannot be fixed with certainty.

REMARK ANGERS FATHER.

Resents What Guest at Christening Said of the Baby and Uses Stiletto.

Joseph Trange, an Italian, was held by the coroner's jury yesterday to await the action of the grand jury. He is charged with the murder of Bernardo Carullo at 6249 Station street, January 14. Frank Castavgo and San Briolo were held as witnesses to the murder. Garullo and a number of other Italians attended a christening at Trange's. Carullo told Mrs. Trange that he hoped the baby would be a better looking man than its father. The remark angered Trange, who stabbed Carullo in the abdomen.

Joseph Welich, aged 30, a laborer, was run over and killed by a train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yesterday, near the City Farm station.

Charles Hoynowski, aged 25, a laborer of Orchard street, Schoenville, was crushed to death yesterday at the Pressed Steel Car works by a steel car frame falling on him.

MUTINEER IS KILLED.

Fourth Officer of Ship Shoots Leader Who Threatens Him With Marlinspike.

NEW YORK, March 8.—(Special.)—While intoxicated and frenzied firemen in open mutiny gathered menacingly about him, and their leader, James Slocum, held him pinioned to the deck of the vessel and was raising a marlinspike to brain him, Elmer H. Kerwin, fourth officer of the steamship Massachusetts of the American Hawaii Steamship Company lying in South Brooklyn, early today freed his right arm and, drawing his revolver, shot Slocum dead.

Slocum's death quieted the combatants, and when the reserves of the Fourth avenue police station arrived, the firemen and sailors had ceased their fighting and were looking about for means to bind up their wounds. Kerwin quietly submitted to arrest. Six firemen were arrested charged with assault.

Want Hero Medals for Sailors.

NEW YORK, March 8.—(Special.)—Capt. Dott of the schooner Eliza J. Pendleton, who with his men were rescued from the sinking vessel by a volunteer crew from the lumber schooner Anna E. Bishop, announced in Elizabeth, N. J., today that he, backed by strong influences, would try to obtain the Carnegie medals for the rescuers.

DIVORCE DECREE DOES NOT STAND

TRUST FUND MUST STAND

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, March 8.

Judge Garretson of the supreme court, Brooklyn, acting upon the petition of James P. McQuaide, well known in Pittsburgh steel circles, today ordered a reopening of the default in the suit for separation brought against him by Mrs. Sarah McQuaide, and directed that the case be tried in May in Rockland county, where the McQuaides maintain a residence.

Mr. McQuaide declared that he had not been cruel to his wife, as she alleged, but that the trouble was due to her extravagant ideas of living, which led them to spend $50,000 to $60,000 a year. It was explained that when the case came up last week before Judge Barr in special term, Mr. McQuaide did not appear, because he had not been notified.

It came out at the hearing that Mr. McQuaide, before he and his wife had their differences, had settled upon her the income of a specially created trust fund. This amounts to $333.33 a month, which she is still drawing. This was offered to refute Mrs. McQuaide's contention that she is threatened with want.

This trust Mr. McQuaide has expressed a determination to have set aside, but pending the trial of the suit Judge Garretson ordered that such action be stayed and the income will serve all the purposes of alimony.

According to Mr. McQuaide, his wife, with the children and two maids, is living in luxury at Atlantic City. This her counsel denies. He says that it is true she is in Atlantic City, but that she is in the care of a physician. Mrs. McQuaide, when in New York, makes her home at 151 Madison avenue. McQuaide has a fine country home at Nyack.

FIND HOARD IN BEER KEG.

Son of Imprisoned Farmer and His Pal Charged With Squandering His Father's Cache of Silver.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. VA., March 8.—(Special.)—Deputy Sheriff McIntyre arrested John Quinn and Sol Jet at Folsom today, charged with stealing several thousand dollars belonging to Quinn's father. The elder Quinn is in jail charged with throwing into the creek the infant child of a servant in his family after she accused him of its paternity. Mrs. Quinn is in jail as his accomplice.

Quinn placed several thousand dollars in silver in a beer keg and hid it in an old cave back of his residence, where it is said the two boys found it. They squandered several hundred dollars of the money before they were arrested.

ELLIS FAMILY MAKES ITS BED UNDER PILE OF TIES

Samuel Ellis, Sr., and his son Samuel, Jr., with three other children, were committed 20 days to jail by Justice W. F. Russell of Bridgeville, yesterday, on charges of vagrancy. The jail authorities refused to receive the three younger children on such commitment as they are all under 16. They will be brought in today for disposition by the juvenile court. The Ellises were found sleeping under a pile of ties on the Panhandle railroad near Bridgeville, and were arrested on complaint of residents.

Statehood Bill to Be Voted on Today.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Today afforded the last opportunity for general debate in the senate on the statehood bill. Starting with a speech by Mr. McCumber, which began a few minutes after 11 o'clock, there was no cessation in the speaking until the adjournment late in the evening. The whole time was occupied by three senators, Mr. Beveridge supporting the bill and Messrs. McCumber and Patterson opposing it. The final vote will be taken before adjournment today.

Quits When He Is Criticized.

NEW YORK, March 8.—John P. Haines, who for seventeen years has been president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, with headquarters in this city, resigned tonight. He says "that at my time of life and in my state of health I do not feel I am bound to continue a service which entails the endurance of a ceaseless stress of calumny and obloquy at the hands of people who have never before been known to care for animal protection."

Americans Arrested in London.

LONDON, March 8.—Harry Samuel Simons and Franklin Everhart, Americans, were arrested here today and were each remanded in $10,000 bail on charges of conspiracy and obtaining large sums of money by fraud. The prisoners who are described as stock and share brokers, are alleged to have issued forged shares and certificates of American mining companies.

ATTACK WARREN'S RIGHT TO SEARCH

VACCINATION SUITS STARTED

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Attorney General Carson heard arguments today on the question of the constitutionality of the office of dairy and food commissioner, held by B. H. Warren. The question was raised some time ago by a number of local grocers. Their case was presented today by D. J. Buckley of Pittsburgh, counsel for the Retail Grocers' association, and Representative John H. Fow. Commissioner Warren was present during the hearing, being represented by former Judge Gordon.

Attorney Buckley, in opening the case, said he wished to make it clear that there is no desire to attack Commissioner Warren personally. He held, however, that the powers conferred upon the commissioner are illegal and in violation of section 27 of article 3 of the constitution, which reads:

"No state office shall be continued or created for the inspection of measuring of any merchandise, manufacture or commodity, but any county or municipality may appoint such officers when authorized by law."

He then contended that the methods of the commissioner in sending his agents into stores or other places of business and taking samples of food for chemical analysis and the subsequent prosecution of the seller, if the goods proved to be adulterated, is transcending the police power of the state, and constitutes an inspection of the articles.

Judge Gordon, for the commissioner, emphatically denied that the procuring of samples constitutes an inspection. It is, he contended, the commissioner's only way of ascertaining if the pure food laws are being violated. The purchase of an article is made exactly the same as it would be by a consumer.

It was pointed out that the duty of administering the laws in question is upon the secretary of agriculture, and the dairy and food commissioner merely acts under his direction. If the act creating the dairy and food commission is bad, and his office illegal, the entire department of agriculture will be wiped out.

Attorney General Carson said he would hold the entire matter under advisement and will probably render a decision Monday.

FAVORITISM MARKED IN FEDERAL JOBS

Committee on Appropriations Adopts Rules to Wipe Out Power of Politics.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The house committee on appropriations today agreed to report a legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill carrying appropriations aggregating $28,154,181, as against $29,322,580 for 1906. The amount is a reduction of $1,125,573 from the estimates submitted by the departments. Salaries are carried for 65 persons less than were provided in the last bill and the number of salaries contemplated in the estimates was reduced 236.

The most radical limitation is designed to relieve the department payrolls of high-salaried aged clerks. It provides that no clerk over 65 years old is to receive more than $1,400 a year; no clerk over 68 years more than $1,200 and no clerk over 70 more than $840. After June 18, 1913, no person in the classified service more than 70 years old is to be retained.

Hereafter clerks shall not be transferred from one department to another unless they have served at least three years. Any changes in order and arrangement and transfers of salaries from one office to another are to be submitted in notes added to the estimates.

These restrictions are designed to prevent the advancement of favorite clerks to the disadvantage of employes equally competent but with less political backing.

WANTED IN WHEELING.

Promoter of Stock, Some of Which Pittsburghers Bought, Arrested in New York.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Charles A. Henderson, former vice president of the International Mercantile Agency, was arrested tonight on extradition papers issued in Wheeling, W. Va., and Albany, N. Y.

Three indictments have been found by the grand jury in Wheeling against Henderson. The complainant is William P. Hubbard, a lawyer. Hubbard's charge is that Henderson swindled him in the sale of a large block of the agency's stock.

The company undertook, prior to 1904, to do business in rivalry to Bradstreets and R. G. Dun & Co. Mr. Hubbard says that Henderson sold him the stock at $100 a share. It is charged that at that same time large blocks were being sold at $80 a share in Pittsburgh. Hubbard alleges that he lost $6,000.

Henderson, who described himself as a broker, was taken to police headquarters.

ENTERTAINS FARMERS.

F. M. Lowry Treats Tillers of the Soil to Dinner at the Harkaway Hunt Club House.

M'DONALD, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—Sixteen farmers and their wives were entertained at dinner at noon today at the club house of the Harkaway Hunt, and a still larger number will be guests at the club tomorrow. The dinners are given by F. M. Lowry, master of the hounds, in appreciation of the courtesy shown to the club members by the farmers over whose land the hunts are carried on. Special music was furnished by the Star quartet and the dinner was one of the finest that ever graced the club's table.

Speaking of the friendly relations between the hunters and the farmers over whose land they chase, Mr. Lowry said this evening: "You won't find a finer lot of people anywhere than the farmers in the McDonald neighborhood."

VERACITY ATTACKED.

Pastor at Ruffdale Charged With Misrepresentation in a Horse Deal.

GREENSBURG, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—The defense in the case of the Rev. C. E. Stoner of Ruffsdale against C. S. Funk of New Stanton, in which payment for a driving mare is sought, attacked the veracity of the preacher. The case is proving one of the most interesting in years. The Rev. Stoner is pastor of the First Reformed church at Ruffsdale, and alleges that he sold a horse to the defendant for $135.

He claims that the purchase price was never paid. Funk defends on the ground that he was to have the use of the mare for keeping it. The preacher had witnesses testify that his reputation for veracity is of the best.

NEED BIG SUM TO MAINTAIN ARMY

British War Secretary Asks the House of Commons for $150,000,000 to Support Fighters.

DISCUSSES NEED OF DEFENSE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, March 8.—In introducing the army estimates, amounting to nearly $150,000,000, in the house of commons today, War Secretary Haldane announced at the outset that the Liberals did not desire to destroy the army, but required greater efficiency at less expenditure. The government accepted what he denominated as the "blue water" principle, namely that the navy at its present strength was capable of defending Great Britain from invasion, and though this strong navy was a costly thing, it was very useful, as it made it possible to cut off much of what otherwise would be necessary army expenditure. In pursuance to this principle of dependence on the navy it had been decided that the ammunition stores constructed for the defense of London were unnecessary and would immediately be rooted up, some 300 guns mounted for defense purposes at various points along the coast would be swept away, the troops at Wei Hai Wei (China) would be withdrawn and some colonial garrisons would be reduced. These changes did not involve an enormous sum, but marked the beginning of economy.

"The United States is a very efficient nation and confines itself to a regular army of 60,000 men. Nevertheless, that army costs close to $115,000,000."

Explaining the increase of $58,710,000 in the cost of the army at present, compared with the cost in 1896, the war secretary said the personnel then was 156,174, while now it was 204,100. In 1896 a soldier cost $315, but now the cost was $405. The average cost of an officer now was $2,420 compared with $2,250 in 1896. He also explained the increases in the cost of the army reserve, militia, yeomany and volunteers. In South Africa alone, he pointed out, the number of troops had been increased by 13,000, and each soldier there cost $750 a year.

PLAN ANOTHER EXCURSION.

Merchants & Manufacturers' Association Will Tour Northwestern Ohio in May. Election Next Month.

Arrangements were completed yesterday by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association for another trade extension excursion through northeastern Ohio from May 21 to 25, inclusive. The itinerary provides for longer stops than on any of the previous trips, with half-day stops in the larger towns. This provision was made because the territory to be covered has a larger population than any previously covered and because it is a competitive field with Cleveland and Cincinnati.

It was also decided yesterday to hold the annual election on April 3, and upon the arrival of President E. J. Lloyd from Washington tomorrow the nominating committee will be named.

The itinerary of the coming trade extension excursion is as follows: East Palestine, Columbiana, Leetonia, Lisbon, Salem, Alliance, Canton, Massillon, Orrville, Worcester, Loudenville, Mansfield, Ashland, Akron, Kent, Ravenna, Warren, Niles, Youngstown, Ashtabula, Conneaut and Erie. Night stops will be Canton, Mansfield, Akron, Youngstown and Erie.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK.

Engine Crashes Into Caboose, Catching Conductor and Brakeman Helpless. Flames Deal Death.

LATROBE, PA., March 8.—(Special.)—Resulting, it is supposed, from a misunderstanding of signals, two men lost their lives in a collision in the Derry yards of the Pennsylvania railroad last night. The dead:

FRANK AIKENS of Derry, 45 years old, freight conductor; instantly killed and body burned to a crisp; leaves a widow and five children.

S. E. NIXON, 24 years old, rear brakeman; leaves a widow; died 20 minutes after the accident.

Conductor Aikens was bringing his train in under a white block. He was in the caboose with S. E. Nixon, the brakeman, and John Tippen, the flagman. Following Aikens' train was a coal train in charge of Conductor Boyd Peoples and Engineman G. R. Griffith. The engine, running backward, ploughed into the caboose. The stove was overturned and the wreckage caught fire.

ALLEGHENIAN WINS.

Has Slight Check at Nice, But Recovers Somewhat at Monte Carlo—Accumulates Fortune.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Special.)—A special cable this morning to the American from Nice says:

E. F. Armstrong, the Allegheny, Pa., baccarat plunger, who has won over $300,000 at the Casino in the last few weeks, had a change of luck last night and lost $20,000.

This afternoon at Monte Carlo he resumed his conservative playing and won $8,000.

Youths Make $10,000 Robbery.

NEW YORK, March 8.—(Special.)—Jewelry worth $10,000 was stolen Wednesday afternoon from the apartments of F. M. DeCosta, manager of the Havana Tobacco Company, 438 Central park west, by three youths, all of whom escaped. Mary Hogan, a maid, witnessed the theft, a revolver being held at her head. The maid made an outcry. Two of the thieves escaped. The third, captured by citizens, was turned over to a man who displayed what seemed to be a police badge. He put his prisoner aboard an Eighth avenue car, but neither arrived at headquarters.

Your Nerves

It is your nerves that cause the heart to pulsate, the lungs to inhale the oxygen, the brain to direct the motion of every organ of the body, the stomach to digest food, the liver to secrete the bile, the kidneys to filter the blood, and the bowels to carry off the waste.

When the nerves of the stomach become weakened it results in stomach trouble, indigestion, constipation.

This is true of all the organs of the body and proves that to cure disease you must strengthen the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

will do it. It seldom fails to cure all nervous affections, Sleeplessness, Neuralgia, Headache, Backache, Epilepsy, Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles.

"I was all broken down, nervous, worn out, and in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I took Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it made me strong and healthy; now weigh 170 pounds."

WANT GUTHRIE TO NAME CABINET

Early Announcement Is Being Sought by Politicians Who Want to Control Councils.

MAY READ "FEDERAL JUDGE"

An early announcement of Mayor-elect George W. Guthrie's cabinet is desired by the men who helped to elect him and want to control councils. When he returns to the city tomorrow an effort will be made to have him see the wisdom of this plan.

Guthrie has said he is not interested in the organization of councils and is indifferent as to whether the Republicans or Democrats control. This is not true of Director Clark and others, who pulled the strings to bring votes to the new mayor. They want to control councils. The municipal law-making body is considered a political asset.

At present it is difficult to secure councilmen to agree to vote for the Democratic candidates for presidents of councils and the clerkships. After the cabinet is announced, the political leaders believe the new directors can be relied on to make promises to councilmen in return for their votes. They can offer patronage and improvements.

Guthrie will be told that unless he controls councils absolutely the great reforms he intends to give the people cannot be carried out.

Various excuses will be given for the prompt announcement of his cabinet. He will not be told the real purpose. If the mayor-elect has never read the "Federal Judge," he might make a short-cut to what he will have to go through during his administration by a perusal of this novel.

Postmistress Mary S. Murphy of Crafton has resigned because of illness in her family. She was appointed about a month ago. The position pays $1,500 a year. Congressman Barchfeld will make the appointment.

Arrangements are being made to swear in William H. Coleman, the mayor-elect of McKeesport, on April 2. Archie Duncan of select council will succeed himself as president, while John D. Evans and Joseph T. Roche are aspirants for the chairmanship in common. There is a contest for clerk of common council between John Alderin, David Herbertson and Thomas Glasgow. Thomas W. White is a candidate for re-election as city engineer. He is opposed by Samuel Foster and John Douthitt. For the solicitorship W. E. Newlin is a candidate for re-election and is opposed by I. S. Stenz. There is rivalry among several candidates for chief of police. Louis E. Rotzch is a candidate for reappointment and J. J. Hill, a councilman, wants the place. Mayor Falkenstein is backing Chief Rotzch.

MEETING OF OPERATORS WILL BE A LIVELY ONE

Coal Producers of District to Hold Conference and Opposition to Wage Advance Is Strong.

Much interest centers in the conference of the bituminous coal operators, to be held today in the offices of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Operators of the Indiana, Illinois and Ohio fields have already held their conferences preparatory to the Indianapolis postconvention, and have announced themselves as being firmly opposed to any wage advance over the present scale.

With the Pittsburgh Coal Company favoring an advance of 5.55 per cent, and the great majority of independents in this field opposing it, the meeting today promises to be a lively one. So bitter has the opposition become that the issue has resolved itself into divided forces for and against the principal interest.

Reports were current yesterday that the right to represent the bituminous operators on the floor, should another joint conference be held, will not again be rested in Francis L. Robbins, and that he will have to present his views as an individual, should he remain firm for a wage advance. Operators in the Illinois, Indiana and Ohio fields are lending assistance to the independent operators in this field in their fight against an advance and are sending letters and literature into the Pittsburgh district, urging operators to stand firm for the present wage scale.

GIFTS FOR PRINCETON.

The University Receives Several Large Sums and Is Promised Improvements.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 8.—The trustees of Princeton university met today and announced the receipt of $246,577 since the last meeting. In addition, the parsonage property adjoining the campus and valued at $25,000, has been purchased by a number of alumni for the university. DeWitt C. Blair of New York, a trustee, has agreed to complete Blair hall to Halsted observatory, a distance of about 100 feet.

It was decided to call the new alumni dormitory "Patton hall" in honor of ex-President Francis L. Patton. It was announced unofficially today that Princeton university has been made a residual legatee of the estate of Mrs. J. Thompson Swan, who died here last week. This is said to be worth about $300,000, and is to be devoted to the development of the graduate school.

Kissing is Expensive.

M. C. Shafter, a machinist of Ward street, Allegheny, was fined $5 and costs or 30 days to the workhouse yesterday by Magistrate Abernathey. He was arrested in Sherman avenue Wednesday night after trying to kiss a young woman to whom he was a stranger. He pleaded drunkenness.

Astor's Son to Marry Mrs. Shaw.

RICHMOND, VA., March 8.—It is announced here today by one of her family that Mrs. Robert Shaw, nee Langhorne, sister of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, is engaged to be married to Waldorf Astor, son of William Waldorf Astor of London.

GREATER PITTSBURGH HEARING TOMORROW

Judge McClung Tells Lawyers to Have Argument in the Case Ready Then.

The Greater Pittsburgh question was brought up before Judge McClung in quarter sessions court yesterday, and he fixed 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for hearing the arguments. Former Gov. Stone appeared for the exceptants and City Solicitor Rodgers for the city and mayor, by whom the petition was filed. Judge McClung's first question was to ask what the court was to hear. Mr. Rodgers went over the facts relating to the filing of the petition and the exceptions. He asked for further time to look into the latter. Judge McClung had his doubts as to the power of the court to dispose of some of the points that had been raised. Mr. Rodgers said if the argument was postponed until Saturday this might be carried. Judge McClung asked if the attorneys thought quarter session the proper court to hear the issue when no appeal had been taken.

Mr. Stone said that court seemed the proper one. If the court dismisses the exceptions, and names a day for the election, the exceptants would be compelled to wait until the final order is made after the election to get into court again. Of course, if the act is unconstitutional, the court would not order the election. Mr. Stone said they could have gone into the supreme court and asked for an injunction, or could have begun proceedings in the common pleas to restrain the commissioners from holding the election, but preferred the quarter sessions.

INCREASE IN DEATH RATE.

Pneumonia, Apoplexy and Typhoid Fever Lay Low Many Residents of the City.

The Pittsburgh mortuary report for the week ended Saturday, February 24, shows the total number of deaths to have been 154, an increase of five over the corresponding week of 1905, and an average death rate of 21.52 per 1,000 inhabitants. Of the decedents, 143 were white and 11 black, 94 single and 41 married, 14 widows and five widowers; 16 died in public institutions and 21 were coroner's cases; 25 died of pneumonia, 9 of apoplexy, 11 of typhoid fever, 8 of Bright's disease; 5 of scarlet fever; 6 of measles; 7 of consumption and 12 of violence. During the week 202 cases of infectious diseases were reported, 128 of which were measles, 32 typhoid fever, 20 scarlet fever and two diphtheria.

The bureau of health yesterday reported 14 new cases of measles, eight of typhoid fever, three of pneumonia and one each of diphtheria, erysipelas and chicken-pox.

Imported Colored Dress Goods at 30c a Yard.

Three of the paragraphs below point out the beautiful cottony stuffs that we have gathered together from foreign countries for the making of dresses for this Spring and Summer. Fashion says Colored Cottons are quite the thing, and what Fashion says goes. Therefore it is to be surmised that more colors will be worn than have been for many past seasons.

Knowing Fashion long enough to be pleasant with her, and thus being secure of advance news, we are pleased to announce a most complete line of high colored cotton fabrics, and fabrics of silk and cotton combined. We doubt if there is another store in the country that shows a larger line of foreign dress cottons than that to be seen here. The finest weaves are represented. But what we wish to call particular attention to is a number of weaves that are away down in the scale of prices.

The New French Shirts for Men.

Harbingers of Spring and forerunners of the time to go without a vest. The swagger shirt for the dressy man.

They were made for us in Paris by a leading shirt maker along lines suggested by us, which in turn are based upon suggestions from customers. Therefore, they are sure to please Pittsburg men.

They are individual styles, therefore exclusive; hand-finished throughout, even to hand-made button holes, and the finest of pearl buttons.

The patterns are prettier than ever—variety includes both subdued and striking colors.

These French Shirts are all made of soft madras, with attached cuffs.

$2.00 each and up to $4.00.

New 50c Neckwear for Men.

The new Neckwear suggested for Spring is coming in rapidly. We ask men who will have a little leisure today and tomorrow to come in and view our very fine collection of Neckwear to sell for 50c.

A manufacturer who, we find, pays more for his silks than the average manufacturer, decided to give us the exclusive sale of his neckwear, and we'll have ready today new patterns in silks and satins.

We have no hesitancy in pronouncing them the best values, the best colorings, and by far the best patterns ever shown.

Women's $50 to $100 Wraps for $25

They're Three-Quarter Length. They're All Black. They're Altogether Fashionable.

Twenty-five dollars for an ultra-fashionable wrap, worth anywhere from $50.00 to $100.00! It is a remarkable offer. It is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that toward the last of this month we are to have a week of Grand Opera, and women will vie with each other in having throw-overs of best models.

The wraps are all black, the broadcloth is of the finest, the linings are either white or black satin, mostly black. Some of the coats are trimmed with braid, some are plain, some have cape effect.

We wish to be perfectly frank regarding these garments, and therefore say to you that many of them are just from the maker; others have been with us since last Autumn, but there is such a similarity of style that there is really little difference between those of last Fall's make-up and those that came to hand this Spring.

Sale will take place in second floor, West, today.

New Spring Hosiery for Women, 25c.

Need it be chronicled that we have every good grade of stockings in this department? Need we print the fact that we have stockings from $15.00 a pair down to as little as 15c? No, it is not necessary to go into detail. You know that already.

In this little brief what we want to call your special attention to is a good grade of good 35c Stockings that we will sell today and tomorrow for 25c a pair.

Women's 35c grade of German Lisle Hose—double heel, toes, soles—today and tomorrow, 25c a pair.

Umbrella News for Women.

$7.00, $8.00 and $9.00 Umbrellas, $4.50 Each.

Special opportunity for women to provide themselves with something real fine in the shape of an umbrella—all-silk taffeta—tape edge.

The handles alone are worth $4.50: or put it the other way, the silks without the handles are worth our special price.

Many different handles—mostly one of a kind. This is one of the best umbrella offers we ever made on behalf of women.

We take pleasure in stating that we have just received another line of those fine white embroidered Linen Parasols which we ask you to pay only $3.00 for. They are certainly a very handsome accompaniment for women.

At $2.00 we have the nicest kind of Irish Linen Parasols. White, of course. These are plain parasols with hemstitched borders. Many women favor them as euchre prizes.

New Spring Blocks in Men's Hats.

We have all the new blocks of the best hat makers in the country, and we name for the hats a less price than is generally charged. It is our business to name less prices. It is our business to give our public the very best goods for the least money.

We have new Spring Derbies in 5¼, 5½ and 5¾ crowns—1⅛ and 2⅛ brims—made of best fur felt—fine imported bands and bindings—pebble goat leather—Hats that are worth and sell for $4.00 pretty much every place—our price, to open the season, $3.00.

John B. Stetson's New Spring Derbies—the featherweight conforming style and the oxford are the two leading models—all dimensions of crowns and widths of brims—considered by good dressers the best hat for our popular price of $3.50.

Stetson Special Stiff Hats, something very fine—new Spring shapes ready—blocks to suit all ages—our special price $5.00.

Women's Spatterdashes.

Women who affect spats, or gaiter tops, are notified that our Stocking Department has them in all colors, both plain and in combination.

We make spats to order to match any costume and can fill such orders inside of ten days.

We have gray, navy, red, mole, green and black Spats for $1.00 a pair.

Other Spats in gray, reseda, mode, myrtle, navy, Alice, plum, shepherd's plaids and white linen, for $1.50 a pair.

Spats of white broadcloth and Scotch plaids, $2.00 a pair.

Birthday and Wedding Gifts.

Suggestions From Our Fancy Needlework Department.

Fancy Needlework pieces for birthday gifts are quite the thing, but we don't suppose anyone ever thought of a piece of fancy needlework for a wedding gift, and yet a handsome bit of art needlework, it seems to us, would be appreciated.

Fine Boudoir Sets, in pink, blue or yellow, made of fine quality of scrim, lined with Italian cloth, trimmed with silk ribbon and stitching. Everything about each piece quite artistic. This Boudoir Set could comprise the entire list following, as each piece matches perfectly, both in design and color, or selections could be made of either one or as many pieces as desired.

Dresser Scarf.....$2.00
Stand Cover.....$2.00
Pillow Slip.....$1.50
Shoe Bag.....$1.75
Pin Cushion.....$2.00
Stocking Bag.....$1.75

This section of the third floor, West, is brim full of fancy pieces of art needlework, both those that are commenced and those that are finished. Of the latter, attention is called to the following:

Pillow Slips made of fine lawn, embroidered on top in renaissance lace design, the ruffle trimmed with narrow Val. lace—value $4.00—our special price, each.....$3.00

Very fine white Pillow Slips, made of lawn, trimmed on top with hand-made Princess Louise lace, in artistic designs, the ruffling trimmed with Val. lace—value $5.00—our special price.....$3.00

White lawn Pillow Slips, trimmed with Val. insertion and lace to match—value $2.00—our special price.....$1.00

News for Women Alone—Laces.

This is news of the finer laces, some of them about as fine as any woman could wish. Of course, every woman about Pittsburg knows that we carry immense lines of the cheaper trimming laces. We're never out of them. It is simply a matter of weekly replenishment. But of these finer laces we ask you to note, as far as you can by the price, how fine they are, and then come and see them and give us your personal judgment.

Cluny, Baby Irish and Japanese Combination Allovers—galloons and edges to match—$2.00 a yard and up to $10.00.

18-inch white and cream French Irish Allovers—galloons and motifs to match—$1.50 a yard and up to $10.00.

45-inch Black Dress Nets, Chantilly, La Tosca, Point d'Esprit—75c a yard and up to $5.50.

Princess Lace, with insertions—galloons and edges to match—50c a yard and up to $10.00.

SPECIAL—Venice and Figured Net Allovers—18-inch widths—white and ecru—value $1.50—special price, $1.00 a yard.

SPECIAL—45-inch fashionable dress and waist Nets—spotted and figured designs—worth $1.00—our special price 65c a yard.

SPECIAL—French and German Val. Laces—insertions to match—worth 75c and 85c—our special price 55c a yard.

Attention is being called to the failure of the Pennsylvania railroad to vacate Liberty avenue within the time promised. We believe, however, the company is not yet in violation of its ordinance agreement, which gave it some leeway. The present discussion is commendable because in the nature of a reminder that the public is jealously guarding its rights in the premises and will not forget the contract.

Baroness Hengenmuller, wife of the Austrian ambassador at Washington, is entitled to a vote of thanks. It is reported her automobile leaves in its wake an odor like unto burning incense, instead of the vile perfume familiarly associated with the motor car. Something depends on the cost of this improvement in automobiling for, if inexpensive, it may be generally adopted. To be run over by an automobile is bad enough, but the odor has been an adding of insult to injury.

It is reported a majority of senators in congress favor separating Oklahoma and Indian Territory from New Mexico and Arizona in considering the statehood subject. They are at liberty to do so. If, however, the two first named are united in the state of Oklahoma it should be understood there is to be no present admission of the other two territories as separate states. Neither will be fit for separate admission within a decade—not in twice that time unless development is accelerated.

Maj.-Gen. Henry C. Corbin, who arrived at San Francisco yesterday from Manila, declares undue importance has been given the sending of additional troops to the Philippines. Military exigencies require that more troops be kept there, regardless of conditions in China, which latter, he states, are not nearly as serious as have been asserted. The United States is following a wise policy of preparedness and will not be caught napping if the recommendations of Secretary Taft are followed in this matter.

Incorporation of a company to establish a wireless telegraphy system covering the great lakes fulfills predictions that the most modern method of communication would soon be extended to inland navigation. The first passenger steamer to make the round trip between Detroit and Cleveland this season was in communication with both cities during the entire journey. The advantages to the lake marine are obvious, when it is considered officials on land can keep in constant touch with a vessel from Buffalo to Duluth.

President Roosevelt's order for the observance of strict sanitary precautions against the spread of tuberculosis in the government departments is timely. It has been pretty well determined this malady is infectious in limited degree. There has been a tendency in some quarters to go to the extreme of advocating quarantine for its victims. The presidential order points to the more rational device of sanitary precautions that do not exclude the performance of ordinary duties, or debar patients from mingling with their fellows.

Health Commissioner Dixon has his test cases prepared for the prosecution of teachers and school directors for non-enforcement of the vaccination law. He will begin the first action in Dauphin county. It is probable the case may not be decided before the legislature is again in session when the law may be amended to either make vaccination compulsory upon all, or be repealed. The defense will likely take the position that making vaccination a condition for attendance at school is discriminatory and class legislation, and not without reason.

A blow at the retention on department payrolls of high-salaried aged clerks was aimed by the house committee on appropriations yesterday. This radical limitation was agreed upon: No clerk over 65 years of age shall receive more than $1,400 a year; over 68 more than $1,200 or over 70 more than $840. The requirement that changes in the order and salaries of offices shall be noted when estimates are submitted by department heads is designed to prevent the promotion of clerks whose only claim to preferment is based upon political influence. Business methods are making steady progress in the departments at Washington.

New Postoffice Plan.

Though the congressmen who visited here nearly a week ago were a bit shocked by Pittsburgh real estate values, there is yet hope this city may get the added postal facilities it needs. William S. Shallenberger, fourth assistant postmaster general, is virtually a Pittsburgher, familiar with the local situation, and he offers a solution of the problem.

In brief Mr. Shallenberger's plan is to retain the Pittsburgh and Allegheny postoffices for the ordinary business of selling stamps and distributing mail matter in their sections, but to have an inexpensive structure, near the Union depot, for the sorting and dispatch of the railway mails. In that place all railway mail would be received, sorted and sent forward by railroad, street railway or pneumatic tubes. Distribution in the cities would be effected as at present from postoffices and sub-stations. All collections in the city would be sorted in the same way, sent out by rail or returned to postoffices and sub-stations for local redistribution.

The advantage of this plan is in keeping within the appropriation that may probably be secured from the Fifty-ninth congress. The $3,000,000 originally asked does not appear feasible at the moment. Half of that amount may be had and $1,500,000 will suffice to carry out Mr. Shallenberger's plan. This will not contribute to the plaza and architectural group plan, in the court house district, but it will relieve the Pittsburgh postal congestion.

The Coal Conference.

At the meeting of Ohio coal operators in Cleveland yesterday, it was decided by almost unanimous vote to refuse demands of the miners for an advance in wages. The Ohio operators are the first to take formal action, but all of the states will have meetings before the general convention in Indianapolis. It will not be surprising if most of the districts follow the Ohio example, though perfect harmony does not exist among the operators.

Quite as significant as the orders of railroads to store coal are the reports of decrease in coke shipments and orders for steel. These are the "shadows cast before." They are indicative of what must follow if final disagreement occurs and a strike is ordered. If the trouble could be confined to coal miners and operators, the public would feel no concern, but this one industry underlies so many others that interruption of its prosperity means prostration for thousands of other interests. It is this fact that should be maturely considered before the final word is said at Indianapolis. There is a fearful responsibility resting on the men who are to confer there.

Prosecuting Insurance Men.

After long investigation, Prosecuting Attorney Jerome has indicted the officers of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company. This is the first criminal prosecution in the life insurance muddle in New York, but will hardly be the last. Mr. Jerome has picked upon some of the least conspicuous figures in the scandal to begin with, but it may be assumed he has good reason for so doing. He desires results and probably has a clearer case here.

Andrew Hamilton's return to "face the music" has made him a conspicuous mark, though it is likely a difficult one. The death of John A. McCall has removed a very valuable witness. Moreover, the way of a man with the legislators, like that of a maid with a man, is well-nigh "past finding out." If there is a way, William Travers Jerome is as skillful as any in finding it.

The public is, and has been, much interested in the insurance cases. It is only less interested in the prosecution of those who have offended against the laws, than in the measures to be taken to prevent recurrence of the same offenses. A vigorous application of the penal statutes will give additional force to the regulative legislation now under consideration.

Texts in the Court Room.

Refusal of the county commissioners to permit a temperance organization to placard the walls of the license court room with scriptural quotations is entirely justified and based on sound common sense. In rendering this decision the commissioners do not commit themselves to either side of the so-called temperance question. No matter of morals is involved. Since the licensing of saloons is authorized by law and the license court is the place where business connected with that procedure is transacted, the impropriety of using public property for advertising arguments against that business is obvious.

A mistaken idea of the functions of the courts exists in the minds of many persons. Courts are not intended, primarily, to be moral agencies. Some of the laws which they are instituted to enforce have a bearing on the morals of the people; others are for their protection along different lines. Attempts were recently made in a western city to decorate the walls of a juvenile court room with warnings against the use of tobacco by the young. Opponents of the idea suggested that with equal propriety warnings against the wholesale consumption of pie and green apples might be posted up, since this is also a youthful failing which often leads to disastrous results. Neither idea was permitted to be carried out. To the posting in proper places of placards calling attention to the evils of intemperance there can be no reasonable objection. The privilege of advertising in this manner is also taken advantage of by dealers in alcoholic liquors. The latter would have as much right to exploit their wares in buildings belonging to the public as would their opponents to present their arguments in that manner.

Lower Price for Light.

President Callery of the Allegheny Light Company, we are told, has assured City Controller Larkin there will be a "large reduction in the price of light." This is good news. There ought to be a reduction in the price of public lighting and the amount of that reduction should bring it within the ordinance provision for not more than 75 per cent of the price charged private consumers. Controller Larkin is reported to have said he and the light company officials will think the matter over several days before anything is done. That is a good thing to do, provided the thinking does not result, as in the case of Mayor Hays, in a decision to not enforce the terms of the franchise ordinance.

In this matter the principal point at issue is the enforcement of a city ordinance the terms of which are clear and were accepted by the company. There is no malice toward this particular corporation in the demand for enforcement of this municipal law. There is a principle at stake and one that should be firmly established without loss of time. It applies equally to those other corporations against which the city has unsatisfied claims aggregating nearly $350,000. Pittsburgh has never exacted compensation for the valuable privileges it has granted so prodigally, but the time has come when it must do so. The swelling millage is a loud admonition to perform this duty.

Denmark's new king declares a public coronation is "too much fuss and feathers" and "all nonsense." The Danes seem to have a ruler who believes reigning is a serious business and not "make believe."

It must be remembered that Minnesota's governor, who is eloquently declaring $10,000 a year enough for any man, gets only half that amount. Perhaps he is just giving a gentle hint to the legislature.

Let Us Hope So.

Only one cloud has been on the country's financial horizon, and that was the possibility of a coal strike. In the past few days there has come a hope that this danger will be averted. With the President, the other chieftains of the Republican party and many of the business magnates of the country all working for peace, there seems to be a chance that the rupture will be prevented.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Centenary of Edwin Forrest's Birth.

The Great Tragedian, Had He Lived, Would Be 100 Years Old Today.

By CHARLES M. BREGG.

In a little house at 51 George street in the city of Philadelphia, there was born 100 years ago today a baby boy whose future life was destined to exert a marvelous influence upon the American theater and the art of acting.

His name was Edwin Forrest.

In that city today, at the Home for Aged Actors, known by his name and provided through his liberality, the important event will be celebrated with elaborate and loving ceremony, while the order of Thespians the world over will recall in some way the memory of this great American actor, whose genius founded a school of acting and gave form and life to mimicry of heroic and tragic mold. A writer in the Dramatic Mirror of current issue says, and the paragraph more fittingly epitomizes the man and the actor than anything I could write here:

Whatever may be the ultimate judgment as to his dramatic art, however much the theory of Shakesperean rendition may have changed for better or worse, however arrogant or overbearing may be the record of his private and public enmities, his greatness must be recognized and should be appreciated. He forced his way into the profession by sheer dominance of personality; he achieved the most bewildering success at an age when the majority of players are still serving their apprenticeship; he was reputed a tyrant and a miser, yet no man ever gave more liberally to his friends or more lavishly endeavored to foster what he believed to be the dawning American drama. His life was even more tragic than his genius, though no man was ever more delighted to participate in a hearty good time. He died a semi-paralytic, though his splendid physique had been the pride and joy of his existence. He had one of those turbulent temperaments in which passion and eccentricities are more worthy of sympathy than condemnation.

\+ \+ \+

At the age of 11 he made his first appearance on the stage at the old South Street theater in Philadelphia in a melodrama called "Rudolph, or the Robbers of Calabra," playing the role of a girl. Rosalia de Borgia. His failure was complete, and the manager of the theater refused to encourage further the ambitions of the lad. But nothing daunted young Forrest seized a copy of the famous epilogue written by Goldsmith for Lee Lewis and, having studied it carefully, actually had the audacity to force his way upon the stage from which he had been so summarily discharged. One night he suddenly appeared, rushing out from the wings while the curtain was down and, dressed in the costume of a home-made harlequin, began to declaim the stanzas just referred to. Encouraged by the applause of the audience, he finished the verses, making his exit with a handspring that brought down the house and secured an encore. The astounded manager at once hired him to repeat this performance "until further notice."

\+ \+ \+

It was a year later that Mr. John Swift, an eminent lawyer whose attention had been attracted to Forrest by a declamation from Richard III., said to have been given under the influence of laughing gas at a public "demonstration," introduced the boy to the management of the Walnut Street theater in Philadelphia, and he made his formal debut as Young Norval at that house on Nov. 17, 1820. He made a decided success and the performance was repeated on the 2d of the following month. On December 28 he played the role of Frederick in "Lovers' Vows," and on January 6 he assumed the part of Octavian in "The Mountaineers," the profits being for his own benefit. On that night the theatrical career of Edwin Forrest really began. He hired the Prince Street theater for one night, drawing a good house to witness his representation of Richard III. Besides the characters already mentioned, he appeared as a precocious amateur "star" in the parts of Anne in Douglass, Charmont, Zanga, Zaphna and Tancred.

This column is all too short to follow the career of the great actor in anything like detail. In New York, in 1826, Forrest made his first great success. It was in the Park theater, and the character was Othello. A manager, Gilfert, to whom the tragedian was under engagement to play at the Bowery theater at $28 per week salary, witnessed his triumph at the Park theater and at once raised his stipend to $40 weekly, which was in those days a princely salary.

While under contract to Gilfert, the tragedian's popularity became so great that he was frequently "loaned" by the manager to other managers, who paid Gilfert $200 nightly for Forrest's services. The actor received no part of this money beyond his $40 per week. But upon the expiration of his contract he forced Gilfert to pay him the price which Gilfert himself had fixed as his value, $200 a night.

\+ \+ \+

Forrest made his first acting tour abroad in 1836, though he had previously visited foreign countries for health and pleasure. His first European appearance was in "The Gladiator," in Drury Lane theater, London, October 17, 1836.

The actor aroused a favorable impression in England, and his visit was a profitable one. During his London engagement he met and married Miss Catharine Sinclair, who was a friend of the family of Macready, the English tragedian.

Returning to the United States, Forrest made a tour of the country, meeting with ovations everywhere. A few years later Macready came to America and Forrest was kindness itself to the English tragedian. When Forrest again went to England, he did not receive the reciprocal courtesies from Macready to which he was entitled.

\+ \+ \+

Thereafter Forrest conceived intense hatred for the Englishman. Going to see Macready as "Hamlet" at Edinburgh, Forrest took offense at Macready's arrangement of a scene and hissed. When taxed with bad taste Forrest publicly defended the hissing, and a storm of commendation and condemnation broke out that embroiled millions of people on both sides of the Atlantic. When Macready came to America to play engagements in 1848, he was made the victim of hostile demonstrations. The theater in which he was playing in New York was mobbed. Troops were called to the scene. The National guardsmen fired on the mob in Astor place, killing 30 men and wounding others. Macready made his escape from New York to Boston in disguise, and sailed from there to England.

Suspicions that Forrest entertained against his wife culminated in his making efforts to obtain a divorce. Mrs. Forrest anticipated his action, and was given a decree from her husband in New York. Mrs. Forrest died in 1891. Playgoers of the country were divided by this divorce into two cliques, one of which favored Forrest's course, while the other disapproved. The feeling did not injure him professionally. After the divorce he played some of his most triumphant engagements.

In 1862 he retired from the stage and returned to live with his sisters in his home at Broad and Master streets, Philadelphia. He took to the boards again in 1871, beginning his farewell tour where he began his career, in the Walnut Street theater in that city.

Before the tour was finished he was taken ill, and made his last appearance on the stage in the Globe theater, Boston, April 2, 1872. The character was "Richelieu." Later in the year he gave Shakespearean readings in various cities, and made his last public appearance in a professional capacity in Boston, December 7, 1872. Then he returned to Philadelphia, and, although he appeared to be in good health, he died of apoplexy on December 12, 1872. He was buried in his family plot in St. Paul's churchyard, Third street, below Walnut street.

I am indebted to Mr. Charles Glenn, an old resident of this city, for the information as to Forrest's final and last appearance in Pittsburgh. Mr. Glenn has been thoroughly schooled in local theatrical affairs of the past 60 years and has a remarkable memory besides being a competent critic.

"Forrest came to Pittsburgh first in 1839 or '40," said Mr. Glenn. He played first in the old Pittsburgh theater, afterward called The Drury, and always drew immense audiences. I remember one night when "The Gladiator" or "Metamora," one or the other, was the play, a number of the audience was seated in a row along the footlights on the stage. On his first visit here the actor was under the management of C. F. Weymiss. Mr. Forrest's last engagement in Pittsburgh was played at the old Lyceum theater on the site of the present Grand opera house in Fifth avenue. I think his last play seen here was "Metamora," though I am not sure. That was in 1861 or '62. He was supported on that occasion by C. A. Eaton, a great Pittsburgh favorite. Eaton was afterward killed by falling from a balcony at the old St. Clair hotel, now the Anderson. Another actor then in his support met a tragic death afterward. Joe Breisford was killed by diving on a rock. Besides these old-time theatergoers will recall Charles Wells, E. S. Connor and Gus Adams, whom many people believed to be a better actor than Forrest himself."

Mr. Glenn's memory must be somewhat astray as to Forrest's first appearance here, as most of his biographies relate how the actor produced "Young Norval" here in the first days of his boyish experience, somewhere around 1822. This must have taken place at the old concert hall, in advance of the days of old Drury.

Quiet Observations on Ways of the World

Love and Homesickness in the Big City.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"Yes, the love fever prevails here just the same as elsewhere, only different in some phases.

As you go up Fifth avenue along the park front your attention is called to a fine marble mansion said to be worth a quarter of a million, spot cash. Then you are told that it is the home of Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner, widow and "grass-widder," all inside of two months.

And then as you jog around through another section the other Yerkes house, owned and occupied by the other lady in the case, is pointed out.

On the same jaunt an elegant brown stone house is pointed to as the once happy home of one of the Vanderbilts. At the present time it is closed. Indeed, it is rarely open save on dusting days.

It seems that great wealth and unusual luxuries turned the head of the poor but honest girl whose simple beauty and artless ways charmed and won a Vanderbilt; or maybe it was a handsomer and more lovable man. Anyway, she left her palatial home, and her hubby went to live with his blood relations. Divorce was followed by marriage to the man she really loved, and it is said that she is living happily in Europe.

After a long tour on which a dozen such homes have been pointed out, you must conclude in all fairness that they are less than one-tenth of one per cent of the wholesome, happy homes you have seen, which isn't half bad for New York.

Just now there is a love-murder case on trial, while several others are pending. And as usual the court room is crowded to the point of suffocation by a motley crowd, mostly women, anxious to see the disreputable woman who shot and killed a brutal man whom she believed would kill her sure.

Turn from the court room to the streets, or to the little parks, or anywhere, and you see hundreds of happy husbands and wives, and heartsome lovers, too, so that after all we feel that there is more of love, of goodness, of happiness—ever so much more—than of badness, misery and falseness.

If those who stay among gay revellers until very late on Saturday night, or until early Sunday morning, were to start out at the ringing of the church bells and note the numbers, the crowds, of clean, wholesome, cheerful people going their several ways to engage in song and worship, they might be only impressed with the great fact that the world is not hardly half bad, at least not more than half.

What can be more unfortunate for anyone than to settle down to the conclusion that the world is wholly bad?

Do such as these think their mothers and their sisters are bad, and that their fathers and brothers and best friends are thives and rogues?

What must those accusers of the world, these social pessimists, think of themselves? Do they stand out alone in this vast mass of bad people as bright, particular specimens of pure and noble manhood?

Is it not more than probable that they are trying to pull others down to shield or to excuse themselves to their own consciences?

* * *

The best of people do get homesick, even in the busiest cities and no amount of jollying will drive that dreadful nostalgia away.

Every ship that leaves our ports carries homesick passengers who are entirely willing to face the dangers of a sea voyage, and endure the miseries of seasickness just to get back home again.

And every ship that comes in from a foreign port brings those who could no longer stay away, but just had to come back home again.

Isn't a wonder that poets and novelists haven't made more and better use of homesickness in their works?

Poets seem to be giving it more attention of late, as the following fresh bits tend to prove:

"Now, we studied math and spelling
Till our schooling here was done;
Then, my friend, oh, what a swelling—
Some of us were twenty-one.

"Pasture, house, and spring will linger
Fresh in memory till our death,
When we'll wish to stand and sing her
Praises with our parting breath.

"Friend, now don't thou well remember
First of all we had to cry,
When we saw the hic'ry, limber,
Standing 'gainst the wall near by?"

And then comes the soulful Mr. Gilder with his timely piece, "There's No Place Like the Old Place," in which he declares that:

"The little brooks tinkle down, with the old music, through the pine-darkened gorges;
The brooks that sometimes run dry, or hide under the smooth stones;
In the time or fulness leaping from ledge to ledge down to the big brook that never dries,
Where the trout dartle and the pools are shadowy and cool
And good to the hot body of a boy.
Lovely, with an intimate loveliness, is the valley;
And again and again I chant to myself:
Oh, there's no place like the old place!"

But for a genuine homesick yawp turn to the cowboy whom they were trying to fence in, or fence out. The poet of the Dakotas, whose name is Carr, in a fresh "Bunch of Border Ballads," from which the following is taken:

"There haint no grass to speak of an' the water holes are gone,
The wire of the farmer holds them tight;
There's little use to law 'em an' little use to kick,
An' mighty sight less use there is to fight.

"There's them coughin' separators and their dusty, dirty crews,
An' wagons runnin' over with the grain;
The smoke goes driftin' upward like hearse plumes in the air—
Its shadow tells the story very plain.

"The wolves have left the country an' the long horns range no more,
An' all the game worth shootin' at is gone;
An' it's time fer me to follow, 'cause I'm sort o' in the way,
An' I'd better be a-movin'—movin' on."

PASTOR RUSSELL AND HIS CRITICS

Discussion of the Place of Torment Rages Pro and Con.

[Believing the subject of interest to its many readers, The Gazette has freely opened its columns to the discussion of Pastor Russell's views. There is, however, a limit to the space that can be devoted to the controversy. That limit has been reached, and we believe the opposing sides have been given ample opportunity to express themselves.—Ed. The Gazette.]

Pastor Russell Makes Reply.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Abraham Lincoln is credited with having said: "You can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time; but you cannot fool all the people all the time." As one of the first class I once in my ignorance blasphemed my God by charging him with having before man's creation prepared an immense fiery hell, manned with fireproof devils, for our entire race, and then leaving a little loophole of escape for the saints. I was fooled for a time, but now see clearly that this is not the teaching of the Bible, rightly interpreted. I am doing all in my power to help my critics and Christendom out of their terrible plight; out of the fog of the "dark ages." I assure them all most kindly that there is an answer for their every objection, and I appeal to the Bible alone.

Like unreasonable children they require that I answer all of their questions at once, in one discourse, in one word almost. All of their questions are answered in my six volumes of "Studies in the Scriptures," which are sold at a trifling price, bare cost, or given or loaned to those requesting them. Why do they not honestly acknowledge that an eternity of torture by demons for all of Adam's race except those "born again"—all as the penalty of "original sin," is an absurdity. They all should be glad to get free from it—glad to have the proofs that the Bible does not so teach—that much of it is superstitution, much of it ignorance and much of it mistranslation. My critics should, like the Bereans of old, "search the Scriptures daily to see whether these things be so."—Acts 17:11.

Since Brother Price sends his address I can and will send him reading matter which will answer his queries, and hope to hear from him favorably later on.

Brother "Whole Truth" should read 2 Tim. 3:15, and act on it. His only Scripture quotation—"The wayfaring man though a fool need not err therein." (Isa. 35:8)—shows that he is illogical as well as unskilled in Biblical interpretation.

(1) The passage has no reference to hell; it does not even apply to the present age. The whole context shows that it belongs to the next age, the millennium, when "the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth" so that "none shall need longer teach his neighbor and his brother, saying 'Know thou the Lord.'"

(2) He is illogical, because he surely knows that the hundreds of sects of Christendom mean hundreds of differences between wayfaring men and fools and the learned as well. I will guarantee that of the 800 Christian ministers of "Greater Pittsburgh" district, far less than one-half would be willing to affirm their belief in "a hell of eternal torture for mankind except those born again," and that those who would not thus avow would be the best in character, disposition, morals and education.

I am glad to see that the U. P. ministers waked up a little last Monday. In reply to their epithets I sent them a most kindly invitation to a discussion of our differences, on the platform, for the public benefit. Considering that this is the head center of their denomination, and its seat of ministerial instruction, they should be able quickly to decide which one amongst their many would be their ablest, and name him at once.

late than never, Brother Newell! From the trend of Brother Newell's note he must be a very "honest" man—so honest that he is apparently inclined to doubt the honesty of others. We commend to his attention 1 Corinthians 13:4.

My pleasure increased when I read that Pastor Newell would like to tell the other side for the enlightenment of those who heard me last Sunday, and invited them to his church. But, my generous brother, your church would not hold the 2,614 persons of the official count—even piled on each other's heads to the ceiling. I have the plan for you: Challenge me to discuss the subject with you—the Bible to be the only "authority." That will meet your every condition. I will guarantee the same intelligent audience, and you will have the best chance of all your life. Since you are so "fearless" and "honest" in the matter I shall look for a quick response to this open door of Providence. You may yet get in before the U. P. brethren. Yours respectfully,

C. T. RUSSELL.

Disputes With Mr. Price.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I know I am "butting in," but I should like to offer a word or two: I, too, have carefully read Pastor C. T. Russell's sermon on "To Hell and Back," in Monday's issue of your paper, and also Mr. Thomas W. Price's comments on same in Wednesday's issue.

Mr. Price states that "if there is no Hell, then Christ died in vain." It seems to me that Mr. Price is a little too strong on this point. Christ came to this world to save sinners (according to Pastor Russell's theory, to save us from eternal death). He set us an example of a holy life, and in doing so, suffered and died. If we follow his example, we will inherit eternal life and be saved either from extermination or Hell Fire. It would seem, therefore, that Christ did not die in vain in either case.

Mr. Price also asks why Christ said there would be "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth," if there is no Hell. In the Bible we have the promise that there will be a home prepared for us. On the Judgment Day, this fact will probably be verified to the sinful and righteous. If we have sinned, and cannot inherit this Home, would we not weep to know that we will be exterminated? I think so.

God would hardly be so cruel as to throw us into Hell Fire to burn forever and ever—eternally—for just a few short years of sin here on earth. I believe we have a just God.

F. G. ACKERSON.

Hell Enough.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In yesterday's issue of The Gazette I note two articles of which the Rev. C. T. Russell is the victim. With due respect to the views of Thomas W. Price and "Whole Truth," I shall affirm that Pastor Russell knows more of the Truth, ("What is Truth? Thy Word is Truth"), in one minute than many learned (?) critics know in a year. He is teaching reason, common sense; they are "preaching for doctrine the commandments of men." They will tell you that you have an "immortal" soul. Where did they learn that? Surely not in the Bible, for it says, "God only hath immortality." Immortality is what we must strive for. All through Holy Writ we are constantly entreated to obtain that grand prize. The Bible plainly teaches that "The wages of sin is death." God said to Adam and Eve, "Thou shalt surely die." Satan said, "Ye shall not surely die."

Shall we believe Satan and make God a liar? How much power do these Ye-Shall-Not-Surely-Die people want to give Satan? Mr. Price is entirely correct when he says "There will be weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth" on the judgment day. Yes, and the wicked shall call for the rocks and mountains to fall on them to hide them from the glory of His power. They shall be permitted to realize on that day the awful extent of their loss, ere they pass into eternal oblivion. Isn't that hell enough? It is for me. The earth shall be melted with fervent heat, and all who cannot stand this last fiery test, as did Daniel in the fiery furnace, shall be "burned as the chaff of the summer threshing floor." We only may gain immortality by a righteous life; otherwise, oblivion.

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

The six annual banquet of the Waynesburg College Alumni association, composed almost entirely of Pittsburghers, was given at the Hotel Henry last night. About 100 former students attended. J. A. F. Randolph, a member of the board of trustees, responded to the toast, "What the Pittsburgh Alumni Can Do for Waynesburg College;" John Purman, M. D., spoke of "Old Characters of Waynesburg;" Mrs. R. F. Downey, on "The Faculty;" John C. Silsley, on "College Contests," and the Rev. G. W. Montgomery took as his subject "What Difference Does It Make?" The toastmaster was T. B. Harmon. During the course of the banquet President J. F. Bucher of Waynesburg college gave an impromptu talk, in which he outlined the influence of the college in cultivating ideals. He instanced the fact that the college was achieving success, scholastically and financially, and with an attendance of 350 students in all departments the outlook for the further development of the college was very promising. Robert F. Downey and J. A. F. Randolph, with their wives, and J. W. Ray attended from Waynesburg. The Alumni association's officers are: J. M. Norris, president; John R. Rush, vice president; Mrs. Edward S. Bayard, secretary, and J. H. Wise, treasurer.

Notes of the Notables.

B. F. Jones, president of the Jones & Laughlin Company, left last night in the private car "Sunbeam," for Lakewood, N. J., where he will meet his wife, who left with a large party of Pittsburghers Wednesday.

Former Governor Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, passed through Union station last night en route to St. Louis and the far west. He was accompanied by his wife. "Not one word of politics," smiled the ex-governor, "I'm out on this trip for pleasure and I'm going to work hard to get it."

John Hopkins' Men Dine.

The Sixth annual dinner of the Johns Hopkins association of Pittsburgh was held at the Union club last evening. About 25 graduates were present, and spent the evening in telling stories of their school days. The youngest member of the association is of the class of 1905, and it devolved upon him to tell the latest incidents of the Alma Mater. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Dr. A. L. Lewin; vice-president, A. E. Maccoun; secretary and treasurer, William L. Ross.

KNOX DECIDES TO SERVE HIS STATE

VACANCY IN SUPREME COURT

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—For the second time in his public career Senator P. C. Knox of Pennsylvania, has declined an appointment to the supreme court of the United States. The tender was made by President Roosevelt Saturday, March 3, but Senator Knox promptly told the President he could not consider the offer.

The position offered was that of associate justice to succeed Justice Henry B. Brown, whose resignation was accepted today by the President. Justice Brown was 70 years old on Friday, March 3, and having served on the supreme bench for more than 10 years he is eligible under the law to retire on full salary although he has been in good health and retains full possession of his mental vigor.

Senator Knox was attending a performances at the Belasco theater Saturday afternoon when a messenger from the White House called for him with a request that he come to see the President at once. Senator Knox walked across Lafayette square to the executive office and the President informed him of Justice Brown's retirement.

"The first man I thought of as his successor was you," said President Roosevelt. "If you would like the place it is yours."

"Mr. President, I could not think of taking it," said Senator Knox. "I could not consider deserting the people of Pennsylvania who sent me here. They sent me to Washington to give them some service in the senate, and they are going to get it."

Will Serve the State.

Mr. Knox expressed his appreciation of the President's consideration in making him the tender of the position, a place that is generally understood to be the mecca of every lawyer's ambition. The senator feels just as he expressed himself to the President, that it would not be right for him to resign the senatorship at this time, no matter how tempting was the inducement.

The legislature of Pennsylvania sent him here without a contest, and by the vote of his full party strength, and for him to so soon lay down the commission thus given him, he does not believe would be just and fair to the state. This is but his second session of congress and already he has come to be looked upon as one of the strong men of the senate and one of those destined to become a leader in the deliberations of that body. His opinions concerning all the important questions are sought by his colleagues.

Mr. Knox is not yet 53 years old, and it would scarcely be expected that he would be satisfied to withdraw now from the activities of life to take up the honored duties of supreme court justice.

It is known that the president has offered the place to William T. Taft, secretary of war, and that Mr. Taft is to give him an answer in a few days. But Secretary Taft's friends do not expect him to accept it. He or Secretary of State Root could have the place if they wanted it, but President Roosevelt would regret to lose either from his cabinet.

Taft for the Bench.

Secretary Taft is now in the midst of the initial work of Isthmian canal and for him to withdraw from it would create confusion and a great deal of embarrassment. Secretary Root, too, has important work on his hands, work that was begun by the late John Hay and which Mr. Root is elaborating and carrying out as a national policy.

In view of these facts it is not believed that the President would urge either of them to go on the bench at this time. It has been generally accepted as a fact that when Chief Justice Fuller resigns Secretary Taft is to succeed him, as it is well known that Mr. Taft's ambitions lie in the direction of the supreme court. But so far as known Chief Justice Fuller, although he is 73 years old and has been on the bench since 1888, has not set any date for his retirement.

There is another consideration to be taken into account in connection with Secretary Root and Taft. Both are strong presidential possibilities and if either should go on the supreme bench it would remove him from the field. It is believed that this consideration would be more potent with Secretary Root than with Secretary Taft as the latter has not indicated that he approved of the mention of his name a presidential candidate or that he would care to contest with Senator Foraker for the nomination.

Offered Place Before.

The former instance in which Senator Knox was offered a place on the supreme bench was in 1902 when he was attorney general. Justice Shiras retired from active service and President Roosevelt told Mr. Knox he could have the appointment. At that time he was not in a position to consider the tender by reason of being engaged in important government work, such as the transfer of the Panama canal property and prosecution of the anti-rate cases. On another occasion it was intimated to Mr. Knox that if he would accept an appointment to the supreme bench Justice Harlan would resign and make a place for him.

The salary of an associate justice is $12,500 and that of the chief justice $13,000. The tenure is for life and by the terms of the recent law when a justice has served 10 years and has reached the age of 70 he is entitled to retire on full salary.

DAVIES THE SOLOIST.

Celebrated English Tenor to Sing at Orchestra Concerts Tonight and Tomorrow.

The last set of concerts but one this season by the Pittsburgh orchestra will be given this evening and tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Paur has prepared a brilliant program for these concerts. The serenade for strings by Volkmann is one of the most charming pieces in the whole orchestra repertoire. The beautiful obligato for 'cello will be played by Mr. Bramsen.

Mr. Davies, the soloist, has never sung with the Pittsburgh orchestra. He is the best concert tenor in England today, and is one of the most emotional singers on the concert stage. His interpretation of the Wagner and Weber numbers is eagerly looked forward to. The program in full is as follows:

Symphony in D Minor.....Dohnanyi
Aria, "No, I Can Bear My Fate No Longer," from "Der Freischutz"...Weber
Episode for orchestra, "The Carnival of Paris".....Svendsen
Intermission.
Serenade for string orchestra in D Minor.....Volkmann
Aria, "Lohengrin's Narration," from "Lohengrin".....Wagner
Overture, "Le Domino Noir".....Auber

"The Man on the Box."

The advance sale for the engagement at the Belasco theater next week of Henry E. Dixey in "The Man on the Box," has justified the statement that the engagement will be a perfect success from the business standpoint, at least. This play comes to Pittsburgh after a most successful engagement at Madison square theater, New York.

"Peggy from Paris."

The 30 pretty girls in the "Peggy From Paris" company, coming to the Alvin next week, can sing as well as look pretty, and they are always a feature of the George Ade shows. There are four Pittsburgh girls, six Boston girls, eight New York girls and two from Lexington, Ky.

SHALLENBERGER POINTS THE WAY

WANTED FOR TRANSFER POINT

There is hardly any doubt now that Pittsburgh will have a new postoffice and that the city will not have to wait long for it. The plan never contemplated the erection of a monumental specimen of architectural art; all that was wanted was sufficient space, properly covered, in which to transact the business of the postoffice for some years to come. The appropriation of $3,000,000 asked for by Congressman Burke was based on the cost of sites then considered available, sites not far from the present location of the postoffice. Since Fourth Assistant Postmaster W. S. Shallenberger has stepped in with a new idea, not half of the appropriation asked for will be needed.

Mr. Shallenberger's interest is not local. What he wants is a postoffice to serve as a transfer point for the enormous quantity of mail which is distributed in and from the Pittsburgh district, for many miles around. He argues that that transfer point ought to be located near the railroad terminals. As 75 per cent of the mail comes in at the Union station, right opposite the Union station is the site which he considers ideal.

It is Mr. Shallenberger's plan to buy the location, beginning at Twelfth street, on Liberty street, extending 300 feet in width toward Eleventh street, and 240 feet in depth from Liberty street to Penn avenue. The property can be bought for $1,000,000. On that ground Mr. Shallenberger would erect a one-story building, into which mail trains can be run. From the mail cars the mail would be dropped right into the postoffice.

The idea is take over to the new postoffice building opposite the Union station all the clerks from the Pittsburgh and Allegheny postoffices, except those employed in the distribution of the local mail for the two cities. By this method there would be plenty of room in the present postoffice building for the handling of the local mail, while from the new postoffice the mail for the North Side and for Pittsburgh would be sent to the Allegheny and Pittsburgh postoffices. The pneumatic tube service would be installed and the mail would be shot through the tubes to the Allegheny postoffice and the postoffice in Smithfield street, while that for sub-stations would be sent to its destination on street cars.

That is Mr. Shallenberger's idea. Whole mail trains could be run into the postoffice and single mail cars could be dropped down the tracks into the building. If the owners of the property want too much for their land, the government can institute condemnation proceedings, but it is thought there will be no difficulty in acquiring the ground for $1,000,000.

WATER COMES HIGH.

South Side High School Is to Be Closely Scrutinized.

The high school committee of the Central board of education last night organized for the ensuing year by electing Dr. W. H. McKelvey secretary. Messrs. McIlroy, Cameron, Foley and Reinecke were appointed the committee on repairs, and Messrs. Jameson, Easton, McEwen and McMillan the committee on supplies.

The bill of the Monongahela water company for the South Side high school was laid over. It amounted to $59 for last month, and this was thought excessive. Dr. H. L. Reinecke, who has had some experience with South Side water, said that under meter rates, as this school uses a meter, the bill should be $24; under the city water rent statute the rental for a year would be $121. Secretary Charles Reisfar, Jr., was directed to interview the officers of the company on the subject.

Concert for Boys' Brigade.

A concert for the benefit of the Trinity Boys' brigade will be given this evening in the new parish house, Oliver avenue. The following artists will perform: Miss Nellie Grundy, Arthur Love, Miss Mabel Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Hasler and the Grundy Sisters orchestra.

DEATH BY INDIGESTION.

A Long Train of Fatal Ills Is the Direct Result of Undigested Food.

Undigested food, by fermenting, forms a poison in the stomach and this is absorbed in the blood. If this goes on very long, and your heart happens to be weak, you'll be found some morning dead in bed, or you may fall back down the stairs about an hour and a half after dinner, and the doctor will call it heart disease. Yes, that may be the result, but not the cause. The cause is indigestion. Indigestion is a simple, common word, but it has a terrible import.

And so you may get apoplexy, and die suddenly while you're standing.

If you have a weak liver, the poison of undigested food will attack it and you will get jaundice. If you have weak kidneys, you will get Bright's Disease or diabetes, from which there is no rescue for any man.

It was a learned physician who said that the progress of a race depended upon the stomach of its members.

And you have at some time in your life eaten a heavy meal, or eaten in a hurry, and felt that "lump of lead" immediately afterward. That lump of lead is a hard ball of undigested food. The stomach can't digest it, and finds it hard to throw it out. And so it sours, and it makes you sour and everybody sour who talks with you. It gives you a bad breath and is building for you the road to dyspepsia and death, unless you stop it.

Stop it with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Just think, these little tablets are every bit as powerful as the gastric juice in your stomach. One grain will digest 3,000 grains of food. Isn't this wonderful? And it is true, just try it, and prove it.

If you have any brash, gas on the stomach, fermentation, burning, bloaty feeling, indigestion, dyspepsia or heartburn, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will make it disappear before it can do any harm to your heart or other organs.

They will invigorate the stomach, relieve the stomach of two-thirds of its work and give it a chance to rest. They will increase the flow of gastric juice, and if you will ever "live" in your lifetime, it will be after you have eaten a good, hearty meal, and taken one of these little tablets immediately afterward. You'll just feel fine.

Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after your next meal today and you will use them ever afterward. You will be cheerful, vigorous and your mind will be clear; you'll have snap and vim, and add many a day to your life.

You can get these wonderful little tablets at any druggist's for 50c a package.

FORMER MAYOR BLACK IS AGAIN THREATENED

Former Mayor Black of McKeesport yesterday received a second letter from the "Black Hand" society threatening his life if he failed to comply with the demand that he place $3,000 in the stump of a hollow tree in Curry's hollow, Dravosburg. Police have been guarding the residence of Mr. Black, as the first letter received stated that March 8 was the last day for the proposed victim to live.

The letter was dropped in the McKeesport postoffice on Wednesday afternoon at about the same time as the first, and contained a loaded cartridge. The letter stated that the society was not composed of Italians, but that during Black's term as mayor several of their number had been fined and sent to the workhouse, and they were sworn to be revenged.

The writer stated that a member of the band goes to the stump every day. The letter was turned over to the postoffice authorities.

Woman Has Her Throat Cut.

Mamie Newell, an inmate of a house at 118 Market street, McKeesport, is lying in the McKeesport hospital with her throat cut from ear to ear. The cutting is said to have been done by David Hancock of West Newton, for whom the police are looking. Hancock is alleged to have had a dispute with the woman, who is an old sweetheart, and without warning drew a razor and slashed her.

Two Negro Murderers to Hang.

John, alias "Bud" Williams and Cornelius Combs, negroes and condemned murderers, were informed yesterday by Sheriff Dickson that they will be hanged on April 24. The men learned their fate with indifference. They will not be hanged together. Combs will ascend the gallows first and Williams later.

LARKIN IS BACK TO FORMER TRIM

METERS, LIGHTS AND PAYROLL

Controller Larkin's sensational water meter holdup, his refusal to approve the payroll of the bureau of construction and his declared intention not to pay the electric light bills for the last three months were subjects that agitated City Hall yesterday. He took a fall out of Director Bigelow and the superintendent of the bureau of construction, Andrew W. Burk; laid down the law to Superintendent A. B. Shepherd of the bureau of water, and got J. D. Callery of the Philadelphia Company to come down a peg. The fight between him and Director Bigelow is still a draw, with the odds, however, in favor of Larkin, for he is referee as well as a principal in that set-to.

"Mr. Callery has agreed to a reduction in the cost of light," said Mr. Larkin. "It is what I would call a big reduction, but I am not at liberty to name the figure, as Mr. Callery desires to go over the books and consult with other officers of the company before agreeing to a definite figure. But it will be a big reduction anyhow. There was no stipulation concerning the length of the contract."

"Will you continue to hold up the arc light bills?"

"They will not be paid until an agreement is reached or a decision has been rendered by the courts."

Superintendent Shepherd called on Mr. Larkin to enter a friendly remonstrance concerning the controller's notification that he would not pay bills for any more material furnished or water meters brought in connection with Director Bigelow's plan to buy meters and install them. Mr. Shepherd's sole weapon was the fact that councils has appropriated the money to buy and install the meters.

Mr. Larkin told Mr. Shepherd what he thought of water meters. Finally the superintendent said there was law for the proposed meter buying. Larkin emphatically said that he would not pay the bills for any meters or material in connection with meters bought before March 15. Mr. Larkin holds that meters cannot be forced on consumers without an ordinance.

When it came to his set-to with Director Bigelow, relative to the payroll of the bureau of construction, Mr. Larkin was armed with a law granting him authority. There has been some talk that inspectors, rodmen, transitmen and other outside employes of the bureau of construction did not put in full time last month and that, instead of being laid off when there was no work for them to do, they were assigned to other work already properly taken care of by other employes. This talk is said to have got to the ears of the controller, so when the payroll of the bureau came down to him he inspected it closely. At any rate, it seemed to him, considering the season of the year, that too many outside men were shown to have been employed during February, and the uniformity with which they all seemed to have worked full time, despite the weather, was surprising to him. He therefore dropped a note to Superintendent Burk, who has sworn to the payroll, to call at his office to look over the document. But Mr. Burk did not come to the controller's office. Instead the assistant controller, E. S. Morrow, got a letter from Mr. Bigelow. It is said to be hot stuff. The controller would not talk what was in the letter, but he said that Mr. Bigelow's explanations could not be satisfactory, for the reason that only Mr. Burk, who swore to the bureau's payroll, was the man he wanted to see.

He still wants to see Mr. Burk and says he will not pay out the warrants until he had seen Mr. Burk.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT IN THE EAST END

What the people of the East End district have longed for during many years will be accomplished today when May's open their splendid new drug store at 6005 Penn avenue, near Highland avenue.

The event is replete with interest for everybody in the neighborhood, and in addition to the distribution of free souvenirs to all who call, the firm will give visitors samples of various kinds, booklets and many other articles of interest. Of course, the free souvenirs will be the biggest attraction, although the beauty of the store itself is so much out of the ordinary as to merit the attendance of a very large crowd on the opening day.

The main entrance is on Penn avenue with a rear entrance on Kirkwood street. The depth of the store room is 145 feet. The interior is finished in the finest quartered oak in the mission style.

Several of the departments in themselves are larger than the ordinary drug store. A 30-foot soda fountain in charge of an expert is one of the special attractions. Pleasure drinks and health beverages will be dispensed day and evening throughout the year.

Other special features include Huyler's and Fenway's celebrated candies; cigars, representing the various brands of the National Cigar Stands company; rubber goods and sick room supplies, etc. The display is a veritable exposition of pure drugs, proprietary medicines, sundries and the thousand and one things which are essential to an establishment of this kind.

This is truly a drug store for all the people, all the time. Five cent articles, five dollar articles and goods at every price between these extremes are guaranteed the best values in the city for the money. For example, a toothbrush that costs 25c at an ordinary drug store costs 10c at May's. And the goods you want are always in stock. You can depend on that. You are not subjected to vexatious delays. Furthermore, May's facilities for quick delivery of all purchases are unsurpassed and the telephone system places you in instant touch with any department with which you may wish to place an order.

Every department is complete and contains the same goods at the same prices as the downtown store.

The business of this concern has grown in 15 years from a small beginning in one-half of one storeroom on Market street, till it is now probably the largest retail drug business in the world. There is nothing like it anywhere else.

A large list of special bargains has been prepared for the opening at the East End store, and the same bargains will be obtainable today at May's downtown store, Fifth avenue and Market street. The latter has just been remodeled, and an opening will take place there also today in commemoration of the changes which have been wrought by way of improving what was already conceded to be the most up-to-date establishment that the people of this vicinity have ever known.

The policy which has made May's establishment successful is the same as that which made the name and fame of the great merchant prince of Chicago—Marshall Field. In other words, May's believe firmly in the old adage that "honesty is the best policy." Their aim is always to satisfy the customer. Advertising is expensive, and the cost of attracting a customer to the store is so great that it would be a foolish expenditure if the customer came only once. It is the desire of this firm to have your trade today, tomorrow and ever afterward.

Since May's opened their downtown drug store the drug business of Pittsburgh has been placed on a plane very different from that which it once occupied.

It is a notorious fact, that generally speaking, drug store prices have been exorbitant. Most persons felt that whenever they made a purchase at a drug store they were overcharged. Besides, in most instances the medicines were not fresh, and therefore physicians could not depend upon them in cases of serious illness. However, all that is changed now. May's do such an enormous business that their stock is always fresh, and everyone knows that their prices are away below those of any competitor. The fact that May's import their own drugs is an assurance that whatever one buys from this well-known firm is always of the highest standard as to quality.

The Death Roll.

The Rev. Dr. S. C. Faris.

The Rev. Dr. Salmon C. Faris, aged 74, died yesterday morning at the residence of his son, Robert S. Faris, 1106 Center street, Wilkinsburg, after a two days' illness. He came here on Tuesday morning from Florida for a visit, and the change of climate resulted in a cold which caused his death. Dr. Faris was born in Elm Grove, W. Va., and was educated in the Princeton Theological seminary. He was ordained a minister at Buckhannon, W. Va., and came to Pittsburgh in the early 70s, serving as associate pastor in the First Presbyterian church for about 10 years. He left this city to be a traveling missionary in the south, later had charge of several churches in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and was president of Richmond college, Richmond, O. In 1892 he returned to Pittsburgh, was engaged in home missionary work here, and was a delegate to the general assembly in 1898 and 1900. At the time of his death he was in charge of a Presbyterian church at Candler, Fla. Dr. Faris is survived by his widow and three children: Miss Helen M. Faris, a teacher in the academical department of the Wilkinsburg High school; Robert S., president of the Faris Real Estate Company, and Paul H., who is connected with the real estate department of the Pennsylvania railroad. The funeral services will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Louis Reuter.

Louis Reuter died yesterday at the residence of his son Henry, 1703 Irwin avenue, Allegheny. In 1872 Mr. Reuter, his wife, Augusta, and his son, Henry, came to this country, settling in Allegheny. Mrs Reuter died 14 years ago. Since then Mr. Reuter made his home wkith his two sons, Henry of the Henry Reuter Grocery Company of Pittsburgh, and Emil, who was born in this country, and is a minister in Floradale, Ontario, Canada, whom he visited every summer. He was a charter member of St. Matthew's Lutheran church and for 18 years was a deacon. The funeral will take place from Henry Reuter's residence at 2 p. m. Sunday, services being held at St. Matthew's church, Middle street and North avenue an hour later, conducted by the Rev. E. K. Horst. Addresses will be made in English and German.

Julia A. Mamaux.

Mrs. Julia A. Mamaux, aged 63, widow of Anthony Mamaux, died yesterday at the family home, 130 Lincoln avenue, Millvale. She was born in Lawrenceville, and had been a resident of Millvale for 22 years. Mrs. Mamaux was a prominent member of the Millvale Presbyterian church. She leaves the following children: Anthony, Claud, Marmaduke, Leon, Cordelia and Beatrix.

PENNSYLVANIA ELKS FORM GRAND LODGE

State Organization Perfected and Officers Elected at Harrisburg—One Pittsburgher Is Chosen.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, PA., March 8.—A state lodge to bring together the members of the various lodges of Elks in Pennsylvania was organized today at a meeting of representatives of the various lodges. This is the first association of the kind organized in this order. The state lodge in Pennsylvania is intended to further good fellowship; protect the interests of the order, and to consider questions and exchange ideas.

The meeting was in charge of the four district deputy grand exalted rulers of Pennsylvania: George W. Stine of Lebanon, east; Fred G. Hand, of Scranton, central; John Frederick Austin of Corry, northwest; H. P. Staving of Allegheny, southwest. The officers chosen are:

President, J. D. Jones, Scranton; vice presidents, W. M. Benham, Pittsburgh; Ray N. Keck, Allentown; H. P. Staley, Altoona; secretary, W. W. Morgaridge, Corry; trustees, George J. Falkenstein, McKeesport; S. L. Dwyher, Reading; J. H. J. McNulty, Philadelphia; W. H. Hackenberg, Northumberland; H. W. Oehre, Etna; W. L. Raeder, esquire, Wilkesbarre; Dr. C. H. Harvey, Erie.

The next annual meeting of the state lodge will be held at Harrisburg the second Tuesday of May, 1907.

The Atlantic City Elks minstrels gave a performance tonight for the charity fund of the Harrisburg lodge. With the visitors were Capt. Mark Casto and wife.

Hay's HAIRHEALTH Saved His Position

Keeps Him Looking Young.

Thousands lose their positions and many fail to procure employment because their gray hairs make them look old. This can be surely avoided at trifling expense.

HAY'S HAIRHEALTH

makes age halt and keeps hosts of people in employment because it takes years from their apparent age. HAIRHEALTH always brings back the natural color and beauty of youth to gray or faded hair. Positively removes dandruff, kills the germ and stops falling hair. Not a dye, but a high-class hair-grower dressing for men and women. Its use cannot be detected.

Added by Harfina Soap it at once soothes and heals the scalp, destroys microbes, stops itching and promotes fine hair growth on a clean, healthy scalp.

Gentlemen—At 40 my hair began to turn gray. A friend on my road lost his place because his gray hair made him look older than he was. Profiting by his experience, I began using Hay's Hairhealth, and I have the same dark brown curly hair that I had at 21. Have held my position, though many younger men, whose only fault was their gray hair, have been dismissed. I thank you for my position.—N. J. RAILROAD CONDUCTOR.

J. W. WARDROP MAY BE THE MAN

Picked as Likely Successor to G. H. Anderson as Manager of Chamber of Commerce.

NEW BLOOD AND NEW IDEAS

It is a foregone conclusion that the chamber of commerce will have a new executive manager next Monday, when the new board of directors meet. It is pretty generally believed that James W. Wardrop will be elected to the position, filled for so many years by George H. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson is not a candidate for re-election. It is now well known that the element which secured control of the board of directors at the last election holds Mr. Anderson responsible for the chamber's backward stand on civic questions and for the policy of taking an active part more in the direction of national matters than of local affairs. It is now said that Mr. Anderson was unwittingly the cause of the organization of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, inasmuch as, it is said, when members who later organized the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association went with him with the suggestion that the chamber take steps toward increasing Pittsburgh's trade with out-of-town merchants, and take up the trade excursion idea, he frowned on the proposition as being beneath the dignity of the chamber of commerce.

Half of the members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association also belong to the chamber of commerce; nearly all the directors elected the other day over other members of the old board nominated by the administration, belong to the younger organization. There is talk of merging the two bodies, and while several new directors of the chamber say that proposition has not been discussed, many persons think that answer is an evasion. It will surprise nobody if one of the two organizations ceases to exist, for with the blood of the junior body now injected into the chamber of commerce, the latter could take up and continue the work of the former.

When the merger is effected the name of the chamber of commerce will remain. The chamber will still interest itself in river improvements, in the increase of railroad and transportation facilities, in matters that require congressional aid or action, in things that need the united force of other commercial bodies throughout the country, while at the same time the specific work of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association and its methods of advertising the city and increasing its trade will be carried on.

That is one reason why the election of James W. Wardrop as manager of the chamber of commerce is considered probable, for he is considered by advocates of his election as well fitted to take executive charge of the "new" chamber of commerce.

GREAT CROWD ATTENDS BIG STORE'S ANNIVERSARY

Reception of Meyer Jonasson Company an Event of Pleasure to Host of Women Shoppers.

The Meyer Jonasson Company celebrated the seventh anniversary of their establishment in Pittsburgh by an informal reception to their friends and patrons yesterday. The salesrooms were prettily decorated and the newest and brightest of the spring stock was on display. Carnations were the flower selected by the firm for the feature of their decorations, and this dainty blossom was given to each visitor as a souvenir of the occasion. Throngs of daintily gowned women passed through the storerooms inspecting the offerings of the various departments during the morning hours. Shortly past noon, however, the crowd became so great the management was obliged to discontinue the distribution of the souvenir.

The suit department is making a special display of morning and afternoon suits in serge, voile, silk and veilings. One of the firm's newest showings is the modish skirts in checks and over-plaids with jackets and in plain material. This style of costume is strictly new this season, as are also the Empire coats with full ripple basque extending 10 and 12 inches below the waist line in the back. All skirts show the circular cut, plaited back and front, and in most cases with side seams, which prevent the sagging so common with this pattern. Greys, blues, greens and lavenders share popularity with whites and blacks, the latter appearing this year excessively trimmed in lace.

For wear with these elaborate jacket and skirt suits there were shown exquisite blouses of net and lace. Of point d'esprit lace, elaborately inwrought with cluny and val, with baby Irish and val, built very high in the neck and decidedly abbreviated in the sleeve, these blouses must be seen to be appreciated. Equally dainty and modish are the lingerie waists in batiste enriched with handwork embroidery, shadow and eyelet insertions and inserts of val; motifs of cluny and Irish and the hand-run tucks which promise to be so popular in this summer's blouse.

The millinery department made a special feature of $5 trimmed hats. Turbans, short brim sailors, toques of horsehair in black and white, in black with touches of pink and blue, in all the new shades of old rose, grey and brown were shown at the uniform price of $5. These are really a boon to the woman who is looking for headgear to tide her over the "between seasons" period.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 8 last night was 7 feet and the river was falling.

CINCINNATI, March 8.—(Special.)—River 19.1 and falling. Departures were: Keystone State for Pittsburgh, Courier for Maysville, Indiana for Louisville.

LOUISVILLE—River falling. In canal, 8 feet; on falls, 5.8; below locks, 21.2.

WHEELING—River 9 feet and falling. Departed: Lorena and Greenland for Pittsburgh, M. K. Bedford for Parkersburg.

GALLIPOLIS—River 17 feet and falling.

MORGANTOWN—River 8 feet 3 inches and falling.

MARIETTA—River 7 feet and falling.

STEUBENVILLE—River 9 feet and falling. Up: Lorena, Valiant, Greenland, W. H. Flint. Down: Volunteer.

GREENSBORO—River 8 feet 7 inches and falling.

POINT PLEASANT—River 15 feet 4 inches and falling. Down: Kanawha and Crescent.

POOL BOATS ARE ACTIVE.

Empties Are Being Brought in and Tows Made Up.

While there is no coal barge stage the pool boats were more active yesterday than they have been for some time, either making up tows or taking empties above. Large deliveries were also made during the day to consumers along the Allegheny and Monongahela. Among the boats in the harbor yesterday were the Crusader, the Eleanor and the Rival.

The only movement in the packet lines yesterday was the arrival and departure of the Ben Hur. She brought in a fair trip and took away a number of horses and vehicles.

The Lorena and Greenland are due to arrive today. The Greenland will leave this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the Lorena on Saturday at the same hour.

The Virginia is due in from Cincinnati tonight or early tomorrow. She will leave Saturday afternoon for Cincinnati. The Keystone State will go to Cincinnati on Monday.

Through an error in the river notes of yesterday's issue of The Gazette the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line was made to appear as having its property appraised. The appraisement of the Pittsburgh and Morgantown packet line, now in the hands of a receiver, was what the report was intended to record. The strong reputation of the Cincinnati line precludes anything like that.

The J. B. Finley arrived yesterday. She will probably remain here and take out a tow on the next rise.

The P. M. Pfeil, which assisted some of the towboats out on the last rise, came back yesterday.

For a few hours yesterday the Eleanor was aground on a sand bar under the Smithfield street bridge. She was lightened and taken off.

PITTSBURGH STUDENTS ARE FAR IN THE FRONT

Sixteen Out of 19 Competitors from Carnegie Technical Schools Receive Mention.

Students of the Carnegie Technical schools are already making their mark. Fifty-four problems were submitted from students of architectural schools throughout the country to a jury of the Beaux Art society, New York city. Of these 19 were submitted by Carnegie schools pupils. The jury awarded second mention to these local students: W. P. Hutchins, W. H. King, Thomas Pringle, H. A. Buxton, W. L. Amberson, S. L. Roush, C. J. Robling and J. M. MacQueen. These will now be rated among students who are studying the plan problem, which is more advanced work. In addition these received mention, making in all 16 out of the 19 Carnegie students entering the competition: LaForest Johnston, S. H. Conwell, F. A. Leisch, A. Reber, C. J. Pressler, L. Fewsmith, Jr., F. W. Powelson and James Chalmers.

W. H. King was awarded first prize in order of merit from the schools throughout the country, and C. J. Pressler was awarded third prize, both Carnegie Technical school students; the second place went to C. A. Horton of George A. Post atelier, New York city; fourth to H. N. McCauley, George Washington university, and fifth to F. D. Amory of the W. F. Beekman atelier, New York city. Only eight other mentions were given throughout the country.

In the esquisse-esquisse class B problem there were 13 competitors throughout the country, and the Carnegie Technical schools students received the only two mentions—F. G. Bruten and W. H. Green. Of the 19 problems, 14 were submitted by the Carnegie Technical schools architectural class.

In the Oil Fields

Much interest has been centered in the territory adjacent to the Butler Oil and Gas Company's white oil producer on the Mengert farm, located southeast of Mansfield, near the town of Butler, in Richland county, Ohio. The new producer is owned by the Ohio Oil Company, and is located on the Remey farm, about one-fourth of a mile south of the Mengert farm producer. The new well was drilled in last Wednesday and is estimated to be good for 85 barrels a day. The oil is white and of the same gravity as that found in the initial well. The Mengert farm well is still producing 25 or 30 barrels a day. The new strike shows an extension to the south and will stimulate operations in that direction. The Ohio company paid a bonus of $15,000 for the Remey farm, and it looks now as though it was a good investment. Owing to the color and gravity of the oil, operators have been inclined to regard the first well as a sort of a freak. It is possible that a pool of some kind may be developed.

It was reported, but could not be traced to an authentic source, that a wildcat had been drilled in, located 15 miles west of the Butler producers, and was showing for a good producer. There are four wells drilling in Richland county, all looking for oil in the same formation in which it was developed in the Mengert and Remey farm wells.

Light wells have been the best the late completions in the lower southwest fields could present. In a few districts there is a little increase in development work and greater activity is promised when the roads are in an improved condition. On Point Pleasant creek, in Ellsworth district, Tyler county, the Southern Oil Company's test on the Workman farm has been holding up steadily at 480 barrels a day since it was given a shot. This is now the best producer in the lower southwest fields and has stimulated a considerable amount of new work in that locality. On Indian creek, McElroy district, Tyler county, Bish & Elder have at last drilled their second test on the Nancy Allen heirs' farm into the Gordon and have a show for a 20-barrel producer from that level. In Shirley district, Doddridge county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 14 on the Jacob Underwood farm through the Dunkard sand and has a five-barrel pumper. It will probably be drilled to the lower sands before it is tested.

On the Ohio side, in the Payne district, Washington county, the Buck Oil Company has drilled its test on the N. Taylor farm through the Berea grit and found nothing except a big dose of salt water. In the Scio district, Harrison county, W. C. Kennedy & Co. have drilled their test on the Firebaugh farm through the Berea grit and have a duster.

Miss Caulfield Lectures on Art.

Miss Anna Caulfield lectured last night before the Academy of Science and Art in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music, her subject being "Paris, Literary and Artistic." In discussing the all-important question of clothes Miss Caulfield said when you are visiting Paris if you wish to see really beautiful and harmonious combinations of shade and color go, not to the art galleries of the Luxemburg and Louvre, but to the great millinery establishments that are the pride of Paris and the envy of the world.

Seize Arms Intended for China.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Twenty-two modern rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition were seized yesterday in the quarters of the Chinese crew on the Pacific mail steamer Manchuria, scheduled to sail for the Orient this afternoon. The officials found the guns had been purchased in this city by the engineers and smuggled aboard the vessel. It is not known how long the smuggling of this character of goods has been going on.

FOOD OR STIMULANT.

Ask your doctor if when he orders a patient to drink lots of pure milk he advises the addition of a large quantity of whiskey. He'll tell you "no" very emphatically. Yet there are people who, when ordered to get Scott's Emulsion, will accept some wine, cordial or extract of cod liver oil and think it is the same thing or better. If you want and need cod liver oil in its best, purest and most easily digested form, get Scott's Emulsion. If you want whiskey, that's another matter, but don't look for the same results.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl St., New York.

MRS. HARTJE'S CHARGES ARE MOST SENSATIONAL

Accuses Her Husband of Securing False Testimony from Their Negro Coachman.

Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, who is suing Augustus Hartje, the paper manufacturer for a divorce, filed her bill of particulars yesterday. The most sensational charge is contained in the ninth paragraph, in which Mrs. Hartje says:

On October 28, 1905, at the office of his counsel in Pittsburgh, the respondent willfully and maliciously procured one, Clifford Hooe, a colored man, to falsely swear, depose and say in a deposition taken for use in a divorce proceeding brought by said respondent, that he, the said Clifford Hooe, had had improper relations with libellant, which deposition of the said Clifford Hooe, the said respondent willfully and maliciously procured to be made by use of money and other means, well knowing that the same was false, and which false statements of the said Hooe, the said respondent procured to be circulated abroad to the great humiliation and injury and damage to the good name and reputation of libellant.

Hooe, who was the Hartjes' coachman, has since been indicted for perjury at the instance of Mrs. Hartje's counsel.

Mrs. Hartje also asserts that for the past twelve years her husband has been in the habit of swearing at her before their children and for the last three years failed to provide clothing for her, leaving that to her father. Mrs. Hartje says that in May, 1905, at their residence in Pittsburgh, Hartje beat her in the face with his fists, and two months later, in London, England, kicked her on two occasions. During the last two or three years, Mrs. Hartje says, her husband became addicted to the use of liquor, and when under its influence he was more than usually disagreeable and abusive. She also makes a number of charges reflecting severely upon his moral character.

SUPERIOR GENERAL OF CARMELITES ARRIVES

The Very Rev. Father Mayer Will Travel 40,000 Miles on His First Inspection Tour.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 8.—On a tour of inspection the Very Rev. Pius Mayer, superior general of the Carmelite order, arrived in this country today on the Scilia. This is his first tour of inspection, and he will visit all houses of the Carmelite order in the United States, Canada, South America, Spain and Holland. This journey of 40,000 miles the superior general will make with an empty purse and only a small handbag, containing the actual necessities of his toilet. This is because the rule of his order, the oldest in the world, is poverty.

Father Mayer is a citizen of this country and was formerly in Pittsburgh. He is a big man, about 60 years old and looks more like a crusader or a fighting man than a monk.

"I am on what might be called a tour of inspection," he said, "and I expect that it will be after Christmas before I get back to Rome. This trip has to be made by the head of the order every three years."

Colby Wins Pittsburgher's Trophy.

PALM BEACH, FLA., March 8.—(Special.)—Howard A. Colby of New York, won a tennis cup here today and captured another that must be won two years in succession before it becomes his absolute property. This cup was presented by Thomas McKee of Pittsburgh last year, and won by Edwin Fuller Torrey of New York. He was here to defend his title, but was defeated by Mr. Colby.

Miss Anthony Resting Easy.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 8.—Miss Susan B. Anthony is resting very comfortably tonight, but is extremely weak. This weakness is the one unfavorable symptom about her condition that causes her friends anxiety.

Crafton Postmistress Resigns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(Special.)—Mary S. Murphy, postmistress at Crafton, has resigned. She wishes to leave the service because of illness in her family. Representative Barchfeld will recommend her successor in a few days.

Lead the style procession this Spring

DON'T wait until your friends make their appearance in the season's new fashions. If you are a man who wants to maintain a reputation as "a good dresser," now is the time for you to come here and make your selection of Spring Toggery.

Why don't you come here for your Spring suit and a topcoat? We can show you every smart style in every fashionable fabric, and the man who don't find exactly what he wants, must be more than critical. "There is no better clothing sold anywhere" than that which bears our label—garments that will neither give you the appearance of being overdressed nor underdressed, but clothes that show good taste and that are in harmony with your station.

WOMEN EMPLOY EXPERTS TO SHOP FOR BARGAINS

Many women have stopped shopping. Bargain counters and days spent in the stores, getting ideas for gowns, etc., no longer appeal to them. They have other things to occupy them and have given their buying into the care of professional shoppers, who simply carry out their ideas, or if desired suggest colors, styles, etc., that they think would be becoming and smart. These shoppers are a real boon to women who live in small towns and seldom get into the city to shop, for an order is executed immediately and frequently with better results than the woman could get for herself. The beauty of this is that to the individual there is no extra expense for the buyers' services, as they get their commission from the stores.

These shoppers are asked to buy everything from false teeth to tombstones and frequently are requested to purchase men's clothes.

"There is nothing that I do not shop for," said a well-known woman buyer, "from selecting a pet dog to getting false hair to match a sample. Most of them are quite reasonable in their demands, and give me enough money to purchase with, but occasionally I have a penurious customer who wants more than she is willing to pay for.

"I had one such last Christmas. She sent $5 and asked me to buy a handsome lace collar for her mother—it was to be of some rare old hand-made lace—a lace handkerchief equally nice, a lace trimmed nightgown, besides a tooth brush and a nail file with silver handles. I did the best I could. The lace, of course, wasn't of the rare quality she had described.

"Orders for rubber bands, tonics, exercising machines, in fact, anything that is supposed to reduce flesh, come from all parts of the country, and would be easy to fill, but everyone wants me to give them my personal recommendation, and that is, of course, impossible. I do advise physicians and dentists, and even suggest certain churches to attend when requested. As for theater tickets, I am constantly buying them in advance for out-of-town patrons, and I do a regular hotel business engaging rooms.

"Orders come in humorous form sometimes. Women write me long descriptions of their personal appearance and give me exact measurements, as they should when I order a tailor-made gown, but some of them tell their waist measure when they want me to buy shoes. One woman from the far west said that she had not been able to get a becoming hat for years, and so as a last resort wrote to me to find out if I would purchase one for her, just to change her luck. Along with this letter she sent a picture of herself, a lock of her hair, and the old hat she had worn for years because it was the only becoming one she could find, and she wanted no mistake made on the measurements of her head.

"She added that she could not go to church or even to her neighbors until she got back her old bonnet or the new one arrived, for she had nothing else to wear. I took the hair, picture and hat to a modish milliner and read to her the part of the letter that told the color of the woman's eyes, complexion and shape of her teeth, and she made up a perfect dream of a Paris pattern. I suppose it must have pleased the woman whether it was becoming or not, for I heard nothing to the contrary.

"When a letter came telling me to select a tombstone of gray granite I thought I had about reached the limit of odd things, but to my surprise the next week a request for four false teeth—like the one enclosed—convinced me that there was nothing I would not be asked to buy. The teeth were easy to get, and the commission was good, but I confess buying tombstones was not such an easy matter, especially when it came to having an appropriate inscription cut in.

"Buying engagement rings and presents for brides are quite common orders now, for the men seem to have too little time to do this, or some of them think a woman's idea about such things is better than their own.

"When a man writes in and asks for the newest styles and shades in ties, I always feel a little hesitancy, for men are usually peculiar about having women select their neckwear. I have given orders for men's suits and picked out the material for them. Only the other day a young man who is to be married soon requested me to select the material for his wedding suit, and sent the measurements so that I could have it made up at once.

"Some of the measurements I get for gowns are quite remarkable. One woman who has been sending to me for years is six feet tall and weighs 235 pounds. You can imagine her proportions. I believe that she is 48 inches, or four feet round the waist, 58 inches in the bust, and hips measure exactly six feet. It takes quite a little material to make her clothes.

"One of the most difficult things I was ever asked to get was a divided skirt for a piano drapery. It was a mandarin's divided skirt that was wanted, and after several weeks' search I finally located a beautiful one. Recently I have had a good many calls to take complete charge of weddings, even to the selecting of the trousseau and the gowns for the bridesmaids. In this way the young woman who is shortly to be married is saved all the worry and strain of not only shopping, but planning her gowns, etc. It's much more cheerful work than buying shrouds and mourning for a family, and some of them want me to select flowers for the funeral.

"A little Indian girl was recently sent to me. She had never worn anything but native costume, and as she was to enter a fashionable school for the winter, her friends wished her properly clothed.

"She went with me when I bought her wardrobe, and was perfectly delighted with the shops and the lovely things she was to wear. It was a novel experience for me, too, for I was really getting a little savage into form for the social life of a private school, where some of the wealthiest girls in the country are sent, and it was interesting. She possessed nothing, not even a brush or a stickpin, as other girls have, and I fitted her out with everything, even hairpins and shoelaces."

A MODISH TAILOR COAT.

There is no diminution of the popularity of satin-faced cloths, for, though they are not destined to be used so universally for spring gowns for general wear, they are in great demand for the smart tailored coats. The design sketched here is one of the newest ideas from Paris, showing the way in which strapping is employed for a front trimming. Braids of all kinds figure prominently in the decoration of spring wraps, most of which are short, or hip length. This coat is built of finely striped face cloth, with collar and cuff trimmings of heavy silk moire, which in turn is bound with elegant silk braid. Accompanying it is a hat of dark brown satin chip draped around the crown with a fold of satin and trimmed with a shaded brown coque's plume.

RECIPES FOR ST. PATRICKS DAY.

Murphy Bisque.

Cook four medium sized potatoes with one onion until tender; press through a sieve; add one quart hot milk to make it of the consistency of cream; then add one tablespoonful minced parsley and celery salt, white pepper to suit taste and two level tablespoonfuls butter rubbed smooth with one tablespoonful flour; add to the milk mixture and stir until creamy; remove and serve in hot bouillon cups; place a teaspoonful of whipped cream on top and decorate with a shamrock cut from stuffed olives.

Shamrock Salad.

Split mint cherries and insert salted pecan nuts; marinate in lemon juice over night; then arrange on cups of blanched Boston lettuce and press a shamrock on each of mayonnaise tinted green.

Blarney Cream.

One quart of thin cream scalded, then add to this one-half pint of sugar, one tablespoonful vanilla extract; stir until sugar dissolves; tint a delicate green and freeze. When serving sprinkle tiny shamrocks cut from cooked citron or mint cherries as the glass is filled with cream; top with lemon ice tinted green and garnish with the shamrocks and mint foliage. Another way would be to fill the glass half full of the ice and citron shamrocks, topping with the cream. A third way to serve the frozen course is to cut a frozen cream brick into cubes and garnish each with the citron.

THE GAZETTE PATTERN.

(No. 5614.) Ladies' or Misses' Slashed Bolero.

This illustration shows a jaunty bolero jacket that is suitable alike for ladies or misses. The back is plain and the straight fronts are slashed to the bust. The pattern provides for either full-length or elbow sleeves. A smart touch is given by the turned-back revers that ornament the fronts, although they may be omitted if preferred. Broadcloth, velvet, silk and linen are all appropriate for the making. The medium size will require 1¾ yards of 44-inch material.

Ladies' or misses' slashed bolero, No. 5614. Sizes for 30, 34, 38 and 42 inches bust measure.

The pattern here illustrated will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents.

New Spring Wraps.

Some pretty little shawl shaped wraps for spring are being sent over from Paris, and when the weather begins to grow mild they will contest favor with the stole that we already possess. The new stoles are rather large, as were the fur stoles this season, but extremely pliable so that they can be used by the younger contingent in the popular "throw-over," as well as in the more demure fashion affected by their elders.

For wear with the spring suit the wrap of feathers promises great popularity. Black ostrich feathers with a supple white satin lining are utilized in the formation of a wrap wide enough to almost cover the shoulders. Alternate bands of grey marabout feathers and grey guipure lace edged round with chenille fringe form another graceful stole.

Little mantles with a point back and front like a shawl come in cashmere and face cloth in light colors, as well as in supple failles and chiffon velvets. None of these new wraps are long, and however extended back or front, are usually slashed up at the side to give a glimpse of the waist line when this is defined in a corselet or shaped belt.

"There's a Reason."

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

"That is true. There is a piece of land for sale adjoining my garden, which would suit me exactly. Flowers bring a good price in Paris, and that business would please my wife. Fruit, also, yields a good profit."

The advocate knew now that he had caught his man. "Remember, too, my dear Goudar, that if you succeed, these 15,000 francs would only be a part payment. They might perhaps double the sum. M. de Boiscoran is the most liberal of men, and he would take pleasure in royally rewarding the man who saved him." As he spoke, he opened the pocketbook, and drew from it 15 thousand frank notes, which he spread out before him. "To any but you," he went on, "I should hesitate to pay such a sum in advance. Another man might take the money, and never trouble himself about the affair. But I know your uprightness; and, if you give me your word in return for the notes, I shall be satisfied. Come, shall it be so?"

The detective was evidently not a little excited; for, self-possessed as he ordinarily was, he had turned somewhat pale. He hesitated. He handled the bank notes, and then, all of a sudden, exclaimed—"Wait two minutes."

He got up instantly, and ran toward the house. "Is he going to consult his wife?" M. Folgat asked himself. Such was indeed his purpose, and the next moment the pair appeared at the other end of the garden walk engaged in a lively discussion. However, their talk did not last long, and Goudar came back to the arbor, exclaiming—"Agreed. I am your man!"

The advocate was delighted, and shook his hand. "Thank you," he cried; "for, with your assistance, I am almost sure of success. Unfortunately, we have no time to lose. When can you go to work?"

"This moment. Give me time to change my clothes, and I am at your service. You will have to give me the keys of the house at Passy."

"I have them here in my pocket."

"Well, then, let us go there at once; for I must, first of all, reconnoiter the ground. And you shall see if it takes me long to dress."

In less than 15 minutes he re-appeared in a long overcoat, looking, for all the world, like one of those retired grocers who have made a fortune, and settled somewhere outside the fortifications of Paris, displaying their idleness in broad daylight, and forever repenting that they have given up their business. "Let us go," he said to the lawyer, and then having bowed to Madame Goudar, who accompanied them to the front gate with a radiant smile, they got into the cab, and bid the driver to take them to 23 Rue des Vignes at Passy.

This Rue des Vignes is a curious street, leading nowhere, little known and so deserted that the grass grows all over it. Long and dreary, hilly, muddy, scarcely paved, and full of holes, it looks much more like a wretched village lane than like a Paris street. There are no shops, and indeed only a few houses intervening here and there between interminable walls, overtopped by lofty trees. "Ah! the place is well chosen for a mysterious rendezvous," growled Goudar. "Too well chosen I dare say; for we shall pick up no information here."

The vehicle stopped before a small door, in a thick wall, which bore numerous traces of the two sieges and their destructive effects. "Here is No. 23," said the driver; "but I see no house."

It could not be seen from the street; but on opening the door M. Folgat and Goudar perceived it, rising in the center of an immense garden, looking gloomy and pretty, with a double porch, a slate roof, and newly painted shutters. "By Jove!" exclaimed the detective, "what a place for a gardener!"

M. Folgat detected so keenly the man's ill-concealed desire that he answered, piled, "If we save M. de Boiscoran, I am sure he will not keep any."

"Let us go in," cried the detective, in a voice which revealed his intense desire to succeed.

Unfortunately, Jacques de Boiscoran had spoken but too truly; when he said that no trace was left of former days. Furniture, carpets, everything was new; and Goudar and M. Folgat in vain explored the four rooms on the ground floor, and the four rooms up stairs, together with the basement, where the kitchen was, and finally the garret. "We shall find nothing," declared the detective. "Though to satisfy my conscience, I will come and spend an afternoon here; but now we have more important business. Let us go and see the neighbors!"

There are not many residents in the Rue des Vignes. A school master and a nurseryman, a locksmith, a jobmaster, five or six people of independent means, and last but not least, the keeper of a wine-shop and eating house; these constituted the entire population.

"We shall soon make the rounds," said Goudar, after having ordered the coachman to wait for them at the end of the street. On inquiring they found that neither the school master nor his assistants knew anything. The nurseryman had heard say that No. 23 belonged to an Englishman; but he had never seen him, and did not even know his name. The locksmith knew, however, that he was called Francis Burnett. He had done some work for him, and had frequently seen him; but it was so long since that he did not think he would recognize him again. "We are unlucky," said M. Folgat, after this visit.

Fortunately, however, the livery stable keeper had a somewhat more retentive memory. He said he knew the Englishman of No. 23 very well, having driven him three or four times, and the description he gave of his person fully corresponded with that of Jacques de Boiscoran. He also remembered that one evening in wretched weather, "Sir Burnett" came himself to order a carriage. It was for a lady, who got in alone, and was driven to the Place de la Madeline. But it was a dark night; the lady wore a thick veil; he had not been able to distinguish her features, and all he could say was that she looked above medium height.

"It is always the same story," exclaimed Goudar. "But the wine seller ought to be better informed. If I were alone, I would breakfast at his place."

"I will breakfast with you," said M. Folgat, and accordingly they both entered the tavern. The landlord did not know much himself, but his waiter, who had been with him some five or six years, knew "Sir Burnett," as everybody called the Englishman, by sight, and had been well acquainted with the servant girl, Suky Wood. As he laid the cloth, he told the advocate and the detective all he knew. Suky, he said, was a tall, strapping girl, with hair red enough to set her bonnet on fire, and graceful enough to be mistaken for a heavy dragoon in female disguise. He had often had long talks with her when she had come to fetch some ready-made dish, or to buy some beer, of which she was very fond. She told him she was very pleased with her place, as she got plenty of money, and had, so to say, nothing to do, being left alone in the house for nine months in the year. From her the waiter had also learned that "Sir Burnett" must have another house, as he only came to the Rue des Vignes to receive visits from a lady. This lady bothered Suky, who declared she had never been able to see the end of her nose, so very cautious was she in all her movements; still, she meant to try and get a glimpse of her face, if it were only possible.

"And you may be sure she managed to do so sometime or other," whispered Goudar, who immediately gave vent to an exclamation of satisfaction on hearing from the waiter that Suky had been very intimate with the servant of an old gentleman, living alone at No. 27. "That servant must be seen," observed the detective, and, directly the meal was finished, M. Folgat and he walked toward the house in question.

Luckily the girl was alone, her master having just gone out. At first she was a little frightened at being called upon and questioned by two unknown men; but the detective knew how to reassure her very quickly, and then, being naturally a great talker, she speedily confirmed all the waiter had said, besides imparting some fresh information. She had been very intimate with Suky, who had not hesitated to tell her that Burnett was not an Englishman, that his name was not Burnett, and that he concealed himself in the Rue des Vignes under a false name, for the purpose of meeting his lady-love, who was a grand lady of marvelous beauty. Finally, at the outbreak of the war, Suky had told her that she was going back to England to her relations."

"We have obtained but little information," said Goudar to M. Folgat at the conclusion of this interview, "and the jury would pay little attention to it; still there is enough to confirm, at least in part, M. de Boiscoran's statement. We can prove that he met here a lady who had the greatest interest in remaining unknown. Was she the Countess de Claudieuse? We must find it out from Suky, for she has seen her, beyond all doubt. Hence we must hunt up Suky. And now let us get back to the cab, and go to headquarters. You can wait about ARMA sq 10H puqs I "looping up signal ou! ajsodde ajeq sup se ou 10, than a quarter of an hour."

He was absent, however, a good hour and a half; and M. Folgat was growing nervous, when at last he reappeared with a smile on his face. Sitting down in front of the advocate, he said—"I have been away rather long; but I have not lost any time. In the first place, I have procured a month's leave of absence; and next I have put my hand upon the very man I wanted to send after 'Sir Burnett' and Miss Suky. He is a good fellow, named Barousse, and speaks English like a native. He asks 25 francs a day, his traveling expenses and a gratuity of 1,500 francs if he succeeds. I have agreed to meet him at 6 to give him a definite answer. If you accept his conditions, he will leave for England tonight."

By way of reply, M. Folgat drew a thousand-frank note from his pocket-book, and said, "Here is something to begin with."

"Well, then, I must now leave you," remarked Goudar, pocketing the note. "I am going to hang about the house where Madame de Claudieuse's father, M. de Tassar, resides, and make inquiries. Perhaps I may pick up something. Tomorrow I shall spend in searching the house in the Rue des Vignes, and in questioning all the tradesmen on your list. The day after I shall probably have finished here. So that in four or five days' time I shall be at Sauveterre. I will do my best to save M. de Boiscoran. I will and must do so. He has too nice a house. Well, we shall see each other at Sauveterre."

It was now 4 o'clock. M. Folgat left the cafe immediately after Goudar, and walked along the quay toward the Rue de l'Universite. He was anxious to see the Marquis and the Marchioness de Boiscoran. He found the former in his study, still under the effects of the painful interview which he had had with his wife in the morning. He had not said anything to the marchioness that he did not really feel; but he was distressed at having spoken as he had under such circumstances. And yet it was a kind of relief to him; for, to tell the truth, he felt as if the terrible doubts which he had kept secret so many years had vanished as soon as they were revealed. He gave M. Folgat a mournful reception, and the young advocate repeated the marchioness' story in detail; adding, however, one thing of which she was in total ignorance, viz.—the desperate resolution Jacques had formed. At this revelation the marquis appeared utterly overcome. "The unhappy fellow! He actually thought of killing himself!"

TILLMAN IS SATISFIED.

Says He Does Not Intend to Change Railroad Investigation at President's Request.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In the senate today Mr. Tillman gave notice that as soon as opportunity offers he will address the senate on the message of the President sent to the senate yesterday on the coal inquiry resolution recently passed by congress on Mr. Tillman's resolution. He referred to the presidential message as "a very remarkable document," and said that but for the pressure to proceed with the statehood bill he would ask to be heard at this time.

Senator Tillman said he did not propose to offer any proposition to amend the Tillman-Gillespie railroad investigation resolution in accordance with the suggestions of the President. He says the resolution is sufficient to meet the objects intended.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP INDOOR RACES ON TONIGHT

Norval Bapties of St. Paul, Minn., and Peter Sinnirud of Sweden, the world's fastest skaters, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and tonight will begin a series of races in Duquesne garden for the world's professional indoor championships. It is the first appearance of Bapties in Pittsburgh. During the past two years he has defeated Johnny Nilson, Harley Davidson, Johnny Johnson, Oliver Dorlan, and is recognized as the American champion.

Sinnirud is the European champion. He is generally known as "The Terrible Swede." Sinnirud's last appearance in Pittsburgh was in 1902, when he skated in theh indoor amateur championships with Morris Wood, Phil. Kearney, Robson and other speeders. On that occasion he skated a mile in 2:40 1-5, the world's indoor record, which he still holds. The program for tonight is as follows: One-mile race for the world's indoor professional championship, trials by Bapties and Sinnirud for 50-yard record, barrel jumping exhibitions by Sinnirud. Sinnirud, besides being a speed skater, is said to be quite clever at trick skating. Tonight he will give an exhibition jumping over barrels. The "Terrible Swede" will also try to lower his record for one mile of 2:46 1-5. After this will come a relay race in which Bapties will skate against five local speeders. Besides the races Willard G. Bratton will give an exhibition of fancy skating. The events will begin promptly at 8:15. The races tomorrow will be one-fourth, one-half and two-mile world's indoor championships.

WORLD'S RECORDS ARE BROKEN

MATCHES ON LOCAL ALLEYS

At Chicago on Wednesday night three world's records were broken in one series of games in the Chicago Bowling league. The Howards, leaders of the league, rolled 1,207 in their second game against West Chicago, the first 1,200 total on record for a five-man team—and with 1,085 and 1,080 in their other games, averaged 1,124, the first time that 1,100 has been made for three games. The other new record was the average of 261 1-3 registered by Ray Stolke, who had scores of 227, 278 and 278. The previous best mark for high team game was 1,159, while the team average record stood at 1,063. The best individual performance for three games ever recorded before was 759. The records were made in regular league tournament play and will stand as world's records.

All the twelve clubs of the Central league participated in their regular scheduled meet on the Club alleys last night. Some remarkably good scores were made by the different teams and individuals. The Costas were the star performers with two 900 scores and the Field club boys were the high rollers with 952. The Pirates and Fort Pitts were also in the 900 circle. The individual stars were Finnegan, Kaltchaler, Wamboldt, Roesser, McPherson, Meisner, Conner, Stoerkel, Underwood, Fisher, Fouse and Rumberger. Scores:

The Monongahela section of the Allegheny County league will hold a meeting at Seng's alleys, Braddock, tonight to settle a few disputes. The first case will be that effecting the East Pittsburgh-Wilmerding match. It was rolled on February 16, when Wilmerding won two out of three games. Both captains agreed to ignore the result and roll the match over, because of the unseemly conduct of the Wilmerding rooters, which materially interfered with the rolling of the East Pittsburgh team. The match was accordingly rolled over on February 27, and East Pittsburgh won all three games. This result ties the East Pittsburghs with the North Braddocks for first place. North Braddock claims that the teams had no right to bowl a second time. If North Braddock's protest is sustained the team will be on top. However, it must finally be settled by the executive committee of the County league.

Another matter to be settled will be a dispute between the North Braddock and Colonial teams. As published, the North Braddocks won all three games, taking the last by a score of 841 to 840. The Colonials claim the score should be reversed; that A. Seng was given one more pin than he made and that one pin was taken off R. Stewart.

There will be other minor affairs to be discussed.

Hans Wagner of Carnegie, star shortstop on the Pittsburgh National League Baseball club, desires to meet Brunswick Fry, a member of his bowling team, at the Union Bowling alleys, Carnegie, tomorrow evening on important business. Hans has tried for a week to find Fry, and as the Pittsburgh club will leave for its training trip Monday, he does not want to be delayed.

The meeting of the executive committee of the County league on the Federal alleys next Monday will be most important, and all members should not fail to attend. The committee consists of the officers of the league, Metzger, Wilson, B. Vey and Gruber, and the following: Henry Gerstbrien, Walter Bean, J. F. Angel and George Silber.

The Brunswick and Bloomfield teams will tonight roll off a postpone match of February 26 on the Brunswick alleys. It will the last championship match of the regular season. All the players are requested to be on the alleys on time.

IN THE WORLD OF THE RING ARTISTS

The Coroner's Jury Finds That Tenny's Death Was Caused by the Blow He Received.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—A coroner's jury, after holding an inquest of the death of Harry Tennebaum, or "Tenny," who died several days ago after a prizefight with Frankie Neil, today rendered the following verdict: "We find that death was caused by blows inflicted in a boxing contest held in Mechanics' pavilion on February 28, 1906, by Frankie Neil, and further that there was gross negligence on the part of the parties having charge of the contest for not having the contestants examined by a registered physician prior to the exhibition, according to the law, and we hereby find said parties responsible for the death of said Harry Tennebaum."

District Attorney Langdon, when told of the coroner's verdict, said: "In view of the verdict rendered, I shall make no positive charge of murder against the promoters of the fight or the parties participating. Further than that I do not care to discuss the case at this time."

News from Philadelphia is to the effect that Battling Nelson is training harder for his coming bout with Terry McGovern next Wednesday than he has ever trained for any other bout he has taken part in. If he had his way he would probably go stale from too much work, but with the eagle eye of Billy Nolan watching him he can do so much and no more. Despite the fact that Nelson's coming contest means the making of his title as would not think there was anything at stake judging by the fun the party has while training. They resemble a bunch of schoolboys, and Nelson is the biggest kid of the lot. While they play roko, a new game on the order of hand ball, with a pear-shaped punching bag, Nelson fights for every point, and calls down his partner if he makes a bad play or allows his opponents a point.

At the next boxing show in Pittsburgh, to be held on March 17, under the management of Red Mason and Yeok Henniger in the Armory a good crowd is promised. No bout has yet been definitely arranged, but two in sight, one between Kid French of Buffalo, and Jock Phenicie, and between Rube Ferns and Mike Donovan. The program will be completed probably before the end of the week. It may include a bout between Ned Cherroff and Jock Simco and Paul Moore and Butch Zimbar.

Soho has a bunch of fighters in various classes hard to beat. This bunch would like to get a crack at members of Red Mason's stable. Soho boys have always had the reputation of fighting like wildcats with no thought of quitting. The bunch consists of Willie Fox, 90 to 100 pounds; Pat Moran, 108 pounds; Butch Dixon, 110 pounds; Tod Griffith, 105 pounds; Jack Rowe and John Dixon, each 115 pounds, and Mike Dixon, 158 pounds. They stand ready to meet anybody at their respective weights.

Buck Reardon is requested to call up 3478 Court or 706 Main and ask for J. A. Jones.

The tournament of the McKeesport Athletic club in Colliseum hall, on March 15, promises a treat in the way of a boxing exhibition. Jock Simco, McKeesport's clever lightweight boxer, was yesterday matched to fight Jack Bruce of Pittsburgh, in a six-round go. Simco has knocked out three of the last four men he met and Bruce has fought all of the best known lightweights in the state, taking part in 47 bouts and losing but one. Simco will have about 10 pounds the advantage in weight, but Bruce depends on his cleverness to offset this.

Red Mason says he is through with negro fighters. He has dropped Larry Temple, who will leave Pittsburgh in a couple of days.

Paul Moore, the local welterweight fighter, met with an accident to his hand the night he boxed at the Business Men's club, but did not know it was broke until yesterday, when Jimmy Mason took him to the Homeopathic hospital and had it set. This will keep Moore out of the ring for about two weeks, but in the meantime he will do some road work and keep in some kind of shape.

ALL THE PIRATES ARE NOW IN LINE

OTHER TEAMS ARE IN ACTION

The Pirates are now all ready to start for Hot Springs next Monday evening. Sam Leever's contract arrived at headquarters yesterday. Sam was not holding out because he was dissatisfied, but he is a bit careless and forgot all about the important document until his memory was jolted. Accompanying the contract was a letter in which Sam says: "My good right arm tells me something this spring. It whispers to me that I am going to have the greatest season of my career. If I do the gain will be yours as well as mine. You know, I have generaly had trouble with my whip in the early spring months, and usually signs of soreness developed about reporting time. But this year all is different. Never in my career have I felt so well as I do now. I am

FAVORITES WIN LONG RACES

NEARLY ALL TRACKS ARE SLOW

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The long distance events of today at Oakland, the third and fourth races, were won by favorites. Expedient was last at the half-mile pole in the third race, but when Graham urged him, he passed the field one by one and captured the event, going away. Major Tenny made a strong effort in the fourth event, but Jockey Williams easily passed him on Preservator. Weather clear; track fast. Summaries:

First, 5½ furlongs—Lisaro, 109 (L. Williams), 2 to 5, won; Midmont, 108 (Fountain), 10 to 1, second; Dick Wilson, 107 (Otis), 13 to 1, third. Time—1:06⅗. Estimero, Riley Dwyer, James A. Murray, Salem, Nothing, Libertinus, Clausula and Lizzie Mine ran.

Spring Shirts and Neckwear

The two most important articles of a man's attire are his Shirts and Neckwear.

That's why particular men pay such strict attention to their selection—Likewise why we bend every energy to procure the latest and best styles.

We are frank in saying our Spring stock of Shirts and Neckwear is by all odds the largest, finest and nobbiest we've ever shown.

It embraces more new things — extreme dressy styles—yet keeping within range of tasteful dressing.

Fancy plain colors, such as pink, heliotrope, Alice blue and tan, are the newest styles in both Shirts and Neckwear.

Our Shirts range in price from $1.00 to $2.00. The $1.00 and $1.50 lines we are confident are the best for the money in Greater Pittsburgh.

Think of getting a Coat Shirt with attached cuffs—detached if you prefer them—for $1.00. That's just what we give you and a perfect fitting Shirt in all the latest shades, too.

The same strong words will apply equally well to our 50c Four-in-Hands. They are made from the best silks—full Frenched—and there isn't a late shade not represented. Others are selling this identical Neckwear for $1.00.

Let us prove the assertion.

ONE MORE SALE ON NORTH SIDE

RESIDENCE SALE OF $45,000

Through the office of Edward Vogler the Pogue property, formerly known as the John Dean holdings, at 822 Federal street, Allegheny, has been sold for $40,000 to Cameron Bros., North Side carpet merchants. The sale marks a new high record for properties above the Diamond, as the lot is only 18x110 feet, which makes the price $2,222 a front foot. The building is an old two-story brick structure adjoining the Heeren store and apartment building at Erie street. It runs back to Murtland alley and is occupied by the wall paper store of Miller, Douglass & Carlisle. These merchants have a three-years' lease on the building at $1,800 a year, and only one year of this time has elapsed. The buyers are now in business in Federal street, just below the Diamond, and bought the property for an investment.

An option of $35,000 has also been secured on the R. S. Lyon property, 20x110 feet, at 902 Federal street, the second property above Erie street. The lot is 20x110 feet and is improved with a three-story brick building occupied by the Linskin dyeing establishment. The rental is $1,500 a year and the price named in proportion is at the rate of $1,750 a front foot.

The Adams Express Company, whose present location at Federal street and Stockton avenue, Allegheny, has been leased to the May company for a big drug store, has secured new quarters at 103 West Ohio street on the first floor of the Sterrett building.

New Residence Changes Owners.

A. J. Kelly, Jr., president of the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, has sold through the Real Estate Trust Company to a retired capitalist of this city his new residence at the northeast corner of Dahlia street and Von Leat place, Twentieth ward, for $45,000. Mr. Kelly, who now lives in Fifth avenue, near Bellefield avenue, built the house for his own use, and it is one of the best residences in that new and aristocratic neighborhood. The architecture of the house is quite out of the ordinary, making it especially attractive. The house contains 12 rooms and four bathrooms, and is finished entirely in hardwood. It stands on 60x121 feet. The residence will be completed in three weeks and the new owner will occupy it as a home after May 1.

Another good East End residence deal announced is the purchase by Attorney W. S. Miller of two properties at 5829-5833 Walnut street, Twentieth ward, for $30,000. No. 5829 consists of a nine-room house on 47x153 feet, the rental being $80 a month. No. 5833 is improved with a 15-room house on 98x154 feet and is rented for $150 a month. These properties were bought for an investment. In part payment for the houses, which belonged to S. A. Dickie & Co., there was tendered 75x150 feet in Northumberland street, valued at $9,500, which will be improved with good houses.

Hill Sale of $35,000.

Through the agency of Burgwin Bros., James F. Speer has sold to Bennie Gruskin five frame houses on 74x98 feet at Center avenue and Roberts street. The price was $35,000 net, and the owners will hold the property for an investment.

George C. Norris & Co. have sold for Katharine Lanz to Dr. H. S. Dickey 20.5x160 feet on the south side of Penn avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets. The price is reported to be between $17,000 and $18,000. On the lot are a brick store and dwelling.

David Rieck is the buyer of the Michael Nargolis property, 20x80 feet, on the east side of Congress street, Seventh ward, which was sold lately for $16,000. Two brick houses stand on the lot.

Some interesting deals for large suburban tracts are shaping up nearly ready for announcement. Two sales of farms out the proposed Butler street car line within the last week have stimulated inquiry in that district, and yesterday another deal for over 100 acres was reported to be practically agreed to. The advantages of the country from the standpoint of beauty and general attractiveness are unquestioned, but the poor facilities for getting into the city have hitherto held back buyers from making any large investments there.

The Homewood Real Estate Company has sold for Cecil H. Sipes to George S. Baggett two brick houses at Homewood avenue and 241 Vernon street, Twenty-first ward, for $18,000, the seller taking in part payment a farm valued at $7,500. The company also sold for A. W. Forsythe to L. D. Burt a nine-room reception hall house in Race street, Twenty-first ward, for $4,800.

Knights of Columbus to Build.

To facilitate the erection of a $40,000 lodge building in the East End for the Knights of Columbus the Columbus Land Company has been organized and has asked for a Pennsylvania charter. The Knights of Columbus have a strong lodge downtown and lodges in the East End, South Side, Allegheny, Sharpsburg and McKeesport. It is the East End branch which intends to erect a home of its own, and as soon as a charter is secured a location will be selected and plans for the building drafted. Francis E. McGillick, the contractor, is one of the promoters of the scheme.

Brighton Heights: George T. McDonald sold for the Brighton Heights Company to F. E. Cannon an old frame house on 49x120 feet in Brighton road, near Termon avenue, Eleventh ward, Allegheny, for $4,000. He also sold to W. J. Thubron 45x121 feet in Brighton road in the new Harbison addition to Brighton Heights for $5,000 as the site for a $10,000 residence. This is the first sale in the addition, which has 108 lots. Of the 260 lots in the original Brighton Heights plan 198 are sold.

Bedford avenue: The Aronson Realty Company reports the sale for J. Altman to Marcus Wagman of 1524 Bedford avenue, near Lodlie street, for $6,000. The company also sold to Peter McDermott a seven-room frame house on 20x80 feet in West Jefferson street, Allegheny, for $4,050.

Squirrel Hill: The Beechwood Improvement Company, limited, sold to Agnes A. K. Steinbart 50x150 feet in Burchfield avenue, Squirrel Hill, for $2,300, as the site for a fine residence.

Scattering Realty Deals.

Center street: Annie Shannon sold to Frank W. Siegle an improved lot, 18x100 feet, on the north side of Center street, near Forty-fourth street, Eighteenth ward, for $3,600.

Lemington avenue: Frederick R. Freund sold to Thomas Byrne an improved lot, 25x107 feet, on the west side of Lemington avenue, near Westmoreland street, Twenty-first ward, for $3,150.

Lemington avenue: William A. Merritt sold to George A. Nuessleim an improved lot, 25x100 feet, on the south side of Lemington avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $2,500.

Winfield street: Catherine Emmerich sold to John C. Simpson an improved lot, 25x84 feet, on the south side of Winfield street, Twenty-first ward, for $2,700.

Trowbridge street: Thomas W. McFarland sold to Mary A. Scott an improved lot, 20x128 feet, on the north side of Trowbridge street, Twenty-third ward, for $4,700.

Clark street: Herman Siegle sold to James Klarren an improved lot, 21x48 feet, in Clark street, Eighth ward, for $8,250.

Plans have been accepted by the directors of the People's bank of McKeesport for a handsome eight-story building at Fifth avenue and Walnut street, to cost about $300,000, exclusive of the site. The latter cost about $150,000, and will be cleared for the new building after April 1.

The Allegheny bureau of building inspection issued these permits: To N. D. Yant & Co., one-story iron structural material plant at Beaver avenue and Rebecca street, Fifth ward, to cost $4,000; Martha E. Haarlander, two two-story and attic frame dwellings in Straubs lane, Thirteenth ward, $1,500 each; B. T. Young, frame two-story store and dwellings at 1820 Brighton road, Second ward, $2,500.

The Pittsburgh bureau of building inspection issued these permits yesterday: To Timothy Griffin, two two-story brick dwellings in Crocket alley, Thirteenth ward, to cost $2,000; Gaitans Tonti, two-story frame dwelling in Forward avenue, Twenty-third ward, $800; Mutual Real Estate Trust Company, 1½-story frame stable, at Susquehanna and Clawson streets, Twenty-first ward, $2,200; Thomas F. Iseit, three-story frame milk depot, at Dorsey and Minerva streets, Sixteenth ward, $800; William Wessel, three-story brick veneered tenement at Clarissa and Madison streets, Thirteenth ward, $4,000; B. C. Vaughn, two-story frame extension to dwelling, 6023 Stanton avenue, Nineteenth ward, $1,500; James Sampson, two-story brick veneered dwelling at Millvale avenue and Rosetta street, Nineteenth ward, $3,800; A. O. Neeff, two-story frame dwelling, in Kollyrood street, near Graphic street, Twenty-third ward, $2,000.

FAST TROTTER SUSIE N. SOLD TO AN ENGLISHMAN

COLUMBUS, O., March 8.—It is announced here that George H. Ketcham of Toledo, acting as agent for Louis Winans of Brighton, England, has purchased Susie N., 2:09¾, from Tommy Murphy of Glencove, Long Island. The consideration was not stated. The mare will be shipped to her new owner at once. Susie N. won the Kentucky stock farm futurity for 2-year-old trotters on the Columbus track at last September's Grand Circuit meeting. Previous to that race, Susie N. had won the Hartford futurity.

Contribute to Morris Memorial.

The Morris Memorial Training school for mission workers was made a special feature of the program yesterday at the quarterly meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Pittsburgh Baptist association. Miss Mary J. Burdette, the general secretary of the Women's Baptist Home Missionary society, with headquarters in Chicago, was the principal speaker, she giving addresses in the afternoon and evening. The all-day meeting was conducted in the fountain room of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, which was crowded at each session. Miss Burdette, who is a sister of "Bob" Burdette, the humorist, arrived in the city yesterday morning from Nashville, Tenn., whither she went several weeks ago to speak before a convention in the interests of the students' volunteer movement. Miss Burdette made a strong appeal for the new Morris memorial, which is to be erected in Chicago at a cost of $100,000, and planned to provide for the training of 200 students yearly. The site already purchased is sufficiently large for the erection later of more buildings, when the proposed school again becomes too small. In April ground will be broken for the new building and much will be made of the occasion, which will also celebrate the 25th anniversary of the organization of the society. Twenty-five thousand dollars has already been raised, and before the end of the year pledges covering the entire cost, it is expected, will be received. The women of the Pittsburgh association have made generous contributions to this building fund, the women of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church contributing $100, those of the Shady Avenue Baptist church $100 and other societies in the association smaller amounts, aggregating several hundred dollars, the full amount not yet having been reported. Mrs. Morris, who was for many years the head of the training school for mission workers, died a year ago. The new building is planned as a memorial to her. Miss Burdette, in her addresses, traced the growth of the work of the Home Missionary society during the 25 years of its existence, commencing with the negroes, then taking up the Indians, and finally embracing the many nationalities which have come to this country. She paid glowing tribute to Miss Johnnie P. Moore, the pioneer worker in the society, who has labored for 40 years among the negroes.

The banner society reporting yesterday afternoon was the Fourth Avenue, which this year is giving $100 to foreign mission work, $100 to home, $100 to the Morris memorial, $50 to various local mission interests, besides other contributions on special occasions.

There are 35 societies in the Pittsburgh association, representing the Baptist women of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, McKeesport, Braddock, Wilkinsburg, Washington, Connellsville, Greensburg and the intervening towns. An appeal for contributions to the $20,000 fund asked for by the State Home Mission society, which this year celebrates the 20th anniversary of its organization, was made by Mrs. Berien. To further celebrate the occasion the national societies, home and foreign, have been invited to meet in Philadelphia in May. The regular reports of the various secretaries were presented at the morning session, while the evening program was devoted to the work of the young women's circles. Mrs. J. L. Arnold sang during the afternoon, the music in the evening being rendered under the direction of Norman Hassler, who is in charge of the music in the Fourth Avenue church. The election of officers for the Home and Foreign societies of the association, which took place in the morning, resulted as follows:

Home society—President, Mrs. F. W. Squibb; vice president, Mrs. J. C. Reymer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. S. Daugherty; recording secretary, Mrs. Minnie Logan; treasurer, Mrs. H. S. Ley.

Foreign society—President, Mrs. A. B. Bowser; vice president, Mrs. W. F. Pritchard; recording secretary, Mrs. Beresford Calvin; treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Coffin.

Playground Committees Appointed.

At the meeting of the Pittsburgh Playgrounds association yesterday morning some of the committees to be in charge of the work of the association this season, were announced. Several interesting reports were also presented. The amount of money expended on the recreation parks was reported by the treasurer, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon. It included $6,291 93 for the South Side park; $5,169, Washington park; $1,469 74, Denny park, and $961 79, Lawrenceville park. The appropriation of councils to the recreation parks last year was $12,000, the appropriation this year being $15,000. The committees announced were as follows:

Teachers—Miss Beulah Kennard, chairman; Mrs. William Macrum, vice chairman; Mrs. William C. Anderson, Mrs. Frank T. Hogg, Mrs. A. V. Holmes, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Mrs. A. B. West, Miss Mary Willard and Mrs. J. B. Sheriff, secretary.

School—Mrs. J. J. Covert, chairman; Mrs. C. D. Collins, vice chairman; Mrs. J. H. Moore, Mrs. George Hubbard, Mrs. Warren Elsey, Mrs. Charles R. Wray, Miss M. E. Stevenson, Miss May Wiedman and Mrs. George Oliver, secretary.

School extension—Mrs. William Macrum, chairman; Mrs. J. J. Covert, vice chairman; Miss Julia Schoenfeld, Mrs. Warren Elsey, Mrs. William H. McKenna, Mrs. Walter M. Binkley, Mrs. David Kirk and Mrs. F. T. Hogg, secretary.

Equipment and supplies—Mrs. Robert Coard, chairman; Mrs. Minnie O. Roberts, vice chairman; Miss M. E. Stevenson, Miss Miriam Schoenfeld and Mrs. William H. McKenna, secretary.

Press—Mrs. H. B. Birch, chairman.

Invite New Zealand Suffragist Here.

The Allegheny County Equal Rights association held its regular quarterly meeting in the assembly room of the Central Young Women's Christian association yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Angie Star Martin presiding. The report of a special committee of the Bellevue Suffrage club, which held an election demonstration on February 20, while the fathers, husbands and brothers of the members were casting their votes at the polling places, was read, showing the manner of conducting the election according to the most approved ideas of good government. Mrs. Emily C. Scott, prominent in the suffrage movement for the past 15 years, read an article on "The Need of Suffrage." The report of the delegates to the national suffrage convention in Baltimore in February was given. It was unanimously agreed that the association should extend an invitation to Miss Alice Henry, of New Zealand, a noted suffragist, now in this country, to deliver a series of lectures in Allegheny county.

Want Monument to Washington.

The initiative in a movement to secure for Pittsburgh a monument to George Washington has been taken by the Western Pennsylvania committee of the Colonial Dames. The co-operation of other patriotic organizations will be sought, and it is hoped that soon the work in this direction will assume definite form. The Colonial Dames met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. H. J. H. Hillman in Shady avenue. In addition to the discussion of the proposed monument the prize essays written in competition for prizes offered by the Philadelphia Dames for this end of the state, were read. The first prize essay was written by James Flood of the Pittsburgh High school, and bore the subject "Indian Wars." It captured a prize of $15 in gold. Miss Mildred Miller of the same school captured the second prize, $10 in gold, by her essay, "A Day and Night in Colonial Times." Both essays were read yesterday afternoon.

Benefit for Wilkinsburg Charity.

An entertainment consisting of music and readings will be given under the auspices of the Wilkinsburg joint committee of Women's clubs and benevolent societies for philanthropic work, in the First Christian church, South avenue, near Wood street, on Tuesday evening, March 13. The readings will be given by Miss Ellen Horne, graduate of King's school of oratory. Several children have been placed in homes outside the borough. The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to these institutions. Tickets will be for sale at Kuhn & Brothers' store, Wood street.

To Improve Two Boroughs.

The civic committee of the Sewickley Valley Business Men's association and the civic committee of the Sewickley Valley Women's club held a joint meeting in Sewickley yesterday to discuss plans for improvements in the boroughs of Sewickley and Edgeworth. Forgotten ordinances governing the cleaning of streets and alleys, the disposal of garbage, the care of vacant lots, etc., are to be revived. James Stinson was employed to serve as humane officer in the two boroughs.

Industrialism and Literature.

The Thursday Afternoon club of Wilkinsburg yesterday discussed industrialism, science and literature in America. Mrs. G. D. Chamberlain entertained the club in her home in Westmoreland avenue, Miss Mary Hardie being a joint hostess. Under the direction of Miss Sarah Patterson the following program was presented: "Commerce of Canada," Miss Sara Baldwin; "American Novelists," Mrs. Walter Binkley; "New Ideas in Commerce, Agriculture and Science," Miss Emma McCracken.

Drama and Life.

Mrs. Bertha Kuhns Baker of New Brighton, N. Y., will give a lecture and reading before the Allegheny City Teachers' association on Tuesday evening, March 20, at 8 o'clock, in the Carnegie hall, Allegheny. Mrs. Baker will speak on "The Drama in Its Relation to Life." The lecture is a feature of the educational line of work the association has taken up.

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

THE wedding of Miss Grace Hamilton Wallace and William Clyde Grubbs last evening was marked by pretty decorations. The ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian church of Allegheny, the pulpit of which was effectively banked with ferns and white cineraria, while white standards marking the pews down the center aisle were filled with annunciation lilies. At the home of the bride's mother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Wallace, in Pennsylvania avenue, Allegheny, where a reception and wedding supper followed the church service, all the mantels were banked with maidenhair ferns and pink and white cineraria. The centerpiece on the bride's table was of white hyacinths and pink roses of the Madame Chatenay variety. Covers at this table were laid for the bride and bridegroom, the maid of honor, Miss Lottie Clair Scott; the bridesmaids, Miss Martha Scully Duff and Miss Agnes L. Patterson; the best man, Walter S. Grubbs; and the ushers, Leonard K. Gutler, A. X. Sloane, T. Chalmers Duff, John Metz, John Thompson and William Hamilton; and Miss Grace Smith, Miss Carrie Wiederholdt, Miss Emma Sawhill and Miss Gertrude Grubbs. In addition to the attendants seated at the table, the bridal procession included little Miss Marjorie Scott Wallace as flower girl. The Rev. Edwin Wallace of Greensburg, a brother of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. David F. Kennedy, pastor of the church. The bride, given away by her brother, Dr. Wallace, wore a gown of white messaline satin and rose point lace. Orange blossoms fastened her tulle veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Scott wore a gown of printed pink and white tissue and carried Chatenay roses and white lilacs. The bridesmaids, in similar gowns of silver silk mull hung over pink slips, carried clusters of pink roses. Little Miss Wallace had a dainty frock of white organdie worn over pink, and in her arms was a bunch of pink sweet peas. Among the out-of-town wedding guests were Dr. and Mrs. William Hamilton of Dunbar, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wallace of Greensburg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wallace and Henry Kelsey of Erie. Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs will receive their friends after June 1 in Beechview.

Mrs. Balsinger is Hostess.

As a farewell for Mrs. William Fleming Abel, who leaves soon to make her home in Cleveland, Mrs. Webster R. Balsinger gave a beautiful little luncheon in her apartments in the Bellefield dwellings yesterday. Lilac and white were the colors carried out in all the appointments. Mrs. Balsinger's guests were Mrs. Abel and Mrs. W. W. Darley who, being Mrs. Abel's successor as president of their whist club, shared the honors; Mrs. G. S. Page, Mrs. H. D. Scully, Mrs. F. M. McClinton, Mrs. F. S. Slick, Mrs. Harry J. Egan, Mrs. Thomas J. Bray, Mrs. John W. Sherrer and Mrs. Charles Crosby.

Pittsburgh Girl Wins Honors.

Word has been received from Vassar college that the golden key, the award of the Phi Beta Kappa society, has been given to Miss Alice Thurston McGirr, a graduate of the Thurston Preparatory school of this city. Vassar is the only woman's college permitted to present the key, which is given for special merit in English and literature. Miss McGirr has been honored on several occasions since entering Vassar. The senior class numbers 191 students, and she is among the first 24 in her class and is one of six who can be in the program for commencement day.

Will Hold Lace Sale.

Miss Curtis La Salle, missionary to the Indians in the west, will be in Pittsburgh next week, and on Thursday will hold a lace sale at the residence of Bishop and Mrs. Cortlandt Whitehead, in Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside. Miss La Salle has 11 teachers under her instruction in her work among the Indians, and has several schools under her supervision. The hours for the sale next Thursday are from 3 until 6 o'clock.

People Coming and Going.

Miss Elizabeth Hudson of Walnut street, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hudson's daughter, is spending several weeks visiting friends in Williamsport. Miss Hudson has already been absent from the city for three weeks and is not expected home until the early part of the coming week.

Mrs. M. M. McKeen of St. Louis is visiting her daughter, Mrs. James L. Stuart of Cochrane lane, Sewickley.

Series of At-Homes.

Mrs. F. C. Negley of Wilkinsburg has issued cards for a series of four Saturday afternoon at-homes during March. Accompanying Mrs. Negley's cards are those of her daughters, Miss Negley and Miss Alice Negley, who will receive with their mother. The list of guests has been divided, some of the days being devoted to older and some to younger friends of the three hostesses.

Last Event in Series.

The last in a series of winter social events will be given this evening by the members of the drill corps of Ascalon commandery No. 69, Knights Templar. The affair will be a euchre and dance in Syria temple, Washington and Webster avenues, the hours for dancing being from 8 o'clock until 1, with cards at 9. Many invitations have been issued for the event.

Will Live in Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Gordon, Jr., will leave on March 18 for Paducah, Ky., to make their future home. They were married early last month, the bride having been Miss Rachel Maude Lennox, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lennox of Montrose. The Rev. S. C. Orr, pastor of the Hoboken Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

Entertains for Bride-Elect.

Miss Cooke of Perrysville avenue, Allegheny, is making arrangements for an entertainment which she will give shortly for Miss Erma Roessler. Miss Roessler is the fiance of Meredith Read Marshall of Marshall avenue, Allegheny, and their wedding will take place during the latter part of April. The exact date has not yet been set.

Mrs. Coles Leaving for Home.

Mrs. A. A. Coles of Detroit, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John Jennings Brooks of Marlborough street, Squirrel Hill, will leave for her home tomorrow and will be accompanied by her daughter, Miss Annabelle Coles. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. D. Walter Bell of Sewickley gave an informal 4 o'clock tea for Mrs. Coles.

Mrs. Snyder the Honor Guest.

The Misses Emma and Fannie Snyder of Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, yesterday entertained at cards from 2 to 5 o'clock in honor of Mrs. Antes L. Snyder. The affair was attended by about 50 guests.

Viola Allen.

Viola Allen will present her latest and greatest success, Clyde Fitch's play, "The Toast of the Town," at the Nixon theater next week. Miss Allen has been provided with a role, that of Betty Singleton, in the portrayal of which she has achieved a decided triumph.

A BLOODLESS GIRL

Miss Hathaway Says These Pills Saved Her Life and She Recommends Them to Others.

Doctors have given the Greek name Anaemia, meaning "bloodlessness," to a disease which is much more prevalent among young women than is generally believed. In its early stages the disease is not marked by any decided symptoms and often makes considerable advance before its presence is noticed. An unusual feeling of fatigue after slight exercise, breathlessness and pallor are the first noticeable signs. The disease literally causes the blood to turn to water and, unless a proper remedy is used, is inevitably fatal.

There are some who still believe that anaemia is incurable, but the following case is fully substantiated and may be investigated by anyone interested.

Miss Frankie Hathaway of 214 West Main street, Kalamazoo, Mich., says: "When I was sixteen years old I was taken quite ill, so ill that the family doctor was called to attend me. I was pale and weak and did not gain under his care. Other treatment brought no better result and by the time I was nineteen years old I was so weak that I could not walk across the floor. I was terribly emaciated and my skin had lost all color. The doctor in attendance had pronounced the disease anaemia.

"About this time one of my friends, Miss Huntley, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as she had been cured of a somewhat similar trouble by their use. I bought a package and soon found that they were doing me good. My appetite increased and the healthy color began to show in my cheeks and lips. I continued to use the pills until I had taken fifteen boxes when I found myself permanently cured.

"Since then I have never had any return of my old trouble and cannot remember a time when I was as strong and healthy as now. I know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved my life and I believe that no other medicine could have done so. I advise all my friends to try the pills and always find that they are benefited by them. I hope that this testimonial may be the means of hundreds of sufferers finding a cure for their ills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure anaemia just as food cures hunger. They do not act on the bowels but they actually make new blood. Most common diseases are caused by bad blood, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by supplying the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood have cured even such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions and all forms of weakness either in male or female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

WHY ARE
The Bellefield Dwellings
The Best Apartments
In the City?

BECAUSE they afford more of the COMFORTS of LIVING than any other apartments. Newspaper space is too expensive to tell you one-half of the luxurious comforts of these ideal modern homes. Besides, you would not be convinced by mere READING. But you will be by SEEING. That's why we invite you to a personal inspection of the Perfect Bellefield Dwellings a few suites of which will be vacant April 1.

ORK STOCKS MAKE A STRONG RALLY

Prices Closed at or Near the Highest of the Day. Crucible Steel and Tonopah Extension the Strong Local Features.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

A strong rally occurred in the New York stock market yesterday, and at the close the recovery was still in progress. Final prices were at or near the highest of the day. There was a small increase in business, total transactions reaching 517,700 shares.

The principal factor in the rise was the decline in sterling exchange rates, which was immediately followed by an easing of the call loan rates for money. The New York banks made a small gain through the sub-treasury, and an additional amount was received on account of the government deposits allotted to New York by the secretary of the treasury. The rates for call loans during the greater portion of the day ranged between 6 and 5½ per cent, reaching 6 per cent at one time, but late in the day declining to 5½ per cent. It was inferred by Wall street that a settlement of the Moroccan question would be followed by a release of a considerable amount of funds held by foreign banks against a possible emergency growing out of that affair, and that the money thus released would be available for American borrowers, or that the decline in foreign discount rates would render possible imports of gold. In fact, there was considerable discussion of gold import prospects during the afternoon when the stock market was strongest.

Another factor in the advance in stocks was the decline in wheat to a new low price on the crop. How far this decline was due to unloading of Chicago speculators cannot be stated, but all the gossip relating to it was bearish, one of the items of news being a report that the Kansas winter wheat belt was covered with an eight-inch blanket of snow. The fact that Atchison stock was one of the strongest in the market, rising from 20½ to 25 at the close, a net gain of 4¾ per cent, seemed to be in line with the decline in wheat and the prospects for the new crop, although there was a rumor that Atchison would be placed upon a 4 per cent dividend basis.

The news of the day, however, was not entirely one-sided. The sharp break in Reading, which sold down from 128 to 125, the low point of the year, seemed to suggest that the anthracite labor outlook was not entirely satisfactory. Reading common stock on a 4 per cent basis, however, has been too high by comparison with Pennsylvania, paying 6 per cent, and Baltimore & Ohio, paying 5 per cent. Reading recovered to 127 in the final dealings, but closed at a net loss of 1 per cent for the day. Baltimore & Ohio made a good rally, touching 110½ just before the close, although the news from the conference of Ohio coal operators represented that they would resist any advance in the mining rate for the coming year. Pennsylvania closed only ¼ higher.

Union Pacific was an active feature of the late dealings and rallied to 152½, closing with a net gain of 1¾ per cent. St. Paul closed 2 per cent higher, Northern Pacific 5⅜ higher and Great Northern preferred 3⅞ per cent higher. The southern group of railroad stocks closed ⅛ to 1⅛ per cent higher.

There was a fair degree of activity in the industrial list, and practically everything closed higher. Anaconda Copper scored a net gain of 4½ per cent and Amalgamated Copper ¾ per cent. United States Steel common closed ⅝ and the preferred ½ higher.

No doubt a considerable proportion of the buying yesterday was for account of shorts, who seem to have exhausted their ammunition, but the bulls insisted that the buying for investment account was better than for two weeks past.

The strongest stocks in the local market were Crucible Steel and Tonopah Extension. The latter on sales of a little more than 2,000 shares rallied to 11½ and closed at 11⅜, a gain of nearly $1 a share. The other listed mining stocks were less active but firmer, while in the curb market the principal feature was the strength of Cable Consolidated, which advanced to $1 30 bid at the close.

Crucible Steel common rallied a dollar a share to 15⅛ and closed firm at the gain. The preferred sold in quotable amounts up to 80½, one small lot touching 81, the highest on this movement. The final sale was at 80½, a net gain of 1 per cent. The movement was based upon expectations of an increase in the dividend rate next week, although there were two vague rumors current—one that negotiations had been opened for transfer of control to the United States Steel Corporation, and the other that the western clique of operators were buying the stock. The street did not place much, if any, reliance in these rumors.

Pittsburgh Brewing common was active and advanced to 2⅝. Independent Brewing common and preferred were fractionally lower, while the bonds advanced ⅛ to 107¼. There were no transactions in National Fire Proofing, and the coal stocks were also extremely dull. Westinghouse Electric declined to 80½ and recovered to 80¾. Union Switch and Signal advanced from 85½ to 86½. Manufacturers Light and Heat was firmer, advancing to 32. The rest of the market was dull and unchanged.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The rise in Crucible Steel preferred to the highest price since the resumption of dividends at the reduced rate was responsible for two rumors yesterday which were regarded as absurd. One was that negotiations had been opened looking to the absorption of the company by the United States Steel Corporation. The other was that the Gates following had been investigating the affairs of the company and were buying both the common and preferred stocks. An experienced trader, who is a considerable holder of Crucible stocks, sized up the situation in these words: "I do not believe there is anything in the current rumors, but I do believe that some favorable developments, probably in the nature of an increase in the quarterly dividend, or a restoration of the full rate this month, are impending. I base my opinion solely upon the ground that in the narrowness of the Pittsburgh market it would be impossible to bring about a 4 per cent rally in a stock like Crucible preferred in two days unless the buyers had some trustworthy information to justify purchases. Outside the cheap mining stocks, Pittsburgh is totally lacking in taking the initiative in speculation. To my mind, the buyers on this advance have received what they regard as reliable information regarding the probable future policy of the company in the matter of dividends, or in the matter of diversifying the company's business. I do not know anything officially, but I understand that Crucible will go into the railroad steel springs business on an extensive scale, and the recent annual report of the Railway Steel Springs Company shows that that is a profitable business. Then again, the managers of the company have their hearts in the business, and that means much in the success of any company."

Rates for time loans were appreciably easier in Wall street yesterday. The New York banks received from the government $1,800,000 of the public funds, bringing the total thus far received this week up to $2,800,000 of the intended allotment of $3,000,000 to New York. Last week's special deposit with the banks for the profits to the credit of the 5 per cent bank notes redemption fund is missing this week. A violent break in the price of foreign exchange gave rise to discussion of a possible early import movement of gold. There was some recovery late in the day, however, from the low level of the exchange market which was itself still above that offering a profit on an engagement of gold for import. The more cheerful political outlook abroad and the improved condition shown by the Bank of England and the Bank of France would increase the possibilities of a surrender of gold on the demand of the New York market. Banks were figuring on a possible engagement, but it was postponed, if not prevented, by the recovery in exchange.

At the close of the local market J. S. McKelvey bid 59½ for all or any part of 500 shares United States Glass.

On the exchange McClure & Way offered 100 shares Pittsburgh Life & Trust at 35.

A Washington dispatch stated that $4,000,000 of the $10,000,000 government deposits which Secretary Shaw offered to place in national banks have been placed, and by tomorrow the whole amount will probably have been deposited. It is estimated that Boston will receive $1,000,000 and New York $4,000,000, and the remainder will be well distributed throughout interior cities.

It is estimated that the American Locomotive Company is earning 30 per cent on its capital, and rumors are revived of an early dividend on the common stock.

In the 23 business days ended yesterday Reading common has declined exactly 25 points, or at the rate of 1 per cent a day. For a 4 per cent common stock, with the possibility of an anthracite coal strike, it still looks high at 127, the closing price yesterday.

The New York assembly has passed the 80-cent gas bill, and it is expected that it will be signed and become a law. Consolidated Gas declined to 163¾, but recovered all the loss and closed at a net gain of 1 per cent.

The First National Bank of Pittsburgh has arranged with Mr. Sereno S. Pratt, the well-known editor of the Wall Street Journal, for an elaborate article on "The South Sea Bubble," from the standpoint of modern Wall street speculative methods, which will be published in the next issue of the Business Monthly.

Authoritative admissions of the intention to issue more bonds of the United States Steel Corporation had an unfavorable effect on its securities. The plans for a new plant on the shore of Lake Michigan were given as the cause of the intended new issue. There was some selling of Pennsylvania, also on a similar report of a further bond issue by that company.

The special message of the President on the proposed investigation into the monopoly of the coal and the iron trades was used by Wall street professional traders as an argument against the coal stocks and indeed against the market in general, but the bearish pressure did not make much headway.

Surveys and tests recently made on the iron ore ranges of the United States Steel Corporation disclose an enormous increase in known holdings. The company's iron ore deposits, not including the Hill ore properties, are now estimated close to 1,200,000,000 tons. This is an increase of several hundred million tons. Based on amount of iron ore the Steel Corporation is expected to bring down from lake districts this year, namely 20,000,000 tons, the known ore deposits represent sixty years' supply.

The St. Marys Mineral Land Company has declared a dividend of $1 a share, payable April 2 to stock of record March 15. The present dividend is the first declared this year. Last year three were paid.

The American Tobacco Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent.

The United Traction & Electric Company of New Jersey declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable April 2.

The American Agricultural Chemical Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 1 per cent on 1st preferred stock, payable April 2.

The Interborough Rapid Transit has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable at office of August Belmont, April 2d, to holders of voting trust certificates of record March 19.

The Morton Trust Company has received 275,329 shares out of a total of 520,000 shares of Metropolitan Street Railway stock for exchange for the securities of the new merger. This is about 53 per cent.

Many hard things are being said on the New York curb of the traction magnates. When it was given out, with every show of official sanction, that the new common stock would be supported at 25 many traders bought freely. Wednesday night the stock closed at 31½. Now 50 is named as the point at which it will be pegged. Confidence, however, has been shaken. The curb's experience with this stock has not been a happy one. The change in the merger plans upset things badly, as trading had been proceeding on the basis of the original plans. The tangle has not yet been cleared up. A number of firms interested in contracts made prior to January 27, 1906, when the stock was designated Consolidated Traction Securities but since known as Interborough-Metropolitan Securities, have signed an agreement to submit the disputes which have arisen in connection with these contracts to a committee of Messrs. Rudolph Keppler, Francis L. Eames and George W. Stern.

Dun's Index Number of commodity prices proportioned to consumption was $104.39 on March 1, against $104,031 a month previous and $101,839 a year ago. Although little change occurred in the aggregate during February, there was a general decline in almost every class of commodities, with the striking exception of the miscellaneous division, which not only neutralized the effect of other losses, but gave a small net rise. The total in this miscellaneous class is higher than at any time in about thirty years, and the recent rise occurred chiefly in building materials. Aside from a general advance in meats, most food products became cheaper, and it is particularly striking to note that the general level of prices is over 2 per cent higher than on March 1, 1905, despite the fact that foodstuffs have declined about 6 per cent. There is little evidence of change in the general business situation during February, in so far as indicated by the course of commodity prices, the bright agricultural outlook tending to cheapen breadstuffs, while the unprecedented structural activity carried lumber and many other materials to a still higher position. Notwithstanding the advance in prices above the level on February 1, the index number was almost 1 per cent lower than on December 1, 1905, when the high record for recent years was established. More seasonable weather failed to check the downward tendency of quotations in the clothing class, although the principal difference occurred in the prices of raw materials. Commodity prices on March 1 compare with those of a month previous and a year ago as follows:

Breadstuffs	$ 18,715	$ 18,653	$ 18,070
Meats	3,052	3,090	3,412
Dairy and garden	12,644	12,927	14,105
Other food	9,626	9,688	10,661
Total food	$ 48,137	$ 48,413	$ 51,256
Clothing	16,015	16,139	16,816
Metals	18,873	17,042	16,529
Miscellaneous	20,079	19,417	17,428
Total	$104,204	$104,011	$101,239

The change in Wall street sentiment is indicated by the following private dispatch received by Scully, Painter & Beech from their New York correspondent: "We believe preparations are being made by insiders, who seem to believe that most of the unfavorable developments have been discounted, to resume the bullish operations, especially as the winter wheat is getting out of danger, and this feature, when money matters are in better shape is worthy of being counted by improvement, according to our judgment."

NEWS DOES NOT AID ADVANCING MARKET

Wall Street Takes Some Comfort Out of Rally Which Marked Close.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Herald this (Friday) morning says:

Under moderate dealings stocks improved, closing strong and with more animation than had been observable for some time. The opening ranged from uncertain to weak, and a dull and uncertain movement was in progress until midday. Thereafter the market improved more rapidly, gaining force under a sharp upbidding of Atchison.

The movement in this stock, which looked for all the world like a revival of tactics familiar at the time of the old Berwind pool, influenced some short covering. Wall street was certainly more cheerful as a result of the recovery in prices, but the movement seemed to be almost entirely professional and was unattended by any important news development or public buying.

Many of the traders were skeptical as to the permanency of the reversal in form of the market, but the belief prevails that there is still outstanding a considerable short interest. With the cessation of liquidation the belief of an outstanding short interest rendered traders cautious about putting out new short lines.

News developments during the day were mixed, but the market paid little attention to the news, and prices were apparently not influenced by anything of that character. Thus the 80-cent gas bill passed the senate and became a law without opposition from the inside interests, which discloses, as needs be, who the sellers have been whose liquidation carried the stock down 80 points within a year. Yet the stock improved on the news of what the insiders announced would be "confiscation."

American Sugar was quiet, but also advanced, but the news attendant upon the property was certainly not good proof of extensive rebating to the company having been laid before the attorney general and pronounced by him to be of the highest importance.

The overthrow of the French ministry elicited only temporary influence abroad, and now whatever were rumors of a peaceful settlement of the Moroccan dispute and of possible gold imports, were thought to have contributed to the revival of professional upbidding of prices.

Gas Companies to Merge.

Stockholders in the American Natural Gas Company and Kiskiminetas Natural Gas Company will hold a joint meeting in the offices of the companies in the Park building on March 24 to vote upon a proposition to merge the companies. The plan will undoubtedly carry as the two companies are now under the same control. The question of capitalization has not been decided upon. The companies own gas territory in Allegheny, Armstrong and Westmoreland counties, and supply manufacturing plants chiefly.

LAST OPPORTUNITY to purchase Will Smelting (placer gold mining) stock at 40c per share. This proposition was thoroughly investigated by our personal representative before presented to our clients. Our investigation shows $20,000,000 in sight and that present equipment will earn from 25% to 50% this year. Dividends (conservatively estimated) should be in excess of $1.00 per share within 20 months from now.

Will Smelting is the best gold mining investment offered today. Call or write for proof.

HIGH-CLASS BUTTER BRINGS TOP PRICES

Full Late Quotations Are Being Easily Maintained With a Fair Demand.

General trading on the markets yesterday was much better than on the previous day, and the merchants predict a large business for today. The recent increase made in all grades of butter is being easily maintained. The demand for fresh creamery stock of extra quality is just fair, but the full late prices are easily obtained. Imitation creamery, while being a little easier in demand, is still being quoted at the prices reported from Elgin on Monday.

While no large sales have been reported from the apple market for some time the general tone is firm and active. There has been no late change in the quotations, but the full late prices are being maintained on a good demand and just a fair supply. The stock on hands is of good quality, but prices are thought to favor the seller slightly.

As far as the dealers are concerned the market for storage eggs is in a peculiar shape again. Some dealers report no market at all for these goods, while others claim there is a market and also say they are receiving large stocks daily. The price being quoted below is believed to be the ruling one, although this is slightly higher than storage eggs closed on a few weeks ago, when they were firm.

The firm market for celery, both California and Florida grades, continues without interruption, and dealers report the business in this line better than for some years. Small consumers and retailers are having a hard time obtaining celery by the dozen.

There is no change in the grocery line. Large orders are being received daily for staple stocks and retailers appear to be getting large supplies for their spring trade.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 23 cars hay, 10 cars oats, 9 cars corn, 2 cars feed, 1 car straw; Baltimore & Ohio, 3 cars hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 1 car hay, 1 car oats.

There is no change to note in the markets. The general demand is reported as continuing fair. The arrivals are rather limited at present, and on this account higher prices are being obtained for at any time.

COVERING BY SHORTS CAUSE FIRM CLOSE

May Option, Corn and Oats Are Higher, While Provisions Are Irregular.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 8.—The wheat market was weak at times, but on the whole was inclined to be firm. At the opening prices showed little change from the closing quotations of last night, the May option being ½c higher to ¼c lower at 75⅝@77¼c. Early sentiment among pit traders was for the most part bearish because of favorable crop conditions in the southwest. The crisis in the French cabinet, however, caused considerable anxiety among shorts, who covered freely during the first half hour, the greatest demand being for the May delivery. This carried the price of that option up to 77¾c. The advance brought out liberal sales by local longs and commission houses and caused a sharp reaction, the price of May dropping to 76⅞c. On the break, however, shorts bid eagerly and the market quickly regained its firmness. The feature of trading was the relative strength of May as compared to the July option. The reason for this was a good demand for cash wheat in the northwest and southwest and reports from New York of an improved demand for exports. The close was firm at almost the highest point of the day, the final quotations on May being at 77½@77⅝c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 130,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 430,000 bushels, against 415,000 bushels one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 315 cars, against 272 cars last week and 266 cars one year ago.

There was a good demand for corn by shorts, commission houses and cash interests, and the market was firm nearly all day. The main source of strength was continued small receipts. May opened a shade lower to ¼c higher at 42¼@43¼c to 43⅝c, sold up to 43⅝c and closed firm at the top. Local receipts were 414 cars, with three of contract grade.

Trading in the pit was quiet, but the market was firm in sympathy with corn. Shorts and cash houses were the principal purchasers. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 29¾c to 29⅞@30c, advanced to 30¼c and closed firm at 30⅛@30⅛c. Local receipts were 105 cars.

Provisions opened easy, but soon recovered and the market held firm for the remainder of the day. Buying by local packers and an excellent demand for cash lard were the chief bullish influences. The decline at the opening was due to selling based on a decrease of 10c in live hogs. At the close May pork was up 10c at $15.80. Lard was off 2½c at $7.80. Ribs were a shade higher at $8.25@8.27½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 1 car; corn, 125 cars; oats, 119 cars; hogs, 35,000 head.

The leading futures, as reported by Messrs. Armstrong & Co., Farmers Bank building, Pittsburgh, members of the Chicago board of trade, ranged as follows:

BOSTON, March 8.—The general market showed a little further rally today, but the heavy liquidation seems to be over for the time. Coppers were very dull, however, and showed little change in prices. North Butte rallied early from 79 to 82¼. Granby and Nevada Consolidated, both of which are traded in here, and also on the New York curb, were very strong and active. We still expect to have rather higher rates within the next few weeks and advise selling stocks on every little rise.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

BUTTE, MONT.—A great deal of water is being encountered in the 2,400-foot level of Anaconda and small stringers of ore are showing, indicating close approach of the vein.

The next dividend on Utah Consolidated may be increased from its present $5 annual rate. The dividend will be declared in May and made payable June 15. Four months ago the Utah dividend rate was increased from $4 to $5 a year. The company is earning at the rate of about $11 or $12 a share.

Thomas F. Cole has arrived at Salt Lake. It is understood that the Cole interests have options on Bingham Consolidated, Mammoth, Silver King of Park City and Honornie of Stockton, and that a great consolidation of Utah mines is under consideration, under domination of Thomas F. Cole and John D. Ryan. Walter Fitch will have charge of the Cole-Ryan operations in Utah.

The January and February recovery from the North Butte ores treated at the Washoe smelter, it is understood, was 5 per cent, or 100 pounds of copper per ton of ore smelted. This is a higher percentage than rules at any other mine in the Butte camp treating a large tonnage. The North Butte company is sending to the smelter about 1,000 tons of ore per day.

A Cripple Creek dispatch says: "John Sharp has sold a three-quarter interest in his lease on the Aileen and Rosemont claims to George Hossack and L. R. Markle, representing Pittsburgh people, for $30,000. This transaction gave rise to a report, which was, of course, unfounded, that the mines themselves had changed hands for $30,000. The Aileen and Rosemont are owned by the Woods Investment Company. Sharp paid $7,500 for the lease on the two properties. He retains a fourth interest and will be general manager of the syndicate."

Returns just received by the Nye & Ormsby County bank for the last shipment from No. 1 lease on the Jumping Jack Manhattan Mining Company, show an average of $342 a ton net after deducting transportation and smelter charges.

POSTPONEMENT OF COAL STRIKE HURTS TRADE

Prices of Coke Remains Firm, but the Shipments Show Falling Off in Both Regions.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., March 8.—Although there has been no slump in the coke trade, there was a marked falling off in the shipments of both regions last week, partially due to the threatened coal strike being postponed temporarily, at least. The deliveries on contracts will keep the shipments well up to the production. Prices remain from $2 35 to $2 40 a ton for furnace and $2 85 to $3 00 for foundry grades.

A summary of the Connellsville region for the week ended March 3 shows a total of 23,-818 ovens with 1,221 idle, being a decrease of 82 ovens from the active list.

PLE PAY FOR NEW ROAD WORK

P. R. R. Reduces Distance Four Miles, but Keeps Old Rate. Ramsey-Gould Fighting.

CASSATT ORDERS ECONOMY

Practically four miles were cut off from the Pennsylvania railroad's line between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in 1905. At present, however, there is the same charge as always for tickets, and the travelers on the Pennsylvania are simply putting $0.0822981 each into the improvement—to be exact, according to the Pennsylvania's own statement of earnings, a passenger a mile on its main line, and according to the annual report of Joseph T. Richards, chief engineer of maintenance of way of the Pennsylvania, which was issued yesterday, and in which he shows the distance was decreased on the main line from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh 3.97 miles. This shortening of the main line was accomplished in the removal of curves during the year on the first track.

Counting one-twenty-fifth of the total number of passengers as taking either through rides on the Pennsylvania from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, or as taking shorter hauls—which is a fair percentage for this through traffic—these 1,132,377 passengers out of the total of 28,309,438 helped the Pennsylvania along in the improvements of shortening the line something like $95,000. This is not a small item in the sole expense of eliminating curves.

According to the Pennsylvania's own figures in 1904, the mileage from Pittsburgh to New York was as follows: Pittsburgh division, Union station to Altoona passenger station, 116.9 miles; middle division, Altoona passenger station to junction with Philadelphia division at Rockville, 126.1 miles; Philadelphia division, Rockville to Broad street station, Philadelphia, 109.2 miles; New York division, Broad street station, Philadelphia, to Jersey City passenger station, 89.4 miles, and from Jersey City to New York piers, 1 mile. This is a total of 462.2 miles from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and of 447.6 miles from Pittsburgh to New York piers. The Pennsylvania has been charging, and still charges, for 443 miles from Pittsburgh to New York, unless a change was made last evening. The actual mileage, deducting the decrease in distance by eliminating curves for 3.97 miles, is 458.83 miles, or 429 miles, allowing the fraction for a full mile.

Mileage in railroad annals is usually counted for the first track, or actual distances between terminals. When one considers second, third and fourth tracks and sidings, however, the mileage becomes a great deal more than twice as much, judging by the Pennsylvania railroad mileage, as given in the annual report. This report shows that there were 3,695 miles of first track on the lines east of Pittsburgh at the close of 1905, 1,171 miles of second track, 463 miles of third track, 380 miles of fourth track and 3,146 miles of sidings, making a total track mileage of 8,857. On the Pennsylvania railroad division there were 374 miles of third track and 294 miles of fourth track. The total increase in trackage on the lines east was 490 miles. On the lines west, according to Mr. Richards' report, the northwest system, or Ft. Wayne route, increased 140 miles, and the southwest system, or Panhandle route, 228 miles. The total Pennsylvania track mileage east and west of Pittsburgh was 22,305 miles.

The Pennsylvania system's mileage by states is as follows: Delaware, 271; District of Columbia, 8; Illinois, 635; Indiana, 1,499; Kentucky, 237; Maryland, 547; Michigan, 435; Missouri, 80; New Jersey, 761; New York, 812; Ohio, 1,859; Pennsylvania, 3,976; Virginia, 12; West Virginia, 81.

One of the interesting items in the track program for this year is that of about $1,000,000 set aside for extending the second track on the Indianapolis division between Columbus and Indianapolis. The second track has been extended from Columbus to Urbana, 47 miles, in the past two years, and also at other points west of Urbana. Approval has also been made for building considerable second track on the Vandalia between Indianapolis and St. Louis. Within the next two years it is expected that the Panhandle-Vandalia route between Pittsburgh and St. Louis will have a double-track road the entire distance.

Ramsey and Gould Shake Hands.

Joseph Ramsey and George J. Gould have shaken hands, apparently, and declared all enmity between them a thing of the past. At least such was the impression gained from an interview with Mr. Ramsey yesterday afternoon at the Duquesne club, during his day's stop in Pittsburgh to confer with J. W. Patterson, W. D. Holliday and others regarding the new Lorain & Ashland railroad, which they are going to build out of Lorain, O.

"Mr. Gould and I have not taken up weapons against each other," said Mr. Ramsey. "The report from Cleveland is all a mistake. Mr. Gould and I have conferred over the proposed Lorain & Ashland railroad. He knew of it and what it would mean before it became public, for we talked the proposition over just a few weeks ago. I understand from Mr. Gould himself that neither he nor the Wheeling & Lake Erie has any intention of building a branch from the Wheeling & Lake Erie to Lorain and Cleveland. So there is no battle between us. We expect to begin the construction of the Lorain & Ashland next Monday and shall carry the construction right along.

"Do you intend to sell the road to Mr. Gould or some other large interest, or will you give the Gould system trackage rights over your line into the Lorain and Cleveland traffic centers?" was asked.

"We intend to complete and operate the road ourselves. We should be pleased, of course, to give or receive trackage rights, and such may doubtless be the outcome. Our line will connect with the Wheeling & Lake Erie at Wellington, and a joint arrangement would not be out of the question," replied Mr. Ramsey.

"Where will your road reach the Ohio river?" asked The Gazette representative.

"I do not know. For the present we have plans only for the line between Lorain, Ashland and Mansfield. No, we have not yet made definite surveys to the Ohio river. I do not know who the backers of the 1,000-acre purchase are near Lorain, but I understand the property is wanted for a large industrial plant."

One of the opinions expressed yesterday by a Pittsburgh railroad officer was that he would not be surprised to see the Pennsylvania and Wabash in another fight over the Lorain & Ashland road. Neither road has a line into Lorain, and the new road will reach the Wheeling & Lake Erie road of the Wabash system at Wellington and the Pennsylvania at Mansfield. Either one road or the other will be compelled to do something.

"Cut, Cut, Cut," Says Cassatt.

President Cassatt is apparently not satisfied with the Pennsylvania railroad's financial report in 1905. He has issued orders to all department heads to cut expenses wherever possible and that expenses must be lower than in 1905. This seems a pretty difficult thing for the officers to do and still endeavor to keep the revenues increasing, as the president desires to see them. Operating expenses in 1905 increased 14.09 per cent over 1904, but this was smaller than the increase in gross or net earnings. The gross increase was 14.27 per cent and the net increase was 14.53 per cent.

Another Chinese Imperial Commission.

Another Chinese imperial commission is visiting the United States, but according to the outlined itinerary Pittsburgh is not on the inspection route. The commissioners, 20 in number and 11 servants, headed by Prince Tsai Tse, Governor Shang Chi Hang of Shantung province, and Li Shang To, Chinese minister to Belgium, arrived at Seattle on the Great Northern steamship Dakota and came eastward in a special train on the Great Northern railroad, according to information received by District Passenger Agent Kitchell of that road. Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Ann Arbor, Niagara Falls, New York and Washington are the cities mentioned in the itinerary. The commissioners are traveling entirely on special trains.

Railroad Notes.

Conductor W. L. Stone of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie is off duty attending the funeral of his brother.

Conductor Benjamin F. Talbott of the Baltimore & Ohio, who has been ill for some time, is able to be about a little.

Brakeman V. A. Duff of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie underwent an operation at the Allegheny General hospital yesterday.

H. E. Temple, engineer maintenance of way of the Pittsburgh system of the Baltimore & Ohio, resumed his duties after a brief illness.

Among the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie conductors who were sick and have returned to duty are C. F. King, Frank Noonan, J. P. Kessler and John Lemic.

Traveling Passenger Agent Perry A. Marr of the Illinois Central at Cincinnati and Commercial Agent J. C. Williams of the Wabash at Cleveland, were visitors.

Vice-president Worthington, General Superintendent McMaster, Chief Engineer Douglas and other officers are spending a few days inspecting the Wabash lines and docks.

Thomas N. Doutney, state Y. M. C. A. evangelist, will lecture at the Pitcairn Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, the lecture being open to railroad men and their friends.

The Wabash has awarded to the Westinghouse interests the contract for three compound engines of 500 horse power for the new Wabash power plant near the passenger and freight stations.

A. H. Newell, formerly superintendent of the Wharf division of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and recently vice-president and general manager of the White Pass & Yukon route in Alaska, has spent the past two days with General Passenger Agent Robison and other old-time friends of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. He is a son of the late John Newell, former president of the Lake Shore. Mr. Newell is now in the supply business, with headquarters at Seattle.

LARGE ESTATES FILE ACCOUNTS

Handsome Amounts Invested in Local Securities—Attorney Scott's Will.

LONG TERMS FOR BURGLARS

Trustees of several large estates filed their accounts yesterday. The first account of the estate of the late Christopher L. Magee shows charges of $1,792,146 23 in the principal account, including 6,500 shares of the Pittsburgh Times credited at $258,000; 5,132 shares Philadelphia Company common, $182,418 94; 5,630 shares Philadelphia Company preferred, $251,875 25, and 3,100 shares Citizens Traction Company, $236,890. Credits of $66,321 66 are claimed, leaving a balance of $1,725,825 17 invested for most part in stocks, bonds and mortgages. In the income account are charges of $348,722 45, made up of rents and dividends chiefly, with credits of $342,613 24 for taxes, repairs, etc., leaving a balance of $23,209 21.

The first and final account of the estate of John Liggett shows charges of $46,721 12, made up chiefly of the amount of the inventory. The credits include miscellaneous bills and bequests under the will and a balance of $22,980 24, which the executors turn over to themselves as trustees under the will.

The first and final account of N. P. Sawyer's estate shows charges of $16,078 44, and a balance of $5,721 97.

The second and partial account of the estate of Christian L. McKee shows charges of $10,077 26, composed chiefly of realty transactions and credits of sundry fees and taxes, leaving a balance of $7,568 19.

The second account of the administrator of Perinah W. Kountz show charges of $118,511 41, made up of the interest on notes and dividends. The credits include bills, court costs and attorney's fees and amount in all to $16,830 96, leaving a balance of $107,680 51, made up of stocks, bonds, mortgages and notes.

The first and partial account of the estate of Sarah J. Blackmore shows charges of $85,077, made up in the main of $60,000 from the sale of property at Logan street and Wylie avenue, and rents. Credits, including payment of two mortgages, one for $50,000 and one for $17,177 66, are shown, with a balance of $18,823 57.

The second accounting of the trustees of the estate of Maxwell K. Moorhead shows a balance of $247 12 in the income account and $527 96 in the principal account. A schedule of assets attached shows $19,577 96 invested.

Attorney William Scott left an unestimated estate to his widow, with the proviso that in case of her dying first, $10,000 each was to be given his mother and his three sisters in Philadelphia. The balance of the estate goes to his three sons. In a codicil he gives James K. Scott a home in Hows street, valued at $11,700 as a wedding gift, but this is charged against his share of the estate. F. F. Willard of the East End leaves his widow a $10,000 estate if she remains a widow.

Nicholas Roman asks $10,000 damages from Louis Ladas, alleging the latter twice ran away with the plaintiff's wife, once taking $200 of Roman's money.

Judge Miller, in the estate of Emma C. Strickler, decided that a trust created until Mabel, the testatrix's youngest daughter is 23, is not ended because Mabel has got married before reaching that age.

The Globe Glue Company and other creditors of the Phillips Column Company of Allegheny, with claims aggregating $600, filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the concern.

A receiver has been asked for Taylor & Romine, a civil engineering firm of McKeesport, by E. J. Taylor, who says he holds a 70 per cent interest. The other partner is J. R. Romine.

Eliza Young has begun proceedings against Matilda E. Reineman and others to secure the partition of property in Allegheny and Fayette counties under the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Sutmeyer.

Mrs. Eleanor Robinsteen filed an answer to the suit of the Pittsburgh Gas and Electric Fixture Company to recover on notes of $309 for goods furnished. She denies her liability and says she was only a surety. The other signer of the notes was her husband, John Robinsteen.

An amendment has been asked by the Sixth United Presbyterian church to its charter changing the date of its annual meeting from the first Monday of May on a two weeks' notice to the second Wednesday of April and requiring but 10 days' notice to the congregation.

M. E. Hargrave has answered the suit of Flourney Menefee, doing business as the Washington college, an action for tuition on a contract. Hargrave says the plaintiff did not keep an agreement to give his daughter a second floor room and he sets up a counter claim for $25 registry fee, and traveling expenses of his wife and daughter, from Pittsburgh to Washington, D. C., $50 25.

The master to apportion the assets of the boroughs of Edgeworth and Leetsdale and Leet township gives the total assets of $16,345 61 to Leetsdale, which borough is to pay the other borough $3,357 76, and the township $1,503 86. A detailed apportionment was filed.

SETS DATE FOR HEARING.

Judge McClung yesterday made an order fixing Saturday, March 31, as the date for a hearing in the election contest for the office of select council in the Twenty-sixth ward. The contest, which is of a friendly nature, is between David J. McGarey, Republican, and George J. Kambach, Democrat-Citizens candidate.

McGarey, by a mistake of the printer of the official ballot, had his name spelled "David J. McGarvey" on the ballots, and the mistake was not discovered until he had received 661 votes, or enough to win over Kambach. One district discovered the mistake and rectified it, giving him 83 votes under his proper name.

MILL END SALE

75c French Flowers for 10c.

This may sound to you somewhat exaggerated, and to see it in print would probably appear so to us, but were we to state the true worth of these flowers, we believe the proper average would be nearer $1.25 than 75c.

We bought the entire stock of a friend importer, representing more than 25,000 BUNCHES OF FLOWERS IN ALL, including Lilies, Full Bloom Roses, Violets, Rose Buds, Sprays Carnations, Lilies of the Valley, Geraniums, Forget-Me-Nots, Golden Rod, in fact, all flowers that grow—on Sale Friday, and in the lot and all you want, choice..... 10c
